LEAGUE HEARS BRIAND URGE EUROPE UNION; HENDERSON PLEADS FOR DISARMAMENT

CRUISER TAKES EXILED RULER OF ARGENTINA

Hipolito Irigoyen Sails From La Plata by Own Volition.

CAPITAL OF URUGUAY MAY BE DESTINATION

NORMAL CONDITIONS DECLARED RESTORED

Buenos Aires Paper Reveals Alleged Arms Caching by Deposed Executive.

Buenos Aires, Sept. 11 (A.P.).—Just five days after he penned a brief resignation ending an amazing career of political power, Hipolito Irigoyen, the aged former President of the Argentine Republic, was headed into exile tonight aboard the cruiser Belgrano.

The popular assumption was that he is bound for the nearby city of Montevideo, Uruguay, but the government made no official statement as to the destination.

The embarkation was conducted in secrecy today. Irigoyen was in the barracks of the Seventh Infantry at La Plata, where he had been ill since the overthrow, as usual this morning. There were rumors he would go aboard the cruiser some time today, since he had been examined by two government physicians last night and declared fit to travel. But confirmation was not obtainable.

Departs by His Own Choice.

Late in the morning, however, half of the Seventh Regiment went to the central docks—half a mile by motor car from the City of La Plata—and deployed in the surrounding area to prevent the entrance of any one, even newspapermen.

At 11 o'clock, Irigoyen, accompanied by a daughter and his private physician, Dr. Meabe, was placed in a motor car and rushed to the docks. He went aboard the cruiser at 11:35 and 18 minutes later the ship pulled anchor. His departure is said to have been by his own choice.

Irigoyen's downfall began last Friday when, under pressure of his ministers, he "retired" under a constitutional provision and turned the government over to the vice president, Mr. Enrique V. Martinez.

Government House Taken.

This aroused a military-naval coalition which Saturday night marched into Buenos Aires and took over the government house. Martinez and the cabinet resigned while Irigoyen fled to La Plata. There he was arrested, and Sunday morning, just a few minutes after midnight Saturday, he wrote a brief resignation.

He then was informed that he was not under arrest, but in view of his illness was given a bed in the infantry barracks. There he remained until today, his illness described variously as pneumonia, grip or a combination of old age, plus the depression caused by his fall from power.

With the former president out of the country and his leading supporters either refugees or under arrest, the country apparently is calm. The people have returned to work and the government is turning toward financial and diplomatic problems.

Several more persons were arrested today, including the former Deputy Ramon Brizeula. All of those picked up since the new government came in are being held in solitary confinement until their recent activities are investigated.

The chief of general staff in an official communique issued today said that completely normal conditions had been restored throughout the republic and that there no longer was any fear of new disturbances. Public offices and schools were said to be func-

Calvin Coolidge

Says: From the time when President Washington negotiated the Jay Treaty with England up to the present hour, almost every important agreement ratified with a foreign power has been accompanied in the country by bitter criticism of our own Government and wholesale assaults upon the other contracting country. Yet in the light of history, it would be hard to find such an agreement that has not been fairly justified by results. After the bad temper of the period has been dissipated by time and reason, the mutual advantages have been apparent. Our diplomacy has not been inferior. Our statesmen have been able to be just to ourselves and fair to others.

Rancor of such nature not only does not pay but it is not right. We want to live on friendly terms with all the world. Instead of catering to the instinct of the barbarian who considered every stranger an enemy we shall make more progress if we follow the dictates of religious enlightenment which teaches that all men are brothers. The breadth of our civilization is measured in no small part by the attitude of our people toward foreign people.

Harrison and Watson Open Party Drumfire

Mississippi Senator Hits Administration for Ills of Trade.

G. O. P. Chided in Radio Talk for Lack of Leadership.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, who has stuck with the Democratic party through success and adversity, mostly the latter, again sounded the battle call over station WMAL last night and with the same enthusiasm he showed in his political teens.

The recurring defeats over the years have apparently not disillusioned him nor dimmed his eager perspective.

Changing from "the whispering campaign of 1928 into the whimpering campaign of 1930" will avail the Republicans nothing, he taunted, referring to the Republican wailings over the Democratic publicity barrage, and as he spoke, he told his audience he was holding in his hands one of those campaign coins which the Republicans circulated in 1928, reading "Good for four years of prosperity."

"No more is there music in its sound," he exulted. "It falls flat because these coins, as symbols of Republican prosperity, have turned out to be the crudest kind of counterfeits."

No more do the prosperity statements of the "President and his cheer leaders, from Mr. Mellon down," attract any attention, he said.

Answering the Republican charge that the Democrats are crowing about the country's condition and seeking to profit from it, he said that as a matter of fact the Democrats are only trying to place the blame for it, that their hearts go out to the distressed people.

"Our sympathies go out to the thousands who have lost their fortunes in the debacles of this administration," he declared.

Asserting that the public will demand a full discussion of the "real issues," the senator said: "These cry babies of the administration are the same bold men who constituted in large part the snooping and smelling committees that some years ago used the magnifying glass on every act of President Defended by Majority Leader in Speech.

Party Pledges Have Been Redeemed, He Declares.

Linton, Ind., Sept. 11 (A.P.).—Democrats were challenged today by Senator Watson, of Indiana, Republican leader, in a speech opening the fall campaign to offer a program in their bid for support at the forthcoming election.

Senator Watson told the Republican rally here that the administration had redeemed its 1928 campaign pledges of farm relief and agricultural tariff revision. He lauded President Hoover for acting "to avert the full effect of the stock market crash and the drought" and asserted "no one could have acted more speedily or more wisely" than the President.

"The Republican party has acted," said Mr. Watson, whose address was regarded as launching the national campaign of the party in the off-year election. "Those acts speak for themselves, and all there is to set up over and against that record at this time is the assertion of Mr. Jouett Shouse, the alert chairman of the executive committee of the Democratic national committee, that to the pleas of the people the Democratic party will turn a sympathetic and an understanding ear.'

"If the Democrats succeed in carrying the House and Senate, as they are now so confidently asserting they are sure to do, let them take the people into their confidence and inform them as to whether or not they intend immediately to revise the tariff. Let them further say what rates they will change, what increase, what decrease. In the passage of the tariff law, 1,084 amendments were voted for by Democrats and more than that number by insurgent Republicans, their constant allies. Wherein do they expect to change these rates? Let us have something of specific promise and definite assurance as to the future.

"Over and against this vague and misty statement of Mr. Shouse, we plant the achievements of this administration—its passage of a farm

CROSBY PLANS EXTENSION OF MOTOR PATROL

Congress May Be Asked to Purchase More Cars for Police.

SECOND PRECINCT RESULTS PLEASING

Outlying Districts Next to Be Protected by Auto Force.

FREQUENT ROUNDS ARE AIM OF PROJECT

Leaders of House and Senate Will Be Sounded Out in December.

Congress may be asked for a special appropriation for the purchase of additional motor vehicles for the Police Department so that the motor patrol scheme now being used in the Second Precinct can be extended to other precincts, Commissioner Herbert B. Crosby disclosed yesterday.

First results of the plan have been pleasing, Commissioner Crosby said, and unless disadvantages which he does not now foresee develop, he hopes to extend the plan.

Motor patrols have been in use in the department for some time and were greatly extended under the administrations of Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, and his predecessor, Maj. Edwin B. Hesse, but the plan now in use in the Second Precinct goes much further than had been contemplated prior to the time Gen. Crosby ordered it in effect as an experiment.

Cars Replace Patrolmen.

There are no foot patrolmen in the Second Precinct, all foot patrols having been supplanted by men in automobiles, painted blue and with the name of the Police Department and the precinct printed on the sides and on tags below the license plates.

Capt. O. T. Davis, commander of the Second Precinct, has expressed himself as entirely satisfied with the new patrol plan, Gen. Crosby said.

Unless difficulties are put in the way the plan will be eventually extended throughout the city, Gen. Crosby said, but added that there are certain precincts in which the motor patrol might not advantageously be substituted for the foot patrol.

To Sound Out Leaders.

He cited the First Precinct, commanded by Capt. F. S. W. Burke, and which embraces the downtown business district, as one such. But even there, Gen. Crosby said, it probably would be found well to put in use a few motor patrol cars.

The next extension of the motor patrol plan, he said, probably will be in the outlying precincts which cover large residential areas where it is impossible to give as frequent police

Guards at Breweries, Let Out For Laxity, Put Back by Doran

Campbell Work Undone When River of Lager Flowed in City.

Morale of Force Broken Down by Orders From Washington.

Fifth of a series of articles by the former prohibition administrator of the Eastern New York district.

By MAJ. MAURICE CAMPBELL.

Fifteen brewery guards were suspended and dismissed for laxity in New York after the beer season of 1929, when a river of real lager flowed from the spigots of New York.

All but two of them are back in the service now, reinstated last spring by peremptory orders of Prohibition Commissioner Doran, approved by Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Lowman, over my protest.

I wouldn't have them back in my district. Three of them were sent to Detroit, some to Albany and Newark, and some, I think, to Pittsburgh. Washington's assumption is, apparently, that they have learned to give conscientious enforcement from their lessons in New York.

Honest, effective prohibition enforcement presupposes a vigilant, attentive force of dry agents.

Laxity Cause for Dismissal.

Surely, then, laxity gives opportunity for lawbreaking, and is sufficient cause for dismissal.

These fifteen men had been set to watch breweries which had permits to make real beer, to be dealcoholized into near beer. They were supposed to prevent shipment of real beer.

As I have related, this method of supervision inside the breweries had been successful in 1928, so successful that Mr. Lowman had ordered me to withdraw my men and slake the voters' thirst. Strangely enough, after all the Convention Resolution Group Turns Down Declarations for Repeal.

FESS SOUNDS KEYNOTE

Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 11 (A.P.).—Efforts by opponents of prohibition to obtain declarations in the Ohio Republican State platform favoring repeal of the eighteenth amendment or a State referendum on it failed before the resolutions committee at the Republican State convention tonight. Each proposal received only 3 of the 22 votes.

The proposals were presented by State Senator Joseph N. Ackerman, of Cleveland, a member of the drafting committee, and were supported by his two Cleveland colleagues, Frank Harrold, of the Twentieth District, and John R. Jones, of the Twenty-first District.

The two Cincinnati members of the Hamilton County committee, voted

Chicago Air Transport Companies Are Merged

Chicago, Sept. 11 (A.P.).—National Air Transport announced tonight the purchase of Stout Air Services, operating passenger lines between Chicago, Detroit and Cleveland.

Both companies are divisions of the United Aircraft and Transport Corporation, and their activities will be merged as rapidly as possible, Lester D. Seymour, vice president and general manager of N. A. T., said. His company carried airmail and express between New York, Chicago and Dallas.

WETS NOMINATED IN MICHIGAN RACE

Run-Off Between Carswell and Russell Necessary in Georgia.

BYRNES INCREASES LEAD

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 11 (A.P.).—New standard bearers will represent the Republican party in the race for representative in Congress in two Michigan districts in the November general election. Both are wets.

An official canvass of the votes in Tuscola County in the Seventh District today practically assured the nomination of Jesse P. Wolcott, Port Huron attorney, over Louis C. Cramton, the incumbent, always a dry leader in the House. The official canvass gave Wolcott a majority of 119 votes on the face of the complete unofficial returns from other counties.

The apparent removal of Cramton from the congressional picture fol-

CUBS LEAD NATIONAL LEAGUE BY ½ GAME

FOUR CLUBS IN RACE

(Associated Press.)

Once more the St. Louis Cardinals and Brooklyn Robins, virtually tied for second place, drew the National League pennant knot tighter yesterday as they defeated their two most serious rivals, Chicago and New York. With a third successive five-hit pitching performance, the Robins defeated Chicago's league-leading Cubs, 2 to 1, to make a clean sweep of the series, while St. Louis took the third of four clashes from the Giants, 5 to 4, to keep pace with Brooklyn. The victors thus reduced Chicago's lead to the minimum margin of a half game, as each gained one full contest, while the Giants remained only three games behind the defeated Cubs.

The standing of the leaders:

St. Louis...	79	59	.572	16
Brooklyn...	80	60	.571	14
New York..	77	62	.554	15

This mad pennant scramble today may develop good things for the Cubs and Robins, for while they are meeting soft opposition (if the standings mean anything) in the Phillies and Reds, respectively, the Cardinals and Giants still will be battling each other at the Polo Grounds.

The Giants, according to many observers, are strong enough to keep up

Capital Latest Scene In Search for Crater

Justice's Disappearance Leads Officer Here Seeking Girl.

A Nation-wide search for New York Supreme Court Justice Joseph F. Crater, missing since August 7, led to Washington yesterday, when Detective Sergt. Hugh Sheridan, of New York City, arrived here in quest of a pretty night club hostess for requestioning in connection with the strange case.

Asserting that the Washington Police Department has not been asked to cooperate in the hunt for the prominent jurist, both Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, and Inspector William S. Shelby denied that they had talked with Sergt. Sheridan or that they knew of the presence here of any New York police officer.

Sergt. Sheridan nevertheless was seen at police headquarters early yesterday afternoon, and New York authorities admitted that their broadening probe had been shifted momentarily to Washington. Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney in New York announced that investigation in Atlantic City indicated a woman in Washington might have news of the justice. He refused, however, to divulge her name or the nature of the link.

Attention nevertheless centered on a vivacious entertainer of the Club Abbey in New York City, with whom Justice Crater was said to have been seen in the night club just before he vanished. It developed that New York authorities had questioned the woman on the report that she knew Crater, but attached no particular

Meanwhile, New York interest in the mystery was increased upon the announcement yesterday that the judge would have been an important witness before a special grand jury there beginning Monday to hear evidence concerning former New York Magistrate George F. Ewald, whose wife sent $10,000 to Martin J. Healy, Tammany district leader, about the time of her husband's appointment to the bench.

At the same time in New York, Chief Magistrate Joseph Corrigan, deciding that he had no authority to

Baby Girl Eludes Mother; Dies Under Auto's Wheels

Child, Crossing Street on Way to Tiny Park for Breath of Fresh Air, Dashes Directly in Path of Oncoming Motor Vehicle.

An attempt to find relief from the city's heat cost the life last night of little Vivian Fox, 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glendon Fox, of 610 610 I street northwest.

Vivian was being taken by her mother from their home to a tiny triangular park at the intersection of Massachusetts avenue and I street, but their progress to the brown, drought-seared grass plot was not fast enough to suit the impetuous temperament of the youngster.

Crossing I street at Sixth, Vivian broke from her mother's grasp and made a dash toward the park, witnesses said, directly in the path of an automobile driven by William Robinson, colored, of 2042 Tenth street northwest.

Mrs. Fox rushed to save her child's life, but she was handicapped by the burden of another younger baby which she was carrying in her arms. She caught Vivian, but too late. The child's dress had been caught in the fender of Robinson's car, and before he could jam on his brakes, Vivian had been dragged under the machine.

When the car stopped Vivian was under it, and it was necessary for Robinson to reverse the machine so that the little girl could be extricated. The force of the impact also had thrown Mrs. Fox off her balance, so that in her desperate struggle to pull Vivian to safetly and regain her own footing she dropped the other youngster to the pavement without injuring the baby, however.

Robinson immediately placed Vivian in his automobile and sped to Emergency Hospital, but despite the heroic efforts of staff surgeons to save the child's life she died a few minutes later on the operating table.

Mrs. Fox, herself very young, was prostrated by the tragedy when she was told of the death of her oldest baby, which neighbors described as unusually pretty and attractive.

Dean Inge's Idea of Limited Marriage Repels Liberals

"Amazing," Is Opinion of Woman Secretary of Divorce Reform Union When St. Paul's Pessimist Espouses Contract to Tolerate Infidelity.

London, Sept. 11 (A.P.). — Dean Inge, of St. Paul's, the "gloomy dean," who in a recent book took a cheerful view on divorce, met today with some controversial opposition from no less a personage than Mrs. M. L. Seaton-Tiedeman, secretary of the Union for Divorce Law Reform.

The dean had suggested two kinds of marriages, one of the sure-fire type that would be binding forever and the other a limited contract.

Mrs. Seaton-Tiedeman declared today that "outside the intelligentsia there is no real feeling among the people of this country for anything in the nature of a trial of companionate marrage or for free union."

She characterized the suggestions of the dean as "amazing," coming from such a source, and also as "confused and contradictory."

Dean Inge's proposals for revision of marriage and divorce laws already had caused much controversy, not only among churchmen in England but among divorce law reformers as well. And when his newest book, "Christian Ethics and Modern Problems," made its appearance, a mild storm of discussion followed. The dean's suggestion was that marriages should be of two kinds—"A limited contract for persons who do not recognize lifelong vows of fidelity and a marriage wherein man and woman take such vows." The first kind, he contended, should be recognized by the state and the second by the church.

One of the earliest voices speaking from the viewpoint of the church was that of Dr. J. C. Carlile, editor of the Baptist Times, who said the proposals were not new, as the limited contract theory had been advocated for a long time.

"In my judgment it means a cheapening and vulgarizing of the best

Federation Will Not Be Inimical to U. S., Says French Minister.

LAUDS KELLOGG PACT AS MEANS TO PEACE

But View That Reduction Must Await Security Is Denied by Secretary.

LONDON TREATY HELD MERE STEP FORWARD

Proposasl for World Safety Given to Representatives of 50 Countries.

Geneva, Switzerland, Sept. 11 (A.P.).—Two of the great and authoritative voices of the League of Nations were heard in its eleventh assembly today and two theses of the basis of world peace were expounded.

M. Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, pleaded the utility and necessity of a grouping of European nations. Arthur Henderson, foreign secretary for Great Britain, demanded in flat terms that disarmament be accomplished.

In his exposition M. Briand stressed the necessity of an arms reduction, maintaining at the same time the French point of view that full reduction of armaments must be preceded by "absolute security."

Henderson Disputes View.

To this view Mr. Henderson took flat exception. "In our profound belief," he said, "security and disarmament are closely interlocked and nothing can make our peoples truly safe from war until a treaty of general disarmament has been made. Security is impossible if competitive military preparations continue as they are going on today. * * * After all there is none of us who in his heart does not know that of all security measures disarmament is in itself the most important."

Briand turned his idea for a federation of European states over to the assembly in an atmosphere of warm admiration for himself and friendly sympathy for the principle of European collaboration.

His address propounding the plan was much the same speech he made a year ago when the project first was launched from the same rostrum. He attempted no pilotage, no directing, but left it to the nations themselves to establish its definitive form.

Applause for Briand.

He contented himself throughout a discourse of an hour with arguing the necessity of some closer Federal bond between the states of the old continent, and in asserting emphatically that neither the league of nations, the United States, nor any other legitimate regional or international grouping would find it inimical.

There was prolonged applause as M. Briand mounted the rostrum and perfect silence as he started to speak.

He launched into a history of the fight for peace, painting the Briand-Kellogg pact as of infinite value. Then he spoke of the multiplication of pacts of arbitration and friendship which he said greatly multiplied possibilities of peace.

Reduction and suppression, if possible, or armaments, he continued, were phases of a final peace.

Franco-Italian Agreement.

"The work of disarming peoples had met with and would meet with enormous difficulties.

"We have sought among nations of good will toward each other to reach an agreement in these matters," he said of the London conference. "We have obtained in part something of what we wanted," and he added that the league could now consolidate and advance the progress made in London.

He expressed a hope that an agreement would be reached between France and Italy on naval limitation. "I am quite decided in my will," he said, "to await the day when there will be no more war."

NEWS of SUBURBAN Washington and the Surrounding States

Appears on Pages 5, 10, 12, 14 and 24

His hearers gave him the closest attention as he turned then to what he considers his greatest work for peace, the projected federation of European states.

Heartened by Response.

He recalled that when he first laid the idea before the world that he had insisted his proposed federation must be within the framework of the League of Nations. He repeated today that it must rest there.

"We have the unhappiness to inhabit a continent that has suffered a great disaster," he said. "Is there something that can be done for peace? Can these people organize to prevent war?"

He said he knew and realized it would be difficult always to found a union among people so different, but that the real good will would find a solution.

"The conference of European nations accepted the principle three years ago," he said. "It is now before the world. A year's study by the nations of Europe has brought to light, it is true, certain difficulties which were not foreseen at first, but I am satisfied to know from the replies to my memorandum that the response was firm in adherence to the principle of European collaboration."

Cooperation With League.

One objection, M. Briand averred, has been that the proposed union might run counter to the best interests of the League of Nations. This he found false, contending that there was not the least possibility of anything but the closest cooperation between the two organizations, this being particularly true since the League of Nations necessarily would remain above and superior to the European union.

He denied again that the union would run counter to or be in any way inimical to the United States. Statesmen had told him, on the other hand, he declared, that relations between Europe and America could more easily be strengthened by existence of a European organization.

"Twenty-seven nations have studied this question," he concluded. "Twenty-seven nations have said 'yes, it can be done.' There it is before you. Go. March on. Accomplish peace!"

There was a burst of applause as M. Briand with these words quitted the tribune.

Peroration by Henderson.

The British foreign minister told the assembled representatives of 50 nations that while the London Naval Conference had made a valuable contribution to disarmament he considered the London Treaty merely as a preliminary step toward the great goal to which the league's members should direct all their energies.

As for M. Briand's plan for a European federation, the speaker added, the British were happy that M. Briand this morning had placed this in the assembly's hands for development. The British, he declared, welcomed this and all schemes for European collaboration, but these must all be worked out with the framework of the league.

In a stirring peroration, the British secretary characterized disarmaments as "the most vital and urgent of all the political questions which confront the world today."

Rejects French Theory.

The secretary continued, "I appeal to all delegates of the nations represented here to join in a strong and united effort to achieve the great purpose for which the league exists."

ence gathered to hear Secretary Henderson as he turned then to what he considers his greatest work for peace, the projected federation of European states.

Probably not half as large an audidenoon, but it was remarked that the vigorous, aggressive tone of the British minister contrasted vividly with the mild manner of the French veteran.

The British statesman declared with great earnestness that it was "vain to hope for security until a general scheme of disarmament is a reality." He thus squarely rejected the French theory that disarmament must follow measures for security.

Champion of Arbitration.

Mr. Henderson said that the British delegation, while in full sympathy with French Foreign Minister Briand's proposals for a "United States of Europe," believes that action for such a purpose must be taken within the assembly of the League of Nations. He praised the address of M. Briand, which had occupied the morning session of the assembly as "interesting and eloquent."

He said the world's economic ills "could be healed only by international cooperation and Great Britain will support all means to this end. He praised the progress of the movement toward arbitration for the settlement of international disputes during the last year and expressed the hope that the principle of compulsory arbitration might some day be accepted by all nations.

Touching the subject of security, the British statesman declared:

"Security is impossible if cumulative military preparations continue as they are going on today," he added vehemently, "we can never fulfill the purpose for which the league has been created unless we are prepared to carry through a scheme of general disarmament by international agreement."

Standing immediately in front of the German delegation, Mr. Henderson delivered a long eulogy of Dr. Stresemann, the late German chancellor, whose death occurred since the last assembly.

Wants General Disarmament.

Dealing with antiwar measures he asserted: "Great Britain desires above all to see the conclusion of a general disarmament treaty." He expressed the hope that the participating nations would be able to accomplish this part of the Versailles treaty in 1930.

"The authors of the league covenant," said the speaker, "never believed that international cooperation could succeed if national armaments should remain unrestricted and if armament competition should revive. Because of this they inserted in the covenant the obligation to accept a general reduction and limitation of national forces by international treaties. That obligation, he said, has not yet been honored, although it was incurred eleven years ago.

"While welcoming all measures designed to discourage war—arbitration, financial aid to attacked states and all other curbs—the British government considers all these are very small in importance if compared with the vital necessity for general reduction of armaments," Mr. Henderson concluded.

Two Injured Two Safe As Car Hits Lamp Post

Two persons received minor cuts yesterday afternoon when a light car driven by Landreville Ledoux, 513 Seventh street southeast, collided with a lamp post at the intersection of that street and South Carolina avenue. The injured were Mr. Ledoux's wife, Bertha, and his 65-year-old mother, Mrs. Ida Mae Ledoux. Both were treated at Providence Hospital.

Mr. Ledoux and his 11-year-old son, Landreville, jr., escaped injury. The driver told police that he lost control of the car in attempting to dodge a pedestrian.

Stromboli Volcano Pours Stream of Lava Onto Italian Village.

AEOLIAN ISLANDS HIT

Messina, Italy, Sept. 11 (A.P.).—At least five persons were killed and several score injured, some seriously, in a simultaneous earthquake and eruption of Stromboli Volcano near here today.

The eruption blew off the cone of Stromboli, which is on the island of the same name in the Aeolian group near here, and poured burning rock on the town of Stromboli and the villages of Gimostra and San Bartolo.

Four of the dead were killed at Stromboli and one at Gimostra. All 400 houses in the former town were made uninhabitable by the great stream of lava which descended.

Fields around ruined towns were destroyed and flourishing vineyards were wiped out by the searing river. Many buildings were set on fire.

Five ships, including four war vessels, were sent from here to aid the stricken region. They carried food, tents and medical supplies as well as fire fighters and officials.

The volcano soon returned to its normal activity.

Lipari Island, where the Italian government confines noted political and other prisoners, felt the earthquake at the same time as Stromboli.

There was an instant panic, and the several hundred soldiers garrisoned on the island were turned out for special guard duty. Those on Lipari were able to see Stromboli erupt.

All the Aeolian Island felt the earth shocks.

ARRESTS DECREASE FROM 1928 RECORD

Total Number of Cases Made Drops 20 Per Cent in Last Month.

WHISKY SEIZURES DROP

To judge from the number of arrests for various crimes during last August, compared with the same month of 1929, Washington is rapidly freeing herself from crime. Arrests for grand larcenies, for instance, dropped from 76 for August, 1929, to only 40 for August, 1930, the monthly Police Department report reveals. There was, however, a slight increase in the number of housebreaking cases.

Apparently gambling is decreasing likewise, as arrests for violations of lottery laws dropped from 29 for last year to 5 for the corresponding period this year. Charges of setting up a gaming table were reduced from twelve for the period lost year to three this year.

The total number of arrests for felonies show an increase from 363 to 408, though the total number of persons charged with misdemeanors dropped from 2,950 to 2,499 for 1930. Traffic arrests for August of this year were 2,940, compared with more than 5,000 for the same period last year.

Arrests Decrease 20 Per Cent.

The total arrests decreased about 20 per cent from nearly 11,000 to 8,671. There has been a consistent decrease in the number of persons arrested this summer with the number arrested during the summer of 1929.

Coincident with the increase in traffic arrests, there was an increase in the number of accidents, from 429 last year to the current number of 653. The number of deaths due to traffic is at the same number, 6, for both this year and last, but it is 1 more for July, when only 5 were killed.

Seizures of whisky were almost cut in half with 11,199 quarts seized for August, 1929, and 6,732 quarts for August, 1930.

Increase in Beer Seizure.

There was a slight increase in the number of bottles of beer confiscated. Seizures of stills and mash showed a distinct decrease, with two stills taken in August, 1929, and none seized during the same period of 1930. The report shows 1,155 gallons of mash taken last year during August, and only 190 gallons seized in the same month this year. This total is far less than for the two preceding months, with 1,824 gallons taken in June and 3,165 in July of this year.

Suicides decreased from 10 to 4, and attempts at suicide dropped from 31 to 18. The total number arrested for violation of the Volstead law was 460 in August, 1929, and 329 for that month of 1930.

13 KILLED, 35 HURT DURING IRAK RIOTS

Trouble Near Government Offices Is Started by Kurds.

PROTEST OVER TREATY

Bagdad Irak, Sept. 11 (A.P.).—Thirteen persons were killed and 35 injured in a riot today outside the government offices at Sulaimani. Officials said the disorder was caused by Kurds, who were dissatisfied with the new Anglo-Irak Treaty.

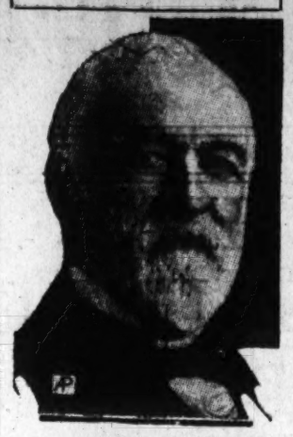
The relations between Great Britain and Irak, which was made a British mandate under the League of Nations, have long been a source of bitterness in Irak. Sir Abdul Muhsin Es-Saadun, prime minister, committed suicide last Uovember 13, leaving a letter saying he could no longer endure the treatment his own people accorded him because of his relations with the British.

"They have thought me a traitor to my country and a servant of the British," his letter ended.

Later the British government presented to the league mandate commission a recommendation that the mandate be ended in the near future. The treaty in question was signed August 20 last.

It was to come into force as soon as Irak was accepted as a member of the League of Nations.

CRITICALLY ILL



MAJ. CHARLES M. STEDMAN.

DEAN OF CONGRESS BELIEVED NEAR END

Maj. Stedman, Representative From North Carolina, Taken to Hospital.

NOW IN HIS 90TH YEAR

Sole surviving Civil War veteran in Congress and possibly with one exception the oldest man to have served there, Maj. Charles M. Stedman, representative from the Fifth North Carolina district, last night neared the close of an eventful life.

The 89-year-old member lay critically ill in Mount Alto Hospital, where he was taken Tuesday stricken with apoplexy. While the end was not expected immediately, physicians held out virtually no hope for his recovery. With him was his daughter, Mrs. Katherine Palmer, also of his home town of Greensboro.

A picturesque figure, the aged representative began his service in the House in 1911 at the age of 70 years and successively was returned to the office. Even though he rarely missed attendance during sessions of Congress, he came to a realization early this year that his sagging strength would no longer permit him to make these trips to the Hill, and on January 29 he announced that at the end of his present term he would retire.

The decision occasioned widespread regret, both in his constituency and among his colleagues, who during recent years have paid him numerous tributes in the House upon his birthdays. Upon his eighty-fifth birthday, the House accorded him the exceptional honor of suspending its proceedings to allow each member to file past him and shake his hand.

With the exception only of "Uncle Joe" Cannon, of Illinois, whose death occurred in 1926 at the age of 90 years, Maj. Stedman is regarded as the oldest man ever to have served in Congress. Upon the death last November of Senator Francis E. Warren, of Wyoming, his junior in age, Maj. Stedman became the last Civil War veteran there, the former having served in the Union Army, while Maj. Stedman fought for the Confederacy, finally surrendering at Appomattox with Lee.

Maj. Stedman bears a striking resemblance to the Confederate general, gray-headed, gray-bearded and of benign expression. To all he is the "Major," the rank he earned in the Lost Cause.

POLITICAL MOVES CITED

Linton, Ind., Sept. 11 (A.P.).—Talking himself into a state of near exhauston, United States Senator James E. Watson today officially launched the Indiana Republican political campaign here today before a crowd estimated at 20,000.

At one time during his address, the Senate administration leader had to stop for a 15-minute rest, turning the crowd over to Representative Fred S. Purnell, of the Ninth Indiana District. He finished his long address with old friends repeatedly beseeching him to stop before he overdid himself.

The long extra session of Congress during which he was unable to get proper rest, food, or exercise, Senator Watson said, was responsible for his condition. M. Burt Thurman, Republican national committeeman and manager of Senator Watson's campaign for the presidential nomination in 1928, said after today's meeting that the long speaking program originally arranged for the veteran senator would be curtailed because of his fatigue.

MOSES SEES HOOVER; DEPARTS FOR WEST

Head of Senate Campaign Committee Plans to Do "Lot of Listening."

MOVE EVOKES SURPRISE

(Associated Press.)

After conferring yesterday with President Hoover, Senator Moses, of New Hampshire, the chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee, set out for the northwest States, some of whose Republican senators he once termed the "sons of wild jackasses."

The departure of Senator Moses for this region came somewhat as a surprise here in view of the decision of the senatorial campaign committee last June that it would be best to place Senator Steiwer, of Oregon, in charge of the campaign in that territory. Senator Moses was to handle Eastern campaign matters.

Just what brought about the change in program was not disclosed. The new plan calls for a joint campaign trip through the Northwest area by Moses and Steiwer. The New Hampshire senator disclosed sometime ago that he had been requested by some of the senatorial candidates in the West to visit them, but some of the party leaders believed it best that Mr. Moses confine his activities to the East.

The only comment of the outspoken Senator Moses after his call on the President was that he intended to do "a lot of high-powered listening" out West.

Mr. Moses said he expected to visit Illinois, Minnesota, Colorado, South Dakota, Montana, Wyoming and possibly Oklahoma and Kansas where Republicans are fighting to retain their strength.

WET PLANK BARRED BY G. O. P. OF OHIO

against the two propositions, though Cincinnati is rated with Milwaukee as being one of the wettest cities in the Nation.

The proposition for a referendum, which is advocated by National Committeeman Maurice Maschke, of Cleveland, was first submitted by Senator Ackerman and voted down, 19 to 3. The repeal proposal then was submitted and met with a similar fate. State Chairman Schorr, speaking against adoption of the proposed planks, was reported by Ackerman as having stated that though he might feel as Ackerman does toward prohibition, he considered prohibition is not an issue in the campaign and therefore such declarations should be kept out of the State platform.

The resolutions committee is slated to adopt a plank calling for strict enforcement of all laws, including the prohibition laws. It has the approval of Senator Simeon D. Fess, national executive chairman, and therefore is understood to have the approval of the national administration.

Senator Ackerman left the resolutions committee soon after defeat of his two antiprohibition planks and said he will attempt to bring them before the convention tomorrow.

President Hoover was invited to dedicate the tomb of the late President Harding at Marion in a resolution submitted by Fred W. Warner, Marion, former State chairman.

President Hoover is to be in Cleveland August 2, and the invitation asked him to go to Marion on the occasion of his visit to the State to dedicate the tomb "with fitting ceremonies" at any time convenient to him. Chairman Fess referred it to the resolutions committee without debate.

The new tariff law will be the instrument through which prosperity will be returned to the Nation, Mr. Fess declared in a keynote speech.

Senator Fess also said that the present depression in business is only a cycle which always follows a peak of such industrial activity as experienced during the last two years. The depression, which is prevalent throughout most of the world, was late in reaching the United States, Senator Fess said, and added that this country will be the first to rally from its effects.

The Republican chairman urged the delegates to go before the voters in November on a record of accomplishments of Republican administrations both State and national. This request was seconded by Ohio's junior senator, Roscoe E. McCulloch, and Gov. Myers Y. Cooper.

Both Senator McCulloch and the governor affirmed their unequivocal stand in favor of prohibition and its strict enforcement. Senator Fess ignored the question in his address, but he has opposed making the question an issue.

Mr. Gardner Weds Miss Stott.

Staunton, Va., Sept. 11 (Special).—Mr. and Mrs. John Stott announce the marriage of their daughter, Mabel, to William Leonard Gardner, of York, S. C. The wedding took place at noon Wednesday in Trinity Episcopal Church, the Rev. John J. Gravatt, the rector, officiating. Only the immediate families were present.

Reformers Clear Indian Temples of Dancing Girls

Measures to Abolish Their Dedication to Church as Part of Hindu Ritual Undertaken in Order to "Save Womanhood" of Nation.

Trivandrum, Travancore, India, Sept. 11 (A.P.).—Measures to bring about abolition of the Devadasi system whereby young girls were dedicated to the temples as part of the Hindu ritual have been completed in the State of Travancore. Hereafter men will take the place of the dancing girls in all the places of worship.

The movement "to purify the temples and save the womanhood of India from a sore eating into the vitals of "society," as the reformers call it, is also under way in other parts of India.

Her Highness Setulakshmi Bayi, maharani regent of Travancore, has been given the credit of initiative in doing away with the Devadasi temple system which for centuries has been maintained by the state.

Her highness made a chance visit to a temple of worship where there were dancing girls and soon afterward the regent abolished the system of service with instructions that men be appointed to take the places of the girls.

The girls did all the cleaning work at the temples, this being part of their duties from childhood when they were turned over by their families to the temple priests for the remainder of their natural life. Many of them ran away and instead of returning to their homes often took up their abodes in questionable neighborhoods.

Travancore has an area of about 8,000 square miles and a population of more than 4,000,000. The state occupies the southwest portion of the Indian Peninsula.

lowed the defeat of Grant M. Hudson, former State Antisaloon League superintendent in the Sixth District, the largest congressional division in the country. State Senator Seymour H. Person, noted for his wet stand in the State law-making body, rolled up such a commanding lead that Hudson conceded his defeat before all returns were in.

Other incumbent representatives weathered the primary in good shape. They included a militant wet Representative Robert H. Clancy, and two who had Antisaloon League support.

Senator James Couzens' lead over Chase S. Osborn, former governor, was nearly 270,000 in 3,114 of the State's 3,317 precincts.

The Associated Press tabulation in the governorship race showed Wilber M. Brucker, youthful attorney general, had a plurality of 4,758 votes over Alex J. Groesbeck, former governor, with only one precinct missing. Groesbeck had not conceded defeat, and his campaign manager hinted that a recount may be asked.

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 11 (A.P.).—Richard B. Russell, jr., led a field of five in the Georgia gubernatorial primary yesterday and will go into a run-off primary October 4 with George M. Carswell to decide the nominee.

Russell polled 140 county unit votes from 53 counties, while Carswell amassed 124 county unit votes from 46 counties.

E. D. Rivers, former State senator was third in the race with 84 county unit votes from 36 counties and John N. Holder, former chairman of the State highway board, was fourth with 66 unit votes from 26 counties. The fifth candidate, James A. Perry, did not record any county unit votes.

Harris Wins Easily.

William J. Harris, senior United States senator, took every county in the State except one. This was Evans County, which gave its two unit votes to former Gov. John M. Slaton, who had opposed Senator Harris.

Eleven of Georgia's representatives were returned for another term, but Representative Thomas M. Bell, dean of the delegation, was apparently defeated by Judge John Wood, of Canton.

Representative W. C. Lankford in the Eleventh District easily outdistanced his opponent, Dr. A. D. Williams. In the Fifth District, of which Atlanta is a part, Representative Robert C. W. Ramspeck carried every county. His opponent was Allen M. Pierce a merchant of Atlanta.

Byrnes' Majority Increases.

Columbia, S. C., Sept. 11 (A.P.).—Complete unofficial returns from Tuesday's Democratic primary today placed Ibra C. Blackwood's majority over Olin D. Johnston for the nomination as governor at 998 votes.

The vote was: Blackwood, 118,508; Johnston, 117,510.

The majority of James F. Byrnes over Senator Cole L. Blease in the race for the Senate was increased to more than 5,000 by the complete returns. The vote: Byrnes, 120,038; Blease, 114,305.

Yale Dean Nominated.

Eastern Point, Conn., Sept. 11 (A.P.).—Dr. Wilbur L. Cross, retired dean of the Yale Graduate School, was nominated today as the Democratic candidate for governor at the State convention. He was selected by acclamation. There were no other nominations.

The preamble of the platform presented to the convention held the Republican party responsible for the present industrial depression. The outstanding planks in it called for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act and a declaration that the State should be ruled by its people and "not by and for the benefit of an invisible machine." Most of the other planks dealt with State problems.

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 11 (A.P.).—Representative Lin H. Hadley, Republican, was renominated for Congress in the Second Washington District over Payson Peterson, returns from Tuesday's primary election showed today. With 569 of 584 precincts counted, Hadley had 19,252 and Peterson 18,008.

Curran Sees Warning In Victories of Wets

(Associated Press.)

Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, said in a statement yesterday the defeats of dry Republicans in Michigan and Washington "are direct warnings to Republican leaders to wake up and get at the real opinion of their Republican followers."

"If they don't do it pretty soon the Democrats will do it for them on election day," he added.

He recommended that the heads of the Republican national committee "sit down together and try to realize what is happening among Republicans when three such stalwart Republican districts as the Sixth and Seventh Michigan and the First Washington throw out the dry and replace him by a wet in Republican primary."

"Up in Vermont—the only State besides Utah which went for Mr. Taft in 1912—the rock-ribbed Republican congressional district west of the Green Mountains gives Mr. Drenhan, the wet Republican candidate for the nomination 10,000 votes, while his opponent, Gov. Weeks, the most popular man in Vermont since he handled flood relief, receives only 3,000 more to secure the nomination," he said.

ROOSEVELT'S MOVE FIRES DEMOCRATS

Statement Adds Impetus for Rum Repeal Plank in G. O. P. Platform.

TUTTLE PLACE ASSURED

New York, Sept. 11 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Gov. Roosevelt's declaration for repeal of the eighteenth amendment injected a new enthusiasm into Democratic leaders in New York and was greeted by John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, as a solution of the liquor question based upon the Democratic principle of State's rights which should command the support of dry Democrats as well as wet ones.

At the same time it gave tremendous impetus to the movement for a repeal plank in the Republican State platform.

Without opposition from Washington, the nomination of United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle, who will declare for repeal shortly after the primary, September 16, for governor is assured. Mr. Tuttle is expected to make his declaration for repeal after the primary, September 16, and not later than September 22, the Monday before the Republican Station convention.

Mr. Tuttle, it may be said upon excellent authority, has within the last 48 hours received assurance of William H. Hill, early Hoover leader of the Southern tier bloc, that Mr. Hill wants him as the candidate for governor regardless of what he says upon prohibition.

Mr. Hill is the leader whose statement last Saturday that he considered Mr. Tuttle "dry enough" to meet the views of the Southern tier, prompted Mr. Tuttle to declare that he wished consideration of his nomination to be suspended until he had made clear his views on certain "subjects under debate."

The only remaining question on the Republican side appears to be whether there will be a repeal plank in the platform. Mr. Tuttle, it is taken for granted, will not accept the nomination if the platform contains anything inconsistent with his views. O the other hand, many of the Republican leaders hope that he will not insist upon a wet plank, but will be content with nothing, or, with a "law enforcement" plank. Republican State Chairman William J. Mier is said to hold this hope, but was completely unsuccessful today in an attempt to "sound out" Tuttle on it.

Such thorough-going wets as Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler and Henry H. Curran, head of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, gave warning that there must be a repeal plank or the Republican party will be overwhelmingly defeated in the State this fall.

Drys Plan Third Candidate.

Mr. Curran said specifically that a wet candidate without a wet plank would not be satisfactory to his organization. If Mr. Tuttle declares himself for repeal the organized drys are expected to enter a third candidate regardless of what the Republican platform says. Upstate leaders in both major parties estimated their strength at not more than 150,000 votes.

The timing of Gov. Roosevelt's declaration was considered shrewd in both Republican and Democratic camps. Mr. Tuttle's friends admit that it has taken the edge off the effect of his own declaration.

They believe, however, that as a Republican wet, he will hold in the party many wets who have been in the habit of voting for Alfred E. Smith for governor and who would vote for Gov. Roosevelt this year if the Republican candidate were a dry.

Want Him Wetter.

Some of them would have him try to be a trifle wetter than Roosevelt by declaring for repeal of the amendment without mentioning any substitute to give Federal protection to dry States.

Democratic wets, however, found no fault with this phase of Gov. Roosevelt's declaration.

Former Gov. Smith said: "It is most gratifying to read Gov. Roosevelt's statement on prohibition. It is a straightforward presentation of his conclusions. It was exactly what was to be expected from him after the deep and careful consideration which he gave the entire subject."

What Raskob Said.

National Chairman Raskob expressed himself in the following telegra mto Gov. Roosevelt:

"Hearty congratulations on your clear statement regarding prohibition. You have struck a new note which I feel will place the Democratic party solidly behind the program to restore temperance and temperate living in our country. Your suggestion is admirable. It recognizes the principle of State rights or home rule through returning control of liquor to the States with provision that local option will maintain, thus giving every city, town and village in a wet State the right to prohibit liquor within its borders by local referendum.

"It also proves that it shall be the duty of the Federal Government to protect States which continue to prohibit liquor. Amplifying this thought it would be my suggestion that the Federal Government recognize the sanctity of the sovereignty of each of our 48 States and every State retaining prohibition laws should have its navigable water boundaries protected by the Federal Government against liquor invasions and also every State should have the right to call on the Federal Government to help in the matter of giving similar protection to its own boundaries.

Should Assist States.

"If a modern nation invaded one of our sovereign States, the Federal Government would immediately assist that State in repelling the enemy and maintaining its sovereignty. Likewise the Federal Government should assist State governments in maintaining respect for laws, particularly where interstate commerce is involved.

"This new thought should receive great applause from the Southern members of our party, because it at once restores respect for States rights and home rule, more able defenders of which principle never existed than in our Southern States and statesmen, and it gives to our dry States not only all the Federal protection they enjoy today, but of vastly more importance is the fact that it will enable effectual enforcement of State prohibition laws because they will represent public opinion and will fit exactly each local condition.

"Your letter to Senator Wagner should place the Democratic party forcibly behind the recognition of States rights and home rule, without which recognition our party can not be truly Democratic. The principle of States rights or home rule is the foundation of Democracy."

the Democratic administration, trying to discover something that might discredit it."

"Never in the history of this country," he declared, "has the confidence of the public in those who direct the affairs of the Government been so shaken and our whole economic machinery so thrown out of gear. Surely the great engineer has lost his art, and the old ship of state is floundering without our keel or chart."

He ridiculed Senator Fess' battle cry, "Don't blame us."

"Who is to be blamed if not the Republican party?" he asked. "Is it not in control of the Presidency, the Congress and every branch of the National Government?"

Acceptance Speech Cited.

Quoting from Mr. Hoover's acceptance speech that "every man has a right to ask of us whether the United States is a better place for him, his wife and his children to live in because the Republican party has conducted the Government for nearly eight years. Every woman has a right to ask whether her life, her home, her man's job, her hopes, her happiness will be better assured by the continuance of the Republican party in power," the senator said:

"Carrying out that philosophy, the electorate of the Nation in November, by their votes, can answer Mr. Hoover. You can not vote for or against him, but you will be permitted for the first time since he was elected to give expression of approval or disapproval of the actions of those men and women in the House of Representatives and the United States Senate coming up for reelection this year who are responsible with him for the record of this administration."

The senator said: "We cheerfully give credit to the present administration for the tremendous development and popularity of miniature golf and the tree-sitting craze, which have done so much to help solve the unemployment problem and add to the prosperity of the country."

Lack of Leadership Attacked.

He attacked the President for his indecision and lack of leadership in the tariff fight, asserted that the tariff had brought retaliation by foreign countries, and declared:

"This country has grown too large to support her industries by supplying merely the domestic market. The economic need is to get rid of the surplus, he pointed out.

Answering Senator Watson's question as to what the Democrats would do if they had the power, Harrison said it was shown in the Democrats' record in the farm relief, veterans and tariff legislation.

"If it were within our power we would restore, either through commercial agreements or a modification of the inexcusable and exorbitant rates, the good relations that have existed heretofore between this country and our foreign customers," he said. "We would, in the imposition of every tariff rate, base them upon the recommendations of a fair, able, uninfluenced tariff commission of experts within certain directions laid down to them, upon which the cost of production here and abroad should be ascertained." The rates would be based on that difference, he said, and would be made by Congress, in such a way as to prevent such "notorious bartering and trading" as attended the "Grundy bill."

bill, its enactment of a tariff law, its rehabilitation of our Merchant Marine, its solid measures for further providing for the soldiers of the republic, its consolidation of all agencies for enforcement of the prohibition law under one head, and many other measures too numerous to recite, the results of a hearty and sympathetic cooperation between the President and the Congress.

"What do the Democrats now propose by way of remedy for all the ills they so glibly describe?"

"As finally enacted, the tariff bill made very few changes in nonagricultural items, and all such alterations amounted to but 6.25 per cent as compared to 98.75 per cent of items in the agricultural groups."

Tariff Revision Cited.

"Who is it that can charge with any hope of effecting a lodgement in the mind of the average American citizen, that this is an industrial and not an agricultural revision of the tariff?"

Referring to the Farm Board set up under the Hoover administration Senator Watson praised its personnel and said the board was carrying out the duties placed upon it by Congress.

He asked "what different policy would any Democrat have pursued had he been President?"

Lewis Opens Fight In Illinois Race

Demands Sovereignty Be Returned to States in Rum Control.

Shelbyville, Ill., Sept. 11 (A.P.).—James Hamilton Lewis, Democrtaic nominee for the United States Senate, today opened his speaking campaign with a demand that sovereignty be returned to the States in the matter of liquor control. He spoke both here and at Jacksonville.

Mr. Lewis advocated temperance laws, but demanded they be at the discretion of the States and enforced by officers known to and elected by the people of their own communities.

His Republican opponent, Ruth Hanna McCormick, he termed "the Chicago City Hall candidate" and said of her that she offered nothing to take the place of prohibition in the event the people of Illinois favor repeal in the November referendum and she keeps her bargain to abide by the verdict.

Reformed Church Synod Adjourned

Huntington, Pa., Selected as Meeting Place for Next Year.

Salisbury, N. C., Sept. 11 (A.P.).—Abbe Reformed Church, Huntington, Pa., today was selected as the next meeting place of the Potomac Synod of the Reformed Church in America. The meeting will open October 31, 1931. The synod concluded its fifty-eighth annual meeting with reports of committees and appointment of chairmen of standing committees.

An economic system designed to "serve human needs rather than grind out profits for a privileged few" was named today as the solution for the unemployment problem by the synod.

The discussion of unemployment was contained in the social service report of Charles D. Rockel, Altoona, Pa., which was adopted in full. It set forth that overproduction and the marchine age were not responsible for unemployment, but the present economic system.

MRS. KNOX, WIDOW OF SENATOR, DEAD

Succumbs to Hardening of Arteries at Hospital in Atlantic City.

SON IS BY SIDE AT END

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 11 (N.Y. W.N.S.).—Mrs. Philander C. Knox, widow of the Secretary of State during the Taft administration and long a prominent figure in Washington society, died in the Atlantic City Hospital today of arteriosclerosis. She was 75 years old and had been in ill health for several months.

Mrs. Knox came here from her home at Valley Forge, Pa., early in the summer in the hope that the climate would improve her health. Almost from the beginning of her stay, however, she was troubled with illness and a week ago her condition became worse. Her physician ordered her to the hospital, but she failed to rally.

At her bedside when she died were her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Tyndel, of Berwyn, Pa.; a son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Reed Knox, of Cape May, N. J.; another son, Philander C. Knox, jr., of Washington, and two grandchildren, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Reed Knox.

Born Lilly Smith, daughter of a wealthy Pittsburgh steel manufacturer, Mrs. Knox was married to the late Secretary of State while he was a practicing attorney in Pittsburgh. Although she inclined toward a quiet life and missed few opportunities to escape from the active life in Washington for the quiet of the Knox home at Valley Forge, she was known as an unusually gracious hostess and as the wife of a senator and Cabinet officer admirably discharged her social duties.

She took a great interest in the place at Valley Forge. She was a lover of horses and at one time was the owner of a pair of horses that held the pole trotting record of Washington.

She was an intimate friend of Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt and while her husband was Attorney General in the Roosevelt Cabinet spent a great deal of her time in Mrs. Roosevelt's company.

While no definite funeral arrangements have been announced, it is understood that the funeral service will be held in Philadelphia and interment will be in Valley Forge.

NICHOLLS IS SILENT ON FEE FOR DIVORCE

Artist Husband of Daughter of Mrs. Vanderbilt Given $100,000, Report.

CULT ROMANCE BROKEN

Reno, Nev., Sept. 11 (A.P.).—Winfield J. Nicholls, who filed a divorce action here Tuesday against Barbara Rutherfurd Hatch Nicholls, daughter of Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, sr., refused to deny or confirm today a report that he had received $100,000 from Mrs. Vanderbilt to divorce her daughter.

Mr. Nicholls, an artist, requested his attorney to have the divorce complaint sealed when it was filed, but it is understood to contain no mention of a property settlement.

The action will be tried next Saturday or Monday.

New York, Sept. 11 (A.P.).—The divorce action filed by Winfield J. Nicholls, at Reno, Nev., against Mrs. Barbara Rutherfurd Nicholls is the second attempt he has made to sever the legal bonds which bind the two former members of the cult of "Oom the Omnipotent."

In 1928 he filed an annulment action in New York Supreme Court, alleging that his wife was insane. The action failed. At the time he said that he had been separated from his wife for three years. They were married in 1924.

The two met while they were members of the colony of Dr. Pierre Bernard at Nyack, N. Y. Mrs. Nicholls had been sent to the colony by her mother, Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, who had contributed large sums to its support and had great faith in the healing powers of Dr. Bernard.

Mrs. Nicholls is understood to be in Paris with their two children. Mr. Nicholls, who is known in artistic circles as Mortimer K. Hargis, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Nicholls, of California.

TERRELL REAPPEARS AT MOTHER'S HOTEL

Reported Victim of Long's Kidnaping Is Reticent About Affair.

SAYS HE WENT FISHING

El Dorado, Ark., Sept. 11 (A.P.).—James Terrell who, with Sam Irby, disappeared from their hotel at Shreveport a week ago, reappeared at the home of his mother here today, after what he said was a week's fishing trip with a party of friends.

Terrell, appearing agitated under the questioning of newspapermen, was reticent concerning a reported kidnaping that brought Gov. Huey P. Long of Louisiana into a Federal habeas corpus hearing at New Orleans Tuesday.

He told his mother, Mrs. H. C. Hasselroth, proprietress of a hotel here, that he had not been forcibly removed from his hotel. He said he joined a party of friends to go fishing on an island in the Gulf of Mexico which, he later learned, was Grand Isle. "I don't know anything about this kidnaping," he said, "except what I have read since I got back to New Orleans Tuesday night. I certainly have not been kidnaped. I went fishing with Irby and several others of my own free will."

He refused to elaborate on his statement beyond insisting he had not gone to Shreveport to file a suit against Gov. Long.

Terrell, with Samuel Irby, was reported taken by State police from a Shreveport hotel a week ago, while they were alleged to have been contemplating insittuting a suit against Gov. Long for slander.

A telegram, later admitted by Gov. Long as sent by himself, and signed by Terrell, was received by Mrs. Hasselroth here to the effect her son was well and "okeh." Orby appeared in Federal court at New Orleans yesterday.

British Girl Given Special U. S. Visa

Elsa Hewitt, Daughter of Laborite Member, Is Admitted.

(Associated Press.)

An order to admit to the United States Miss Elsa Hewitt, daughter of a labor member of the British Parliament, was issued yesterday by the Labor Department.

Miss Hewitt was detained at Ellis Island, N. Y., last Thursday, when she arrived to teach music at the Manumit School, a labor preparatory institution at Pawling, N. Y. Immigration officials held that she had the wrong kind of visa for admission as a teacher.

The decision was appealed to the Labor Department, which began negotiations with the State Department to obtain a new visa for Miss Hewitt. The State Department changed her visa and Immigration Commissioner Hull immediately ordered that she be admitted.

THIRD SKULL NOTED ON ANDREE PICTURE

MAY HAVE BEEN FRANKEL

New York, Sept. 11 (A.P.).—The possibility that a third skull may have been photographed unknowingly and left behind by the Norwegian expedition of Dr. Gunnar Norn, which solved the 33-year-old mystery of the disappearance of the Swedish balloonist, Dr. Solomon August Andree, developed here today.

When a photograph of the landing place of the expedition was enlarged by the Associated Press late last night a well-preserved skull was found resting among rocks on the desolate terrain of White Island. Cables to Oslo and London developed the fact that no one there had noticed the object, which blended into the picture so completely.

As far as could be ascertained expedition leaders were in ignorance of the relic shown in the picture of the landing place and it may be that this is the one located by the newspaper expedition aboard the whaler Isbjoern last Sunday. The newspaper expedition, which set out to search for the returning Horn party aboard the Bratvaag, proceeded to White Island after they had missed the Norwegian scientist. Cables September 7 told of the finding of additional relics of the balloon party, including a skull.

Horn Story Recalled.

In Dr. Horn's own story he described in detail the place where the skull and bones believed to be that of Andree were found. He said it was under the wall of a mountain. Between two mounds of earth a short distance away from Andree's remains were found the remains of a second member of the party.

The picture in which the apparently overlooked skull is shown does not fit into either of these descriptions. It is a flat waste space at the edge of the ocean which was photographed only to show the difficult landing made by the expedition.

Melting snows have left patches of earth and in the foreground, blended into rounded knobs of rocks, is the grim relic of this long lost expedition.

While it is not possible to ascertain if there are additional relics hidden among the rocks, it is pointed out that bears might easily have moved the skull at any previous period during the long silence which shrouded the expedition's fate.

All descriptions of the findihg of the original relics tell of their being buried in the snow and ice. The skull in the picture of the landing place lies among rocks in a melted patch.

Overlooked in Excitement.

It is quite possible the relic may have been overlooked because of the excitement of expedition members who made the find, and the fact that the picture was brought out with such speed and with so many others that editors overlooked it. The fact that it carried the matter of fact label, "Place where Horn expedition landed at White Island," doubtless lessened interest of European editors who handled these pictures and who were eager to get to those labeled "relics."

Attempts are being made to get Dr. Horn to identify the picture and if he verifies the surmises it probably will clear up the fate of the missing member of the party, probably Knut Frankel. The two skeletons brought back by Dr. Horn were tentatively identified as those of Andree and Nils Strindberg.

This brave trio set out in July, 1897, in a balloon from Spitzbergen in an attempt to fly over the North Pole. They sailed away into the mists and it was only a month ago that their fate was disclosed.

Property Rights to Be Fixed.

Stockholm, Sept. 11 (A.P.).—A Swedish-Norwegian committee consisting of four legal authorities has been instituted by governments of Sweden and Norway to investigate all questions of property rights in connection with the diary and other objects belonging to the Andree expedition.

The Swedish press today urged that no further delay be permitted in publication of the diary, which was recovered when the bodies of Salomon August Andree and his two companions were found on White Island after they had lain 33 years in the camp where they died.

There was a feeling in some quarters that the government might alter its previous plans and permit publication of the diary before the government ship Svenskund returns here.

Burial Place Decided.

Stockholm, Sept. 11 (A.P.).—The question of where the bones of Salomon Auguste Andree are to be buried has been answered by his friend and classmate at the Institute of Technology in Stockholm, Arthur Leffler.

Mr. Leffler recalled that at the grave of his mother in Grenna, where Andree was born, the explorer once said: "No matter where I may be found after death, I wish to be buried beside my mother."

Mrs. Andree died April 29, 197, two weeks before the Andree expedition started for Spitzbergen the last time. She had been a widow since 1871. Her son was much devoted to her and always kept her informed of his plans. Being unmarried, his personal affections were centered in his mother.

Personal Interest Gone.

When announcing her death he said to one of his friends:

"Now my purely personal interest in the expedition is all gone. Of course, I am still interested in the realization of my idea; I have the same responsibility for my companions, but of personal joy in an eventual success there is not a trace. The only thread that bound me to a desire for life has been cut off."

To the questino of why he never married, Andree replied:

"I don't want to run the risk of having a wife to ask me with tears to desist from my flights, because at that moment my affectino for her, no matter how strong, would be so dead that nothing could call it to life again."

Daughter of Decedent Sought.

Police of Providence, Rhode Island, have asked local authorities to search for the daughter of a man named Fred Kirwin, who died yesterday in the Northern city. Papers left by Kirwin showed that he had had a daughter here, but did not disclose her name. Police will canvass the local Kirwins in an effort to locate the daughter and inform her of the death of her father.

NAVAL BAND OPENS MUSICAL PROGRAM

Variety Marks Latin-American Concert Prseented fro Conference.

GUEST ARTISTS FEATURE

The formal musical season in Washington was opened auspiciously last night by a concert of Latin-American music at the Pan-American Building in honor of the delegates to the Inter-American Conference on Agriculture, Forestry and Animal Industry. The program was given by the United States Navy Band, Lieut. Charles Benter conducting, with the following artists on the comprehensive program: Margarita Cueto, Mexican soprano; the Argentine Trio, Orpha Varga, soprano; Miguel Caceres, tenor, and Gregorio Ayala, barytone; Teresa Carreno, Venezuela; Guiomar Novaes, Brazil, and Carlina Gutierrez, Colombia, pianists. Two sololists from the Navy Band, Briley Gardner, cornetist, and Louis Goucher also participated in the program.

There was a delightful variety in last night's program, as typified in the singing of the Argentine Trio, which was to a lilting guitar accompaniment. Another high point of the program was the playing of "Why Does the Flower Die?" by Louis Goucher, vibraphonist of the United States Navy Band, which was the last compsition of the late Osman Perez Freirie, known as the Chilean Victor Herbert before his death. It received its first rendition in this country last night.

The entire program was broadcast first from the Naval Station NAA and for the last half hour of the concert over the chain of the National Broadcasting Co. The International General Electric Co. of Schenectady also sent out the last half hour of the program over its short wave channels to Latin America, where it was rebroadcast to many important stations.

The United States Navy Band lived up to its proud reputation in its numbers last night, especially in the overture, "Guadiana," by Albert M. Alvarado, of Mexico, and a lovely "Hymn tothe Sun," by Daniel Robles, of Peru. The Argentine Trio were melodious and captivating in their group of songs and Margarita Cueto, the Mexican soprano, sang with dramatic fire and a sweetness of tone which won her continued applause.

Carlina Gutlieerez displayed a fine command of the instrument in numbers played by this artist.

Mammoth Flying Lizard Unearthed

Mesozoic Monster's Hide Coming to University of Washington Museum.

Seward, Alaska, Sept. 11.—A piece of leather four feet square two inches thick and like armorplate is being prepared for shipment to the University of Washington Museum. It is probably the oldest bit of leather in the world today.

The patch of hide belonged to a great flying lizard that roamed the prehistoric hills of Alaska and whose meat finally became food for bears. It was discovered in a landslide on Cook Inlet by Herman Burkhard, Los Angeles banker, and his guide, Russel Annabet, of Anchorage. The creature measured 60 feet long, with a skull 38 inches long.

A piece of its hide and portions of flesh remained where the giant saurian had been overwhelmed by glacier ice in the tundra shales. Such lizards had 40 teeth, each weighing 10 ounces, ribs five feet long.

The last recorded discovery of a prehistoric creature in Alaska was in 1902 near Nome, where a mammoth with frozen flesh and hide complete was discovered by a gold miner at the foot of his shaft.

DEAN INGE'S PLAN STIRS REFORMERS

qualities in human nature," Dr. Carlile asserted. "I am entirely opposed to two standards of marriage, one in the church and another in the state. It would set up different standards of morality."

The dean, in his book, said he would allow the state to grant divorces for other causes than misconduct, these including desertion, brutal cruelty, habitual drunkenness, conviction for felony and concealment of bodily or mental defects.

Mrs. Seaton-Tiedemann's comment on this proposition was: "All of these causes may arise after the parties have been married in a church when, according to the dean's views, their vows should be lifelong. In these circumstances apparently the innocent parties are to have no relief if the ceremony took place in a church."

MELLON IS SILENT ON POST'S EXPOSE

Represented as Puzzled Why Name Was Brought In Campbell Article.

DR. DORAN ALSO QUIET

Secretary Mellon will not comment at present on references to him in Maj. Maurice Campbell's series of exposures in The Post on political interference with prohibition enforcement. This was made clear at the Treasury yesterday where Mr. Mellon was represented as being puzzled as to why his name has been brought into the discussion unless, it was suggested, it is for purposes of enhancing the news value of the articles.

It was learned, however, that Mr. Mellon has conferred with his son-in-law, David E. K Bruce, about an alcohol permit for a company which Mr. Bruce rperesented as attorney. It was said that after the application had been turned down Mr. Mellon advised Mr. Bruce to take the case to court if the latter felt that the application was really justified

Mr. Mellon takes the position, it was learned, that since he never had any connection with prohibition enforcement beyond giving shape to its general policy while the enforcement bureau was a part of the Treasury Department, there is no occasion for the mention of his name. As to the suggestion that he was displeased because Maj. Campbell's agents had raided the Ritz-Carlton Hotel in New York, it was stated that Mr. Mellon has stopped there only once or twice and does not make it his New York headquarters, as stated in the Campbell articles.

The example of reticeance set by Mr. Mellon was followed yesterday by Dr. James M. Doran, former prohibition commissioner and now commissioner of industrial alcohol. Mr. Doran said he had nothing to say on the Campbell articles.

Seymour Lowman, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, and central figure in the alleged beer for votes deal in New York in 1928, related by Mr. Campbell, was still out of the city yesterday. At his office it was stated Wednesday that he was expected back yesterday, and yesterday it was said he might be here today.

Two Held in $5,000 As Theft Suspects

Six Housebreaking Counts Are Lodged Against Pair in Police Court.

Joseph R. Farrell and Wilbur W. Hastead were arraigned in Police Court yesterday on six housebreaking charges and were ordered held for action of the grand jury under bonds of $5,000 each. Both men pleaded not guilty.

The men were arrested Tuesday morning by Detective D. J. Murphy and E. F. Lewis, both of the Thirteenth Precinct. The detectives declared they found a flashlight, pliers, a jimmy and a quantity of radios and furniture in the men's apartment.

In the information papers presented to the court by Assistant United States Attorney Michael F. Keogh the men are charged with breaking into the Owens Motor Co., at 6323 Georgia avenue northwest; Haines' Gas Station, at 6503 Georgia avenue northwest; the Park Auto Sales Co., at 305 Cedar street northwest; a cafe at 317 Cedar street northwest; the Rendezvous, at 6939 Georgia avenue northwest, and a restaurant at 6916 Fourth street northwest.

According to the detectives the men admitted the thefts, but complained when arrested because their rest had been disturbed.

"LAX" DRY MEN REINSTATED

objection that had been raised about this system, on March 6, 1929, Commissioner Doran wrote me that "in my judgment it is important that they (the breweries) all be guarded internally."

But in 1929 the system was ineffective, and the city had plenty of beer. The reason was that the morale of my brewery force had been completely shattered, largely because of the troubles with Washington.

New Inspector O. K.'d Pipe.

I believe their morale was broken down mostly by an incident at the Phoenix Cereal Beverage Co., a large brewery at Twenty-fifth street and Tenth avenue, in the spring of 1929. Two of my men discovered a mysterious pipe behind the beer vats there, and we thought we had at last discovered the means by which the beer was coming out of the brewery.

At this time a brewery inspector was detailed to me from Washington to help in the investigation, and naturally I told him of this pipe. After an inspection he reported to me that the pipe in question was not at all as my inspectors had reported it, and there could be nothing out of the way with it. I then sent my own men to look at this pipe, and they reported that since the advent of the inspector from Washington it had been completely changed.

You could hardly expect my men to remain conscientious under such conditions.

After the very wet beer season of 1929, on the morning of Saturday, September 28, I sent special investigators to each of the cereal beverage plants where guards were maintained, to pick up and bring direct to me without any intercommunication every guard as he came out of the brewery.

I personally interviewed every one of the men, but was unable to prove anything on which I could base a definite charge of corruption.

Had Men Transferred.

At any rate, I had sufficient evidence of laxity. I transferred the men to other work, and called Special Inspector Conwell from Washington to investigate. He recommended the suspension of fifteen men, including the chief of my brewery section, and later recommended their dismissal.

The evidence was that the agents had failed to report the disappearance of empty beer kegs during the night, and that the company did not report shipments of near beer in these kegs. One agent did report disappearance of kegs, which showed the others up. One night in September agents watching the Interboro Beverage Co. in Brooklyn saw nine heavily loaded trucks drive out of the warehouse yard adjoining it. Two guards were supposed to be inside the brewery at this time.

And they were supposed to take samples of each shipment of near beer to be sent to our headquarters. They had neglected to bring samples to headquarters, and in some cases had let the samples remain in the breweries for a month.

All Employed Counsel.

After the fifteen were dismissed they all employed counsel, and on one occasion ten of them went to Washington to plead their case.

But finally on February 22, 1930, I received a telegram from Commissioner Doran that all had been removed from the service. I struck their names from the pay roll, where they had remained in suspended status. A little later Dr. Doran telephoned and told me to disregard the wire, and I told him I had already removed the men.

"All right, let the matter stand," he said.

On February 27 Harry F. Anslinger, acting commissioner in Doran's absence, wrote me with Lowman's approval that three of the men should be reinstated. On February 28 a telegram ordered me to reinstate the three at once.

I went to Washington and discussed the matter with Anslinger and with Billard, chief of personnel, and it developed that Doran had never told Billard that the dismissal telegram had been acted upon. I explained that now the men were out and I had no authority to appoint them to the service. Washington had to do it if it were to be done.

I arrived home March 4 and on that day received a letter from Doran under date of February 25, approved by Lowman, "by direction of the Secretary of the Treasury," February 27, withdrawing the telegram of February 22 and "confirming verbal instructions" not to drop the men.

Reinstated by Washington.

Three men finally were reinstated by order of Washington, dated March 17, and the others shortly thereafter.

One reason I had fought the reinstatement was that it might jeopardize the revocation of the permits of the Phoenix and Interboro breweries, which I had refused to renew last January.

The Phoenix Cereal Beverage Co. was always a source of trouble to me.

Supervision from the outside was impossible. My men couldn't even rent a room from which activities could be observed; the whole neighborhood seemed in league with the brewery. Time and again my agents would be asked by policemen why they were loitering around and if they refused to divulge their identity they would be taken to the police station and compelled to do so.

I was accosted by police in this way myself. But it was only on certain nights the police were so vigilant; other nights you could loiter as much as you pleased. I tried in every way to get my agents near the brewery unobserved.

One night I put a dozen agents inside a truck and had it stop at the corner of Twenty-third street and Tenth avenue as though it had broken down. From that point they could see the intersection of Twenty-fifth street, where beer would pass. I watched the truck from my car, still farther down the street. It waited all night, but nothing happened.

Agents Kept Waiting Outside.

By the terms of the permits a prohibition agent must have immediate access to a brewery, but on many occasions it was hours before they were admitted. On one occasion I, myself, was kept waiting an hour and a half. There was plenty of time to clean things up, if there were any irregularities.

There were repeated disappearances of empty kegs during the night, when the brewery was supposed to be shut down; but especially important was a warehouse, owned by the same interests as the brewery, next door with a frontage on West Twenty-sixth street. Several doors connected the warehouse with the brewery, but my men were never admitted to the warehouse.

The doors were always kept locked on the warehouse side, in violation of the terms of the permit, and the brewery claimed that they were a necessary fire protection. The New York City Fire Department supported this necessity, though I never could see what value the doors were as fire exits if locked on the warehouse side.

That my feeling about the warehouse was correct was shown last August 14, when a raid was made and the raiders ran into what the newspapers called "an Arabian Nights' maze of secret passages, hidden doors and blind stairways," and, according to the newspapers, found in a secret cavern under the warehouse a complete beer plant with 5,000 gallons a day capacity.

Work Called Futile.

That this brewery (and other breweries using the same tactics) should operate so long is a graphic circumstance in the futility of prohibition enforcement. You would think that Washington would support strenuously any surveillance of such a place.

On February 27, 1929 just after I had put internal guards back in this brewery, William F. Donnelly, president of the brewery and warehouse companies, came to my office and protested. He said he thought the guards might have been placed there at the instance of some of his competitors to embrarass him.

I told him it was because he had made structural changes in his plant without consulting me, and that I was thinking of revoking the permit.

A week later Dr. Doran telephoned me from Washington.

"Have you agents inside the Interboro Brewery in Brooklyn?" he asked.

"No, I have not," I answered.

"You have them in the Phoenix plant, haven't you?"

"Yes," I said.

"Well," said Dr. Doran, "unless you put agents inside the Interboro there will be a hell of a row up there in two weeks."

Doran's Hint Accepted.

I took this conversation as a hint that the Phoenix people, after their talk with me, had gone to Mr. Lowman and had charged me with protecting the Interboro, as against them.

Of course, charges of this nature are continually being made against officials who have a limited force at their command. If you can't catch all offenders you ought not to catch any or you are discriminating. In other words, if I could not place six agents in each of my 23 breweries, I should not place them in any, because that would be discrimination; and if I did place men in all my breweries, I would have none left for any other phase of prohibition enforcement.

However, I decided to take the hint and immediately placed agents inside the Interboro and also the State Cereal Beverage plant at Yonkers.

And on the day of this conversation, March 6, Dr. Doran wrote me that the Phoenix had complained and that he did not think any legal objection could be raised. But "unless these principal plants can be covered simultaneously, you are open to very grave charges. In my judgment it is important that they all be guarded internally."

Phoenix Denied Permit.

I refused to renew the Phoenix permit last January, and recently they brought an action in equity against me to get it back. In preparing my answer to the action, U. S. Grant, an assistant United States attorney, made the answer specifically charge the diversion of illegal beer, which I had carefully left out of my findings. Such a charge, clearly without proof, would have materially weakened the Government's case. Consequently, I refused to sign the answer as written in the United States attorney's office and changed it to read in accordance with the testimony. I believe, especially after the August raid, that my action will be upheld

I refused to renew the permit of the Interboro also. In my findings on this case, which are now a part of the Federal court records, I stated it as my belief that beer had been diverted on the night of September 12 when nine trucks emerged from the warehouse premises next door to the brewery.

There was testimony at the hearing before me that one of my agents had endeavored to influence another agent to take a bribe from the brewery and had called another agent on the telephone to indorse his statement that all the other agents on the brewery squad were in the pay of the brewery.

Republican Leader Counsel.

The attorney who appeared before me in the hearing was Meier Steinbrink, chairman of the Kings County Republican committee.

Shortly thereafter an action in equity was started against me and on one occasion in these court proceedings Mr. Steinbrink appeared before Federal Judge Mortimer W. Byers, but it was argued last May before Judge Byers by former Judge Callahan.

The entire record of the hearing was put before Judge Byers.

On July 3, three days after my re ignation, Judge Byers handed down a decision in which he disapproved my action and ordered the permit to the Interboro issued.

Out of hundreds of cases in which the Federal courts reviewed my decisions in permit matters, this was one of two in which I was reversed. I await with intense interest the outcome of an appeal.

RADIO UNIT EXPLAINS STAND ON DRY TALKS

INDIVIDUAL RIGHT, CLAIM

The ederal adio Commission yesterday disclaimed ownership of the package left on its doorstep by Frederick Van Vechten, manager of station WHEC of Rochester, N. Y., who refused to allow former Senator James W. Wadsworth to broadcast an anti-prohibition speech last night on the ground that the commission might cancel the station's license.

Maj. Gen Charles McK. Saltzman, chairman, declared that the commission has never made any attempt to prevent the broadcasting of antiprohibition speeches, has no authority under the radio act to do so, and has no desire to do so if it could.

The commission has no power of censorship over radio speeches, Gen. Saltzman pointed out the only exception being that it can discipline a station which permits the broadcasting of profane or obscene language which is made a violation of the radio act. In addition, the commission is charged with enforcement of that section of the act which provides that if a station permits its facilities to be used by a candidate for public office it must extend eual facilities to all other candidates for the same office.

This provision for equal treatment of candidates has been construed, however, as not applicable to proponents of both sides of a controversial issue. In other words, a station may allow wet speakers, who are not candidates, to broadcast without being under obligation to accord the same tretament to the drys or vice versa.

It was intimated that commission officials feel that Mr. Van Vechten was merely seeking to pass the buck and it was pointed out that, barring the existing of some contractual obligation, the station was entirely within its legal rights if it should chose to discriminate against wet speakers without assigning any reason at all.

The commission has received no protests against the use of broadcasting stations for prohibition or antiprohibition speeches, it was said, and this question has never been raised or considered in proceedings looking toward the issuance or renewal of licenses.

Gen. Saltzman made it very clear that the commission does not intend to raise this question now.

Thugs Torture Farmer; Flee With $2,000, Auto

Batesville, Ark., Sept. 11 (A.P.).—James Swain, 65 years old, a farmer, told authorities today that two roughly dressed men late yesterday accosted him while hunting, tortured him for 12 hours, then bound and gagged him and fled with $2,000 in bank cashiers' checks and his automobile. He was not seriously hurt.

Swain said the men tortured him continually by sticking pins in his flesh and threatened him with death unless he divulged the hiding place of a supposedly large sum of money he kept. They finally released him from a tree, but took him to his own garage and bound and gagged him, he said. There they got his automobile and fled.

Woman Kills Daughter, Self and Wounds Child

Denver, Sept. 11 (A.P.).—Mrs. Helen Ross, 35, shot and killed her 15-year-old daughter, Joyce, today, wounded a second child, Wilma, 10, and missed her aim when she fired at a son, Gordon, 9. The woman then committed suicide.

Eugene Ross, the husband and father, said his wife often had threatened to commit suicide.

BROWN URGES BOOST FOR POSTAL RATES

Postmaster General to Ask Congress for Increase on First Class.

WOULD SLASH DEFICIT

Detroit, Sept. 11 (A.P.).—Postmaster General Brown said tonight he would recommend an increase in first-class postage at the next session of Congress.

Addressing the National Association of Potsmasters, Mr. Brown said one-half cent more an ounce on sealed letters and "minor changes contemplated in the rest of our rate structure" would "wipe out our present strictly postal deficit and balance our budget."

He added that if Congress could then be persuaded to "adhere to the rule laid down by the founders of our Government that adequate postal revenues must be provided by law before additional charges against the service may be incurred," the result would be a solving of the perplexing postal deficit problem "for all time."

Should Pay Entire Cost.

"There is no more logic and justification in asking the Government to transport your private mail for less than cost than there would be in asking an electric light company to light your house, or a telephone company to furnish you with long distance service for less than cost," Mr. Brown said.

He laid down the rule that each class of service should pay the entire cost directly attributable to that service.

Since 1916, he said, the second class mail rate has increased 82 per cent, third class 21 per cent, and parcels post 10 per cent, but the present first class rate has been in effect since 1885, except for a brief emergency period during the World War.

Speaks of Expense.

Economically speaking, he said, the 2-cent rate of 1885 is equivalent to 7 cents today.

Mr. Brown prefaced his defense of a higher postal rate with a summary of new legislation and changes in department policy.

He spoke again of the "needless and burdensome expense" caused by the policy of leasing buildings for postal operations, and expressed hope that the next Congress would further extend the postoffice construction program.

He expressed satisfaction at the changed method of air mail compensation effected by the last Congress.

Youths Held for Theft Of Furs Valued at $200

Charged with grand larceny in connection with the theft of mink furs valued at $200 from Julius Garfinckle & Co., a local department store, two 18-year-old youths, Harry L. Veihmyer and Louis E. Weaver, were arraigned in Police Court yesterday and held for grand jury action.

Judge Gus A. Schuldt on suggestion of Assistant United States Attorney Michael F. Keogh fixed bond for each at $1,000. The alleged theft was committed last May, according to police, but the boys only recently were arrested.

INJUNCTION SOUGHT TO PRESERVE POLI'S

Theatrical Interests Aver Mellon's Order to Raze Building Is Illegal.

DATE SET FOR HEARING

In an effort to prevent razing Poli's Theater on Pennsylvania avenue northwest near Fifteenth street, injunction proceedings were instituted yesterday in District of Columbia Supreme Court by Sylvester Z. Poli, of New Haven, Conn., and Lee Shubert and Jacob Shubert, both of New York City.

Poli's is in the triangle which the Government recently acquired for departmental structures and the action is filed against Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury, who is directing the huge Government building program, and H. Herfurth, Inc., a Virginia corporation under contract to raze the structure.

The plaintiffs allege that their lease of the building does not expire until 1939 and assert that Secretary Mellon's action in advising that the Government wanted the property for official use on June 30, this year, is unlawful. They assert that the Secretary of the Treasury exceeds his authority and that his action constitutes taking their property without due process of the law. The Government has owned the building for many years and in 1922 leased it to Plimton B. Chase, of Sparta, Ohio, according to the petition. The lease was to run until 1939 and was assigned by Chase to Poli, who, with the consent of the United States, assigned a half interest to the Shuberts, the petitioners declare.

Continuing, the petitioners declare that they have not defaulted under any of the terms of the lease, and assert that they have tendered the rent for July and August despite the fact that they were told to vacate the property by July 1. Secretary Mellon, however, has refused to accept rent and has contracted for destruction of the property, it is alleged.

The petitioners also assert that the contractor is about to begin dismantling the structure, and allege that such action will work irreparable damage to them. Hearing on a motion for a preliminary injunction has been set for September 19.

SECOND MAN HELD IN AUTO TICKET ROW

Trachtenberg Charged With Hitting Policeman Who Shot Osborne.

OFFICER IS IN HOSPITAL

Charged with assaulting Policeman V. V. Vaughan, of the Traffic Bureau, Aaron Trachtenberg, 27 years old, of Massachusetts avenue near Second street, was arraigned in Police Court yesterday and hearing was postponed until September 25 in order to permit the recovery of the alleged victim.

Vaughn was injured and William L. Osborne, 26 years old, of Shannon place southeast near W street, was shot when the policeman, Trachtenberg and Osborne became involved in an altercation as a result of the officer's efforts to place a ticket in Trachtenberg's automobile Wednesday night.

Osborne is alleged to have hit Vaughn over the head with a bottle, while Trachtenberg is charged with hitting him with his fists. Osborne, suffering from a bullet wound in the leg, fired from the policeman's pistol, was taken to Garfield Hospital and then removed to Gallinger, where he is under observation and police guard. Vaughn was taken to Emergency Hospital and treated, but later became ill and is now at George Washington University Hospital, where it is believed he is suffering from a fracture of the skull.

Trachtenberg escaped from the scene of the altercation during the disorder following the firing of the shot, but later surrendered. In addition to being arraigned in Police Court on the assault charge, the man also forfeited $2 collateral on the parking charge—the thing that started it all.

G. O. P. CHIEFS HOLD MEETING IN COUNTY

Prince Georges Leaders Are Believed to Have Made Campaign Plans.

W. F. BROENING ATTENDS

Plans for the coming election campaign in Prince Georges County were discussed at a luncheon held yesterday at the Marlboro Hotel, Upper Marlboro, at which Mayor William F. Broening, of Baltimore, and county Republican leaders were present.

Mayor Broening arrived late for luncheon and was closeted for more than an hour with J. Wilson Ryon, Gardner Cole, State Attorney J. Frank Parran, Oliver Metzerott, chairman of the State central committee, and other prominent Republicans. While the results of the conferences were not made public, it is understood that the policies of the Republican party in the coming campaign were outlined.

Mr. Metzerott, who is a candidate for the House of Delegates, is understood to have his eye on the speakership of that body, and failing that the Republican floor leadership.

Practically all of the Republican candidates of the county and other members of the party attended the luncheon, which marked the formal opening of the Republican campaign.

Following the luncheon Mayor Broening and most of those in attendance adjourned to the Marlboro Race Track.

Possibility of a third party looms on the political horizon of Prince Georges County. Candidates in both the Democratic and Republican parties who were nosed out in the primaries last Monday are being quietly canvassed in an effort to ascertain if they would be willing to support an independent ticket in the general election in November.

Thomas J. Luckett, former mayor of Capitol Heights, is one of the leaders in the movement. He is slated to run as State's attorney if the coalition ticket materializes. He filed for the nomination in the primaries, but withdrew his candidacy before the voting date. Luckett's and Frank J. Parran's withdrawal from the race left the nomination open without contest to Albert R. Hassal in the Republican primaries.

Taking advantage of the discontent which he believes to be present among the candidates who were nosed out, Mr. Luckett says, the independents plan to put forth candidates for key positions. They do not expect to be able to place a full ticket in the field.

Volunteer firemen of Prince Georges County plan a protest to the county commissioners Tuesday on the arrest of a fire engine drvier on his way to a fire on a charge of reckless driving by County Officer Frank P. Prince. This was decided upon at a meeting of the advisory board of the Prince Georges County Volunteer Fire Association held at Upper Marlboro Wednesday night. The association represents 19 fire companies in the county.

Edward George Boyer, driver of the College Park fire truck, was arrested Saturday night after a car driven by Sergt. Joseph A. Burnett, of the United States Marine Corps, was forced off the Defense highway. The engine was en route to a forest fire at the call of Forest Warden Walter J. Quick, jr., when it was halted.

Forest Warden Quick also has filed protest with the county commissioners and asked that Officer Prince be reprimanded. The warden points out that the arrest could have been postponed until after the fire call had been answered and that the arrest prevented the engine company from arriving at a point where it was much needed in view of the dry conditions prevalent due to the drought.

Man, Overcome by Gas, Saved by Rescue Squad

Hugh B. Cox, 20 years old, of 42 B street southwest, was revived by the fire rescue squad yesterday afternoon after he had been found unconscious in a gas-flooded room of his home.

He is survived by his widow; two sons, James, at home, and Donald, of Philadelphia, and a daughter, Anna.

FORCED RESPIRATION FAILS TO SAVE CHILD

Rescue Squad Labroed 16 Hours to Keep Shirley Carlton Breathing.

WHOOPING COUGH FATAL

In spite of the efforts of firemen, who kept the child supplied with oxygen for more than sixteen hours, 5-year-old Shirley Carlton died yesterday at her home at 708 Erie avenue, Takoma Park, Md. The firemen, members of the rescue squad, had been summoned Wednesday afternoon when the child was found to be choking to death from congestion caused by whooping cough.

The pretty golden-haired girl had been ill for several weeks, but she had been able to breathe without great difficulty until Wednesday afternoon. Then her family doctor, Dr. Lynwood Heiges, hurriedly summoned the squad.

The forced application of oxygen gave her immediate relief, although after a few hours the beneficial effect began to wear off. But the firemen continued their work until the child's heart failed to beat. Ill persons can be kept alive for only a limited length of time under forced respiration, it was explained, and unless natural breathing can be restored the reprieve from death can be only temporary.

Bolivar Woman Dies.

Harpers Ferry, W. Va., Sept. 11 (Special).—Mrs. Jennie E. Graham, 75, widow of George W. Graham, of Bolivar, W. Va., died at her home here late Wednesday after a long illness. She was Miss Jennie E. YOUTH CONFESSES HE SLEW HIS WIFE

Threat to Go Away With Another Man Blamed for Norfolk Crime.

TWO CHILDREN SURVIVE

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 11 (A.P.).—Police said Solomon D. Carter, also known as Clyde Carter, confessed this afternoon to the slaying of his wife, Mabel B. Carter, whose mutilated body was found yesterday in a clump of woods between Broad Bay and Long Creek near here.

The alleged confession states that Carter shot his wife to death following a domestic quarrel. The shooting, it was stated, occurred on the afternoon of September 4, when the two had driven into the woods in their automobile.

Carter is quoted as saying his wife threatened to leave him and go away with another, whose name police have not revealed.

Following his arrest yesterday Carter made two statements denying he had killed his wife, asserting she had shot herself accidentally.

The two were about the same age, 23. They had two children.

THE WET AND DRY ISSUE.

Everybody brags of victory and nobody is happy over this week's primaries. For every gain made by the wets, the drys can point to victories. Here and there a head has fallen into the basket, but the make-up of the next Congress as a whole will not be changed, so far as prohibition is concerned. The liquor question cuts through both parties, as usual, making a stalemate.

Gov. Roosevelt of New York crosses the wet Rubicon by declaring himself emphatically in favor of repeal of the eighteenth amendment. That is good politics so far as New York State is concerned, but it probably eliminates Roosevelt from the presidential race in 1932. A yell has already gone up from the South. Democrats who had a New York wet forced upon them in 1928 are giving notice that the South will not stand for a wet candidate again.

The wet-and-dry interparty cleavage is more apparent in the Democratic than the Republican party. In the Democratic party it is a sectional cleavage, which makes it worse. The Northern and Southern wings of the Democratic party do not flap at all in harmony. Unless the chasm can be bridged somehow within a few months, all hope of making a strong showing in 1932 may as well be abandoned.

The Republican party is little better off, so far as the disruptive prohibition question is concerned. Wet and dry Republicans are enjoying the pleasure of ripping party harmony to pieces. But thus far the intestine quarrel has not taken a sectional aspect, and the party spokesmen have managed to avoid nation-wide controversies on the subject.

The growth of sentiment against the eighteenth amendment is alleged, but it is difficult to point to any increase of wet sentiment in the next Congress, based upon the nominations already made. A tremendous overturn would be necessary in order to bring about the passage of a joint resolution in Congress proposing repeal or modification of the eighteenth amendment. No such overturn is in sight. If the drift toward a wet Congress is in process it is very slow.

In order to repeal or modify the eighteenth amendment it would be necessary to obtain affirmative action by three-fourths of the States. Thus thirteen States could block action. Very few wet advocates will assert that opposition to the eighteenth amendment has reached the point where it can swing a majority of the States into line. Yet the United States must be three-fourths wet before the eighteenth amendment can be changed or repealed. Apparently, if repeal is to be referred to the States, its fate will be determined by last-ditch drys, concentrated in the few States that can determine the result.

TRAVELERS' TALES.

Politicians who are in the habit of going abroad for their campaign ammunition are having a particularly sad experience this year. Not many years ago it was quite safe to trump up arguments in foreign countries and transfer them to American soil to support one's political convictions. But the method is now obsolete. Foreigners have acquired an annoying habit of listening in on the remarks of Americans who have visited them. Wherever there is an inclination to depart from veracity or even to put an absurd interpretation on facts gleaned from abroad, the returning statesman may expect to be checked up.

Senator Barkley brought home "grave fears" that the American tariff may result in reopening the question of war debts. Great Britain was quick to resent his insinuation that that country would be unable to pay its obligations because of changes in the tariff. British officials are at a loss to understand where Senator Barkley obtained his "information." Now the French government issues an emphatic denial that the American tariff will have any effect upon payment of that country's war debts, and economic authorities challenge the senator's conclusion that trade between France and the United States will be diminished.

The attitude of Canada toward the Smoot-Hawley act has been similarly misrepresented. Tales of resentment and hostility from South America can also be discounted. Politicians traveling abroad hear "unofficial" whispers and broadcast them through loudspeakers, amplified a thousandfold. In some cases even the whispers are invented.

Foreign governments resent being drawn into American political controversies, just as the United States Government objects to having its policies made the catspaw of foreign political wrangles. Domestic problems can well be confined within our own borders. The politician who is indiscreet enough to misrepresent the policies of foreign nations for political advantage may expect in the future to have the wind taken out of his sails.

MERCHANT MARINE RIVALRY.

When the United States set out to build a merchant marine adequate to carry its extensive commerce to all parts of the world an era of keen international competition in shipbuilding was inaugurated. No nation is willing to sacrifice its relative standing in the maritime world. Determination by one country to build a greater merchant fleet stimulates activity in every rival's shipyard.

Because of the higher prices that must be paid for American labor and materials, it was necessary for the Government to make funds available to shipping companies at low interest rates, and to grant liberal mail contracts. But various foreign governments are finding that the American fleet is growing at the expense of their own, and are adopting similar policies. The National Council of American Shipbuilders has just completed a world-wide survey in which it is found that shipping subventions are becoming more numerous and liberal. Sweden just set aside by royal decree a flexible fund that will make more than $26,000,000 available to finance construction of new merchant vessels. Germany and Italy subsidize their merchant marines. The annual subvention allowed shipping interests of Brazil has been increased. The French minister of marine has prepared bills that would allow ship owners large funds at low interest rates, and Belgium and Japan are reported to be contemplating similar measures.

The British shipbuilding industry is undergoing a series of revolutionary changes that will concentrate production in a few yards. Machinery is to be modernized and the principles of mass production will be introduced into the shipbuilding industry.

Two results of general importance to the United States may be anticipated from this movement. The growth of subventions granted by other governments may restore the difference in competitive conditions in favor of foreign shipping interests. The general stimulation of shipbuilding will intensify competition, which will mean that the finest vessels will be patronized and that others may be operated at a loss or remain idle.

These conditions should not deter the United States from strengthening its merchant fleet. It is imperative that a great commercial country should operate its own fleet for overseas transportation. If it becomes necessary to revise the merchant marine act to offset the advantages granted foreign shippers by their governments, Congress should not hesitate to do so. Competition will be keen, but the United States is in a better position to meet it than any other country. The new American lines may run into some difficult sledding for a time, but the country can not afford to relinquish its program for development of a merchant fleet because other nations have similar ambitions.

HUEY LONG AND HIS MACHINE.

Louisiana is accustomed to the tactics of its governor, Huey P. Long, but it is somewhat shocking to the rest of the country to learn that this politician intends to have himself elected to the Senate and at the same time remain governor. Dispatches from New Orleans indicate that Gov. Long dares not leave Louisiana, even to assume the duties of a senator at Washington, because once away from the State his personal political machine would collapse.

Gov. Long's regime is perhaps the nearest approach to a dictatorship that an American State has experienced. He was impeached on seven charges, but his hold on the State Senate was so secure that more than one-third of the senators announced he would be exonerated regardless of the evidence, and the case was dropped in view of the two-thirds rule. Having taken over control of every State board and bureau, he has filled all positions with his henchmen, and built up a powerful machine. Curiously enough, this is the very reason why Gov. Long may not take the senatorial seat. Should he do so Lieut. Gov. Paul Cyr, a bitter enemy, would succeed him, and turn every Long supporter out of office. Long has been so careful to place every State employe under control of the chief executive that it would be no trouble for his successor to completely upset his patronage-nourished machine.

The next gubernatorial election in Louisiana will be held in 1932. Gov. Long plans to keep his present office until then, hoping to relinquish it to a faithful subordinate who would keep the Long machine intact. Some doubt is expressed that he will ever take a seat in the Senate, but there appears to be no ground for such optimism, since Long informed his audiences several times during the campaign that he was headed for the White House, and his frenzied admirers have already inaugurated a "Long for President" movement.

Any plan to keep Huey Long in Louisiana, even for a year, would be generally welcomed by the country.

AMERICANS WIN IN POLO.

Polo was a British game, particularly a British army game, long before it became popular in America. But once again Britain bows before the United States in the international polo matches. On Saturday last the American team triumphed over the British at Meadow Brook by a score of 14 to 9. By the identical score, on Wednesday, the American team won its second victory and the championship. With it went the Westchester Cup, which is to polo what the America's Cup is to yachting and what the British open championship is to golf.

The Americans, Tommy Hitchcock, Eric Pedley, Earl Hopping and Winston Guest, played a slashing, long-hitting, merciless game. The Englishmen, Lieut. Humphrey Guinness, Charles T. I. Roard, Lewis Lacey and Gerald Balding, made a powerful combination, but one that lacked sufficient stamina to stand up against the American attack. Early in the match the Britons jumped into the lead, but as the match progressed the American team was able to wear down its opponents, until, in the sixth period, the Americans scored four goals and in the final period, three. The American team played with reckless abandon, following close on the ball and giving no quarter. It is this attribute that goes far to explain the comparative superiority of America's sportsmen in international competitive events.

Bobby Jones won the British amateur and open golf championships. The American big four won the international polo matches. The races for the America's Cup get under way between the defending Enterprise and the challenging Shamrock on Saturday. If Enterprise wins these races, America will have had an almost perfect year in international competition, having met defeat only on the tennis courts.

FLYING OVER CROWDS.

The Department of Commerce has warned aviators that flying altitudes lower than 1,000 feet will be prohibited in the vicinity of the races for the America's Cup which get under way Saturday. Discussing the prohibition, Secretary Young recently said:

> A large number of persons are expected to be congregated in the immediate vicinity of the race course and this will constitute an "assemblage of persons" within the meaning of the air commerce regulations. The regulations provide that no flight under 1,000 feet in height shall be made over an open air assembly of persons except with the consent of the Secretary of Commerce.

This common-sense regulation designed for the protection of the public quite properly is invoked during the America's Cup races. Why was it not enforced during the national air races in Chicago, during the course of which four persons, including one civilian spectator, were killed? If it is dangerous for planes to fly at altitudes lower than 1,000 feet over Enterprise and Shamrock V it was doubly dangerous for airplanes to be stunted and intricately maneuvered over the "assemblage of persons" that was congregated at Chicago.

Ambassador Dawes has returned to London after a vacation in France and Spain, during which he inspected paleolithic drawings and hieroglyphics in ancient caves. Apparently he is far enough removed from politics to appreciate handwriting on the wall.

Representative Cramton, of Michigan, author of the lump-sum plan of starving the National Capital, has lost his renomination by the lump sum of 119 votes.

College credits are to be given in Missouri for radio performances. Why can't they also arrange some prizes for scholastic endurance contestants?

Niles Bernard plans to make a trip over Niagara Falls to earn enough money to become an aviator. Not matter what happens, he'll get his wings.

FOREIGN COTTON

From the Wall Street Journal.

Cotton crop as of September 1 is officially estimated at 14,300,000 bales compared with about 14,700,000 a year ago. Taking into consideration the carryover of old cotton in both seasons the total supply this current season is considerably larger than a year ago and, with two exceptions, is the largest of any postwar period. As increased use of foreign-grown cotton accounts for this growing surplus, the remedy is to be found in meeting foreign competition if we wish to maintain our export market.

The semiannual report of the International Federation of Master Cotton Spinners shows that in the past season world consumption of cotton was not very much smaller than the previous year; but it further shows that there was a tremendous decrease in consumption of American cotton and a large increase in use of that of other growths. The New York Cotton Exchange service has converted the figures given for different countries into equivalent American standard bales, and the comparisons are somewhat startling.

The world consumption of cotton of all growths in the season ended July 31, 1930, was 24,579,000 bales compared with 25,767,000 a year ago and 25,367,000 two years ago. The reduction from that of a year ago was 1,200,000 bales, but it was all in American cotton. World consumption of American-grown cotton was 13,029,000 bales against 15,169,000 a year ago and 15,500,000 two years ago. While consumption of American cotton declined 2,140,000 bales in the past year that of foreign-grown cotton increased almost a million bales.

These are the bald facts of the case. Only one conclusion can be drawn; foreign consumers are finding it profitable to use other than American cotton. This is a situation that neither cooperative marketing nor holding movements can remedy, because by such tactics we simply play into the foreign producers' hands. He who would sell goods in the world markets must meet world competition. This simple truism seems to be overlooked in our cotton policy. Yet, if we are to remain in the export market we must do that very thing.

Raw cotton is the greatest item in our export trade, sometimes amounting to 20 per cent of the total. Eliminate that and we say farewell to an export balance. It is essential that the export trade be preserved, but operating in a buyers' market we must meet buyers' terms. That can be done and the producer given a fair return by producing a better quality at a less price than our competitors.

Mexico's Population.

These figures show a net increase in the population of 2,069,350 souls. The most populous state in the republic is that of Vera Cruz, with 1,376,865 inhabitants. The only state which did not increase in population during the last decade is Colima, which shows a decrease of 30,904.

SUPPER-TIME.

The fire is 'neath the kettle
and the steak is in the pan;
Now a man is coming homeward
Who went out when day began;
And a woman hums a ditty
As she brings the dishes out,
Once again its time for supper
All the nation round about.

The pie is in the oven
And it's time to brew the tea,
Come the children to the kitchen
Just as hungry as can be.
All this mighty nation over
Wheresoever you may roam,
It is time once more for supper
And the men are coming home.

Though some there are like breakfast
And some the noon day fare,
I choose the evening supper
When I am done with care.
For love has set the table
And made the meal complete,
And every bite is seasoned
With mirth and laughter sweet.

From countless humble chimneys
Smoke columns curl and climb,
Proclaiming, nation over,
That it is supper time.
And on the streets and pathways
Where falls the evening gloam,
The tired and hungry fathers
Again are coming home.

The One Who Exalteth Not Himself Is the One the World Calls Up Higher.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MOST of the annoyances that give your day a bitter flavor are a result of looking for trouble.

Perhaps you won't admit the truth of that, for you think of yourself as a reasonable person who endures much and never invites a quarrel.

But if you are a normal human with an unwhipped spirit, you carry a chip on your shoulder.

You are quick to resent any trespass on your rights; you are ready to speak up at any moment and demand all that is coming to you; you are on your guard lest anybody slight you or fail to show you the consideration and respect to which you feel entitled.

The inevitable result, in a world that has little interest in your feelings, is a succession of irritating incidents that spoil your day regardless of their outcome.

The cause of all this irritation is the fact that you feel entitled to certain things, and the cure is a bedrock humility.

Many people are afraid of humility. They think it will shame them—that the world will take advantage of it and trample on them.

But humility doesn't mean boot-licking. It is an element of greatness—a fine and manly quality possessed by every servant of humanity who has earned a page in history.

To be humble is merely to realize that you aren't "entitled" to anything—to demand nothing and expect nothing.

Once you develop that state of mind, you have a new sense of freedom and peace and your life is purged of petty annoyances.

Because you are no longer belligerent, you no longer arouse in others a spirit of antagonism. Your neighbor no longer cares about the line fence because you aren't contentious about it. The world offers you the seat for which it would have contested tooth and nail if you had tried to take it. There is no fun in trying to beat a man who says: "After you, sir."

Do you think that is bosh—that a hard-boiled world will take advantage of humility?

Well, Lindbergh was remarkably humble. Did the world take advantage of him?

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

PROHIBITION'S BAREFOOT BOY.

(Based on the suggestion at the dry agents' school, that children at play be used for getting evidence of neighborhood violations.)

Blessings on thee, little man,
Barefoot boy, with cheek of tan!
With thy turned-up pantaloons
And thy eye out for saloons;
With thy seeming simple play
Just a ruse throughout the day;
With the sunshine on thy face,
Watching each suspicious place;
From my heart I sing of you—
I was once a snooper, too!
Prince thou art, for at thy fun
You can spy on ev'ryone.
Let the million-dollared ride;
Barefoot, trudging at his side,
You can keep an eagle eye
On his search for Scotch or rye;
Outward sunshine, inward joy,
Blessings on thee, snooping boy!

II

Oh, for boyhood's painless play
Doing things the Dengler way,
Getting (thanks to dry force rules)
Knowledge never learned at schools—
Of the scofflaw's morning chase
For his drink at Tony's place;
Where the whoopee makers fly,
Where the quartets sing, and why;
Where the neighbor has a still
In his home upon the hill;
Where the grapes and berries go,
Who tends bar for So-and-so;
Where the rum truck makes its stops,
Who has mash and who has hops;
Where the drug store is that will
Sell a highball or a pill;
How the neighbor down the line
Gets his elderberry wine;
How the people on the ridge
Get the gin they serve at bridge;
In what cellar very near
There's a load of home-made beer.

III

Cheerily, then, my little man,
Snoop and spy where'er you can;
Making boyhood games a sham,
Peek and peep for Uncle Sam;
Every day shall see thee get
Evidence of places "wet;"
Every evening, done with sport
You shall make a spy's report;
All too soon the years will fly
When a boy can be a spy;
Grown-up men with unshod feet
Can not play games in the street;
Adults playings hounds and hare
Cause the neighbors all to stare;
When you reach a man's estate
You can't swing upon a gate
Without people passing by
Stopping just to wonder why;
In his childhood is the time
For a lad to hunt for crime;
Ah, that thou couldst know the joy,
Blessings on thee, barefoot boy!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Impressions of a Wide-Awake American Who Recently Traversed Europe.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: A quick trip to England, France, Switzerland and Germany has given me some impressions that may be of interest to you.

In England there is a condition of mental depression that is impressive in relation to all classes. Lack of leadership is felt keenly. Beaverbrook's empire plan commands wide attention, because it is at least a plan. Neville Chamberlain is well regarded by the commercial people. A dogged attitude is prevalent, tending to sullenness among working people. The October round table conference is hoped to develop a solution of some of the many problems, and has the attention of all responsible people. India is regarded with the utmost seriousness, and some impatience. Men of big business say that a solution must be found; they also say that the empire plan is fatally weak, because the dominions can not give up the revenues now collected on imports from Great Britain and other British countries.

France complains of a marked slowing up in business, but feels conditions are better than elsewhere. The low unemployment is appreciated at full value. Investment in German concerns is increasing. Friendly relations with Germany are responsibly forecast. Italy in alliance with Germany is feared, and the combination will be prevented if possible. The younger men especially are clear on this point—they propose to prevent the stupidity of war, even as an active menace. Tardieu will return in full strength, and will develop the policy of friendship with Germany. Briand's united Europe plan is regarded benevolently, because he is near retirement, and can have anything he wants. This may possibly include the French presidency, although a comparative unknown is being groomed for that job at the moment.

In Berlin there is keen consciousness of the changed conditions in the United States. These will be closely watched and the labor situation measured in relation to Red agitation. The September 14 election is counted on to produce a clearer picture of what the nation really wants. The confusion of parties is deplored, and every effort is being made to effect combinations in advance of election day. Underneath all else is one big question as to whether the old flag or the new flag shall be permanent. There is a deep rift here between husbands and wives, close friends, business associates. Great care is exercised to avoid the question socially. The attitude generally toward Americans is friendly, and help of the most practical kind is forthcoming on large and small matters. The years immediately ahead are counted on to restore the relations that existed before the war.

Heroism of Patrolman Baker Makes a Story More Thrilling Than Fiction; His Promotion Suggested.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In this morning's Post I read that most thrilling story of the heroic work done by the young police officer, Earl L. Baker, of the Second Precinct, who risked his life in arresting the jealousy-crazed Howard Carson, thus saving the life of an equally brave and courageous young woman whom he sought to murder. It is said that truth is stranger than fiction and, of all the dime novels and movie thrillers I have read, your vivid description of this unusual experience far surpasses them all in completeness of minutely interesting detail.

It occurred to me that some official and public recognition should be granted this young officer who performed this heroic service in the interest of human life. I am confident that I speak the sentiments of most of the citizens of Washington when I say that such deeds of heroism in the face of great danger are what make Washington proud of the high type of police officers who constitute the majority of our local force. Such acts of bravery as that of Patrolman Baker should receive not only public commendation, but also a substantial promotion in service.

Careless and Inconsiderate Drivers Might Be Curbed by a Black Mark System, Says Mr. Haweis.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As a corrective measure for disciples of Jehu, might it not be well to report flagrant cases of inconsiderate driving by automobilists, even if no accident has taken place? The owner of the car would receive an intimation that he had been reported for inconsiderate driving, with details, date and place; that no further action was contemplated but that it would be recorded against his car's number for three months. Police would report such cases without stopping the car in the course of their duties. Private people might be required to put the accusation in writing and pay ten cents, as a curb upon people with a misguided sense of humor. When the furious driver did come before a magistrate a few such black marks on his record might be disregarded, as the best of drivers make occasional mistakes, but more than one or two might automatically double whatever punishment was inflicted. The knowledge that any driver, when no policeman is in evidence, could report on careless driving might have a noticeable effect.

National Defense Personnel Spends All Right, but Dollars Won't Buy Much.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The most highly-paid giver of advice tells us in your Tuesday issue: "The buying power of everybody if used is amply sufficient to support everybody."

Permit me to assure the former Commander-in-chief of the Army and Navy that the great majority of the personnel of our defense establishments use their buying power as amply as their depreciated dollars will permit. During his long years in command, the service pay dollar remained many cents below one hundred and his successor has kept it there.

Pan-American Union Concert Brilliant Fete

Delegates to Forestry Conference Are Honor Guests.

By JEAN ELIOT.

ANOTHER beautiful fete at the Pan-American Union has been written into the social annals of Washington, this time a concert of Latin American music arranged in honor of the delegates to the Inter-American conference on agriculture, forestry and animal industry, presented before a brilliant audience and broadcast to the great company of radio fans.

Rows of seats on the esplanada were reserved for conference delegates and for chiefs of diplomatic missions, who were present. Back of them were more rows of chairs, all filled; many guests were seated in the Aztec Garden, around the lily pond, and still others looked on and listened to the inspiring program from balconies overlooking the terrace.

The scene was charming, with tall ranks of poplars silhouetted dimly against the summer sky and flood lights throwing into colorful relief standards of the American republics which flanked the loggia, flooded with eerie blue light, of the Pan-American Annex.

On arrival, one found the facade of the building ablaze with light and along the terrace rail a row of flags of the nations of America. Guests were greeted by Dr. Leo S. Rowe, director general of the Pan-American Union. At the entrance to the esplanade stood the counselor, Mr. Franklin Adams, ready with another friendly word of greeting. And this, with the chatter of animated groups, greeting one another after a summer's absence, gave the aspect of a private party to the half hour before the music began. The program was presented by the Navy Band and a group of guest artists prominent in the Latin-American countries.

The Ambassador of Mexico and Senora de Tellez headed the group of diplomats present, others noted being the Minister of Nicaragua, Senor Sacasa, with his daughter, Senorita Maria Sacasa; the Minister of Honduras and Senora de Argueta, the Minister of Guatemala, Senor Recinos; the Minister of Costa Rica, Senor Castro Quesada; the Charge d'Affaires of Cuba and Senora de Baron, and the Charge d'Affaires of Germany, Dr. Kiep.

Glimpsed, too, in the audience were the solicitor general, Mr. Thomas D. Thacher; Rear Admiral and Mrs. Ridley McLean, Capt. and Mrs. Joel T. Boone, Mrs. Frank B. Freyer, Dr. and Mrs. James A. Lyon, Miss Ella Lorraine Dorsey and her niece, Mrs. Howard; Dr. and Mrs. Macpherson Crichton, Mrs. Thomas Dawson, Miss Lilita Dawson, Mrs. P. Lee Phillips, Mrs. Robert Imbrie, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Caspar Miller, Mr. and Mrs. William Walker Smith, Mrs. Calvin Matthews and Col. and Mrs. John Otto Johnson.

After the close of the concert many of the guests wandered into the garden to see the great Regia Victoria, largest of pond lilies, only to find that, although its giant pads were afloat on the lily pond, its blossoms had closed with nightfall. A waning moon contributed its beauty to the closing hour of the evening.

Mr. L. G. van Hoorn Is Luncheon Host.

Mr. L. G. van Hoorn, Charge d'Affaires of the Netherlands, entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Carlton, his guests numbering thirteen. Mr. Ussaki Bulent, Second Secretary of the Turkish Embassy, also had guests for luncheon and Mrs. J. Reed Lane entertained for a small company in the garden of the Carlton.

Miss Parent and Guest Return to New York.

Miss Paulette Parent and her guest, Mlle. d'Astoria Jackowska, will go to New York within the next day or two for a short visit. Mlle. Jackowska, who is with the Monte Carlo opera, came from New York to sing "The Marseillaise" and "Paris, New York," the latter composed especially for the occasion, at the banquet given in honor of the trans-Atlantic fliers, Capt. Dieudonne Coste and M. Maurice Bellonte at the Willard on Monday. Miss Parent composed the music for this stirring march and Mlle. Jackowska wrote the words.

Mr. and Mrs. George Heiberger, of Brooklyn, N. Y., flew to Washington yesterday and are at the Dodge Hotel.

Dr. and Mrs. Macpherson Crichton entertained at dinner last evening at their home in H street, afterward taking their guests to the concert at the Pan-American Union. Dr. and Mrs. Crichton returned to Washington Wednesday from Warrenton, Va., where they were guests of Dr. and Mrs. Edmond Horgan at their country place and attended the Warrenton Horse Show. They had come home from their summer holiday ten days ago in order to be here for the wedding of their niece Mrs. Ashford Robert, and Lieut. Edward Conrad Metcalfe, U. S. N.

British Envoy Returns From Metropolis

Col. Day Will Arrive in City November 1 for Embassy Post.

News seems to be centering about the British Embassy these days, with the ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, just back in town, several of the secretaries returning or about to return from summer vacations, others leaving for a belated holiday and with a new military attache, Col. Maurice Fitsmaurice Day, coming about November 1 to succeed Col. L. H. R. Pope-Hennessy.

Appointment of Col. Day is of special interest to the Capital, for he is married to a Washington girl, the former Miss Eleanora Morgan. If memory serves, Col. Day was connected with one of the many British missions which came to Washington during and immediately after the war when he claimed Miss Morgan as his bride. She is the daughter of Mrs. James Dudley Morgan and the late Dr. Morgan and was a great belle here in her girlhood. Since her marriage she has been back only for occasional visits to her old home. The British Ambassador, too, has an American wife, Lady Lindsay having been Miss Elizabeth Hoyt, of New York.

Col. Pope-Hennessy has been at home on leave for several months. It is understood that he is retiring from the service, as both he and Dame Una Pope-Hennessy are anxious to settle down in their English home. Dame Una, one of a small group of English women bearing this title, received it in recognition of her work during the war.

Col. Stanley Riggs Tells of Tour Among Ruins

Director of Scientific Group Back Home From Italy.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stanley Riggs have returned after a summer spent motoring throughout Italy and have reopened their apartment in Stoneleigh Court. Last June Mr. Riggs, who is the director and secretary of the Archeological Society of Washington, sailed to inspect new archeological excavations throughout the Italian Peninsula.

Mr. Riggs pays high tribute to the Italian roads and especially to the "autostrade" or motor speedways, toll roads, well surfaced and as straight as they can be made.

Neither bicyclists nor pedestrians are allowed on them, and the sky is the limit for speed. As no cross-roads intersect them, and all traffic is both light and fast, they are a tremendous convenience. The tolls are very moderate. One such speedway links Naples with Pompeii, another runs from Milan to the lake country, and a new one is now partly constructed up the slopes of Vesuvius. The motorist will soon be able to drive his machine almost into the smoking crater if he wants a brand-new thrill. Other similar roads are to be found all over the well-motorized parts of the country.

Mr. Riggs studied closely the excavations at Pompeii and Herculaneum and describes the thrill which comes from looking down from a commonplace street of the present, with macaroni drying in the sunshine, into the patio of a house built 1,900 years ago.

During his conferences in Rome and other Italian centers, Mr. Riggs arranged for a number of articles by scholars of international note on archeological subjects. "One article, to be published this winter by Art and Archaeology, of which he is editor," he says, "written in the United States by an American, I took to Rome and showed to several great scholars there. They were greatly interested and not a little amused at the subject. So far as they knew, it had never been seriously treated before by any magazine in any language. But when I asked them for pictures to illustrate it, they confessed themselves stumped. However, I finally got no less a personage than the director general of fine arts to promise that he would have made and mailed to me a set of photographs I could use. What's it all about? Oh, nothing very important: just soap. I think we shall call it 'Sapó Hill,' because that, so far as we know, is where soap was accidentally discovered. It named that particular Roman hill, and our highly refined soap of today is a direct outgrowth of the purely casual mixing of melted fat from sacrifices with the ashes of altar fires that blazed on obscure shrines of a flock of lesser deities whose very names long ago passed into oblivion."

Miss Marion Maxwell Darrah, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Thomas Walter Darrah, has chosen November 20 as the date of her marriage to Mr. Warren Dwight Brewster, son of Mr. Samuel Dwight Brewster, of New York, which will take place at the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Redeemer in Baltimore. Col. Darrah is now chief of staff of the Third Corps Area.

Miss Darrah is a graduate of the Holton Arms School of Washington and is a member of the Washington Junior League. Mr. Brewster was graduated from Princeton University.

Law Delegates Visit In Capital.

Some of the foreign delegates to the International Law Association, which has just completed a ten-day session in New York, are now in Washington for brief visits before returning to their homes. Among those at the Mayflower are Mr. J. C. Witenberg, legal counsel to the Polish Embassy in Paris, and another delegate from Poland, Dr. Roman Kuratow-Kuratowski, of Warsaw; also Mr. Viggo Carstensen, of Copenhagen.

Mr. Witenberg was one of the three speakers at the reception given yesterday to the delegates by the Mayor of Philadelphia.

Mr. Carstensen is secretary of the American Scandinavian Foundation and is a practicing attorney in Copenhagen. He took a course in commercial law at Columbia University in 1926-1927.

These delegates are accompanied by their wives. Mr. and Mrs. Carstensen will make a trip to the Pacific Coast before sailing for Denmark.

Dr. Kuratow-Kuratowski is honorary general secretary of the Polish branch of the International Law Association. He and his wife will go to Buffalo and then to Chicago for a short visit before sailing.

The Charge d'Affaires of Poland, Mr. Stanislaw Lepkowski, gave a luncheon yesterday for members of the Polish group.

Mrs. James C. Stone and her son, James C. Stone, jr., have returned to their apartment at the Mayflower from the Lake Traverse Shore Country Club, on Lake Michigan, where they passed the summer.

Mrs. John R. Mancuso will close her cottage near Annapolis early next week and will return to her home in Chevy Chase.

THE WET AND DRY ISSUE.

Everybody brags of victory and nobody is happy over this week's primaries. For every gain made by the wets, the drys can point to victories. Here and there a head has fallen into the basket, but the make-up of the next Congress as a whole will not be changed, so far as prohibition is concerned. The liquor question cuts through both parties, as usual, making a stalemate.

Gov. Roosevelt of New York crosses the wet Rubicon by declaring himself emphatically in favor of repeal of the eighteenth amendment. That is good politics so far as New York State is concerned, but it probably eliminates Roosevelt from the presidential race in 1932. A yell has already gone up from the South. Democrats who had a New York wet forced upon them in 1928 are giving notice that the South will not stand for a wet candidate again.

The wet-and-dry interparty cleavage is more apparent in the Democratic than the Republican party. In the Democratic party it is a sectional cleavage, which makes it worse. The Northern and Southern wings of the Democratic party do not flap at all in harmony. Unless the chasm can be bridged somehow within a few months, all hope of making a strong showing in 1932 may as well be abandoned.

The Republican party is little better off, so far as the disruptive prohibition question is concerned. Wet and dry Republicans are enjoying the pleasure of ripping party harmony to pieces. But thus far the intestine quarrel has not taken a sectional aspect, and the party spokesmen have managed to avoid nation-wide controversies on the subject.

The growth of sentiment against the eighteenth amendment is alleged, but it is difficult to point to any increase of wet sentiment in the next Congress, based upon the nominations already made. A tremendous overturn would be necessary in order to bring about the passage of a joint resolution in Congress proposing repeal or modification of the eighteenth amendment. No such overturn is in sight. If the drift toward a wet Congress is in process it is very slow.

In order to repeal or modify the eighteenth amendment it would be necessary to obtain affirmative action by three-fourths of the States. Thus thirteen States could block action. Very few wet advocates will assert that opposition to the eighteenth amendment has reached the point where it can swing a majority of the States into line. Yet the United States must be three-fourths wet before the eighteenth amendment can be changed or repealed. Apparently, if repeal is to be referred to the States, its fate will be determined by last-ditch drys, concentrated in the few States that can determine the result.

TRAVELERS' TALES.

Politicians who are in the habit of going abroad for their campaign ammunition are having a particularly sad experience this year. Not many years ago it was quite safe to trump up arguments in foreign countries and transfer them to American soil to support one's political convictions. But the method is now obsolete. Foreigners have acquired an annoying habit of listening in on the remarks of Americans who have visited them. Wherever there is an inclination to depart from veracity or even to put an absurd interpretation on facts gleaned from abroad, the returning statesman may expect to be checked up.

Senator Barkley brought home "grave fears" that the American tariff may result in reopening the question of war debts. Great Britain was quick to resent his insinuation that that country would be unable to pay its obligations because of changes in the tariff. British officials are at a loss to understand where Senator Barkley obtained his "information." Now the French government issues an emphatic denial that the American tariff will have any effect upon payment of that country's war debts, and economic authorities challenge the senator's conclusion that trade between France and the United States will be diminished.

The attitude of Canada toward the Smoot-Hawley act has been similarly misrepresented. Tales of resentment and hostility from South America can also be discounted. Politicians traveling abroad hear "unofficial" whispers and broadcast them through loudspeakers, amplified a thousandfold. In some cases even the whispers are invented.

Foreign governments resent being drawn into American political controversies, just as the United States Government objects to having its policies made the catspaw of foreign political wrangles. Domestic problems can well be confined within our own borders. The politician who is indiscreet enough to misrepresent the policies of foreign nations for political advantage may expect in the future to have the wind taken out of his sails.

MERCHANT MARINE RIVALRY.

When the United States set out to build a merchant marine adequate to carry its extensive commerce to all parts of the world an era of keen international competition in shipbuilding was inaugurated. No nation is willing to sacrifice its relative standing in the maritime world. Determination by one country to build a greater merchant fleet stimulates activity in every rival's shipyard.

Because of the higher prices that must be paid for American labor and materials, it was necessary for the Government to make funds available to shipping companies at low interest rates, and to grant liberal mail contracts. But various foreign governments are finding that the American fleet is growing at the expense of their own, and are adopting similar policies. The National Council of American Shipbuilders has just completed a world-wide survey in which it is found that shipping subventions are becoming more numerous and liberal. Sweden just set aside by royal decree a flexible fund that will make more than $26,000,000 available to finance construction of new merchant vessels. Germany and Italy subsidize their merchant marines. The annual subvention allowed shipping interests of Brazil has been increased. The French minister of marine has prepared bills that would allow ship owners large funds at low interest rates, and Belgium and Japan are reported to be contemplating similar measures.

The British shipbuilding industry is undergoing a series of revolutionary changes that will concentrate production in a few yards. Machinery is to be modernized and the principles of mass production will be introduced into the shipbuilding industry.

Two results of general importance to the United States may be anticipated from this movement. The growth of subventions granted by other governments may restore the difference in competitive conditions in favor of foreign shipping interests. The general stimulation of shipbuilding will intensify competition, which will mean that the finest vessels will be patronized and that others may be operated at a loss or remain idle.

These conditions should not deter the United States from strengthening its merchant fleet. It is imperative that a great commercial country should operate its own fleet for overseas transportation. If it becomes necessary to revise the merchant marine act to offset the advantages granted foreign shippers by their governments, Congress should not hesitate to do so. Competition will be keen, but the United States is in a better position to meet it than any other country. The new American lines may run into some difficult sledding for a time, but the country can not afford to relinquish its program for development of a merchant fleet because other nations have similar ambitions.

HUEY LONG AND HIS MACHINE.

Louisiana is accustomed to the tactics of its governor, Huey P. Long, but it is somewhat shocking to the rest of the country to learn that this politician intends to have himself elected to the Senate and at the same time remain governor. Dispatches from New Orleans indicate that Gov. Long dares not leave Louisiana, even to assume the duties of a senator at Washington, because once away from the State his personal political machine would collapse.

Gov. Long's regime is perhaps the nearest approach to a dictatorship that an American State has experienced. He was impeached on seven charges, but his hold on the State Senate was so secure that more than one-third of the senators announced he would be exonerated regardless of the evidence, and the case was dropped in view of the two-thirds rule. Having taken over control of every State board and bureau, he has filled all positions with his henchmen, and built up a powerful machine. Curiously enough, this is the very reason why Gov. Long may not take the senatorial seat. Should he do so Lieut. Gov. Paul Cyr, a bitter enemy, would succeed him, and turn every Long supporter out of office. Long has been so careful to place every State employe under control of the chief executive that it would be no trouble for his successor to completely upset his patronage-nourished machine.

The next gubernatorial election in Louisiana will be held in 1932. Gov. Long plans to keep his present office until then, hoping to relinquish it to a faithful subordinate who would keep the Long machine intact. Some doubt is expressed that he will ever take a seat in the Senate, but there appears to be no ground for such optimism, since Long informed his audiences several times during the campaign that he was headed for the White House, and his frenzied admirers have already inaugurated a "Long for President" movement.

Any plan to keep Huey Long in Louisiana, even for a year, would be generally welcomed by the country.

AMERICANS WIN IN POLO.

Polo was a British game, particularly a British army game, long before it became popular in America. But once again Britain bows before the United States in the international polo matches. On Saturday last the American team triumphed over the British at Meadow Brook by a score of 14 to 9. By the identical score, on Wednesday, the American team won its second victory and the championship. With it went the Westchester Cup, which is to polo what the America's Cup is to yachting and what the British open championship is to golf.

The Americans, Tommy Hitchcock, Eric Pedley, Earl Hopping and Winston Guest, played a slashing, long-hitting, merciless game. The Englishmen, Lieut. Humphrey Guinness, Charles T. I. Roard, Lewis Lacey and Gerald Balding, made a powerful combination, but one that lacked sufficient stamina to stand up against the American attack. Early in the match the Britons jumped into the lead, but as the match progressed the American team was able to wear down its opponents, until, in the sixth period, the Americans scored four goals and in the final period, three. The American team played with reckless abandon, following close on the ball and giving no quarter. It is this attribute that goes far to explain the comparative superiority of America's sportsmen in international competitive events.

Bobby Jones won the British amateur and open golf championships. The American big four won the international polo matches. The races for the America's Cup get under way between the defending Enterprise and the challenging Shamrock on Saturday. If Enterprise wins these races, America will have had an almost perfect year in international competition, having met defeat only on the tennis courts.

FLYING OVER CROWDS.

The Department of Commerce has warned aviators that flying altitudes lower than 1,000 feet will be prohibited in the vicinity of the races for the America's Cup which get under way Saturday. Discussing the prohibition, Secretary Young recently said:

> A large number of persons are expected to be congregated in the immediate vicinity of the race course and this will constitute an "assemblage of persons" within the meaning of the air commerce regulations. The regulations provide that no flight under 1,000 feet in height shall be made over an open air assembly of persons except with the consent of the Secretary of Commerce.

This common-sense regulation designed for the protection of the public quite properly is invoked during the America's Cup races. Why was it not enforced during the national air races in Chicago, during the course of which four persons, including one civilian spectator, were killed? If it is dangerous for planes to fly at altitudes lower than 1,000 feet over Enterprise and Shamrock V it was doubly dangerous for airplanes to be stunted and intricately maneuvered over the "assemblage of persons" that was congregated at Chicago.

Ambassador Dawes has returned to London after a vacation in France and Spain, during which he inspected paleolithic drawings and hieroglyphics in ancient caves. Apparently he is far enough removed from politics to appreciate handwriting on the wall.

Representative Cramton, of Michigan, author of the lump-sum plan of starving the National Capital, has lost his renomination by the lump sum of 119 votes.

College credits are to be given in Missouri for radio performances. Why can't they also arrange some prizes for scholastic endurance contestants?

Niles Bernard plans to make a trip over Niagara Falls to earn enough money to become an aviator. Not matter what happens, he'll get his wings.

FOREIGN COTTON

From the Wall Street Journal.

Cotton crop as of September 1 is officially estimated at 14,300,000 bales compared with about 14,700,000 a year ago. Taking into consideration the carryover of old cotton in both seasons the total supply this current season is considerably larger than a year ago and, with two exceptions, is the largest of any postwar period. As increased use of foreign-grown cotton accounts for this growing surplus, the remedy is to be found in meeting foreign competition if we wish to maintain our export market.

The semiannual report of the International Federation of Master Cotton Spinners shows that in the past season world consumption of cotton was not very much smaller than the previous year; but it further shows that there was a tremendous decrease in consumption of American cotton and a large increase in use of that of other growths. The New York Cotton Exchange service has converted the figures given for different countries into equivalent American standard bales, and the comparisons are somewhat startling.

The world consumption of cotton of all growths in the season ended July 31, 1930, was 24,579,000 bales compared with 25,767,000 a year ago and 25,367,000 two years ago. The reduction from that of a year ago was 1,200,000 bales, but it was all in American cotton. World consumption of American-grown cotton was 13,029,000 bales against 15,169,000 a year ago and 15,500,000 two years ago. While consumption of American cotton declined 2,140,000 bales in the past year that of foreign-grown cotton increased almost a million bales.

These are the bald facts of the case. Only one conclusion can be drawn; foreign consumers are finding it profitable to use other than American cotton. This is a situation that neither cooperative marketing nor holding movements can remedy, because by such tactics we simply play into the foreign producers' hands. He who would sell goods in the world markets must meet world competition. This simple truism seems to be overlooked in our cotton policy. Yet, if we are to remain in the export market we must do that very thing.

Raw cotton is the greatest item in our export trade, sometimes amounting to 20 per cent of the total. Eliminate that and we say farewell to an export balance. It is essential that the export trade be preserved, but operating in a buyers' market we must meet buyers' terms. That can be done and the producer given a fair return by producing a better quality at a less price than our competitors.

JUST A MOMENT.

By STEPHEN B. STANTON.

Such is the providence of individuality that we often get our pick though we take what others have left.

In overenthusiasm there is always favoritism that deals unfairly toward some one or something.

These little tops of attainment are but the foothills of a higher range.

Self-criticism is apt to suppress our best as well as our worst.

Drought Hit Corn Borer.

Liberty Center Press: A few years ago the Government spent millions of dollars in a war on the European corn borer and with as much effect as pouring water on a duck's back has, according to some very dependable agriculturist testimony. And this season the corn belt experienced one of the worst droughts in history. And the drought wiped out the corn borer root and branch. And yet some people seem to think that the Lord doesn't know His business and must needs keep telling Him what to do all the time.

Mexico's Population.

Vera Cruz El Dictamen: The official returns of the general census of the republic (Mexico), which have just been completed, show that the population of the nation is now 16,404,030 persons of both sexes, as contrasted with the 14,334,780 persons computed in the general census of 1921.

These figures show a net increase in the population of 2,069,350 souls. The most populous state in the republic is that of Vera Cruz, with 1,376,865 inhabitants. The only state which did not increase in population during the last decade is Colima, which shows a decrease of 30,904.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

SUPPER-TIME.

The fire is 'neath the kettle
and the steak is in the pan,
Now a man is coming homeward
Who went out when day began;
And a woman hums a ditty
As she brings the dishes out,
Once again its time for supper
All the nation round about.

The pie is in the oven
And it's time to brew the tea,
Come the children to the kitchen
Just as hungry as can be.
All this mighty nation over
Wheresoever you may roam,
It is time once more for supper
And the men are coming home.

Though some there are like breakfast
And some the noon day fare,
I choose the evening supper
When I am done with care.
For love has set the table
And made the meal complete,
And every bite is seasoned
With mirth and laughter sweet.

From countless humble chimneys
Smoke columns curl and climb,
Proclaiming, nation over,
That it is supper time.
And on the streets and pathways
Where falls the evening gloam,
The tired and hungry fathers
Again are coming home.

The One Who Exalteth Not Himself Is the One the World Calls Up Higher.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MOST of the annoyances that give your day a bitter flavor are a result of looking for trouble.

Perhaps you won't admit the truth of that, for you think of yourself as a reasonable person who endures much and never invites a quarrel.

But if you are a normal human with an unwhipped spirit, you carry a chip on your shoulder.

You are quick to resent any trespass on your rights; you are ready to speak up at any moment and demand all that is coming to you; you are on your guard lest anybody slight you or fail to show you the consideration and respect to which you feel entitled.

The inevitable result, in a world that has little interest in your feelings, is a succession of irritating incidents that spoil your day regardless of their outcome.

The cause of all this irritation is the fact that you feel entitled to certain things, and the cure is a bedrock humility.

Many people are afraid of humility. They think it will shame them—that the world will take advantage of it and trample on them.

But humility doesn't mean boot-licking. It is an element of greatness—a fine and manly quality possessed by every servant of humanity who has earned a page in history.

To be humble is merely to realize that you aren't "entitled" to anything—to demand nothing and expect nothing.

Once you develop that state of mind, you have a new sense of freedom and peace and your life is purged of petty annoyances.

Because you are no longer belligerent, you no longer arouse in others a spirit of antagonism. Your neighbor no longer cares about the line fence because you aren't contentious about it. The world offers you the seat for which it would have contested tooth and nail if you had tried to take it. There is no fun in trying to beat a man who says: "After you, sir."

Do you think that is bosh—that a hard-boiled world will take advantage of humility?

Well, Lindbergh was remarkably humble. Did the world take advantage of him?

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

PROHIBITION'S BAREFOOT BOY.

(Based on the suggestion at the dry agents' school, that children at play be used for getting evidence of neighborhood violations.)

Blessings on thee, little man,
Barefoot boy, with cheek of tan!
With thy turned-up pantaloons
And thy eye out for saloons;
With thy seeming simple play
Just a ruse throughout the day;
With the sunshine on thy face,
Watching each suspicious place;
From my heart I sing of you—
I was once a snooper, too!
Prince thou art, for at thy fun
You can spy on ev'ryone.
Let the million-dollared ride;
Barefoot, trudging at his side,
You can keep an eagle eye
On his search for Scotch or rye;
Outward sunshine, inward joy,
Blessings on thee, snooping boy!

II

Oh, for boyhood's painless play
Doing things the Dengler way,
Getting (thanks to dry force rules)
Knowledge never learned at schools—
Of the scofflaw's morning chase
For his drink at Tony's place;
Where the whoopee makers fly,
Where the quartets sing, and why;
Where the neighbor has a still
In his home upon the hill;
Where the grapes and berries go,
Who tends bar for So-and-so;
Where the rum truck makes its stops,
Who has mash and who has hops;
Where the drug store is that will
Sell a highball or a pill;
How the neighbor down the line
Gets his elderberry wine;
How the people on the ridge
Get the gin they serve at bridge;
In what cellar very near
There's a load of home-made beer.

III

Cheerily, then, my little man,
Snoop and spy where'er you can;
Making boyhood games a sham,
Peek and peep for Uncle Sam;
Every day shall see thee get
Evidence of places "wet;"
Every evening, done with sport
You shall make a spy's report;
All too soon the years will fly
When a boy can be a spy;
Grown-up men with unshod feet
Can not play games in the street;
Adults playings hounds and hare
Cause the neighbors all to stare;
When you reach a man's estate
You can't swing upon a gate
Without people passing by
Stopping just to wonder why;
In his childhood is the time
For a lad to hunt for crime;
Ah, that thou couldst know the joy,
Blessings on thee, barefoot boy!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Impressions of a Wide-Awake American Who Recently Traversed Europe.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: A quick trip to England, France, Switzerland and Germany has given me some impressions that may be of interest to you.

In England there is a condition of mental depression that is impressive in relation to all classes. Lack of leadership is felt keenly. Beaverbrook's empire plan commands wide attention, because it is at least a plan. Neville Chamberlain is well regarded by the commercial people. A dogged attitude is prevalent, tending to sullenness among working people. The October round table conference is hoped to develop a solution of some of the many problems, and has the attention of all resopnsible people. India is regarded with the utmost seriousness, and some impatience. Men of big business say that a solution must be found; they also say that the empire plan is fatally weak, because the dominions can not give up the revenues now collected on imports from Great Britain and other British countries.

France complains of a marked slowing up in business, but feels conditions are better than elsewhere. The low unemployment is appreciated at full value. Investment in German concerns is increasing. Friendly relations with Germany are reasonably forecast. Italy in alliance with Germany is feared, and the combination will be prevented if possible. The younger men especially are clear on this point—they propose to prevent the stupidity of war, even as an active menace. Tardieu will return in full strength, and will develop the policy of friendship with Germany. Briand's united Europe plan is regarded benevolently, because he is near retirement, and can have anything he wants. This may possibly include the French presidency, although a comparative unknown is being groomed for that job at the moment.

In Berlin there is keen consciousness of the changed conditions in the United States. These will be closely watched and the labor situation measured in relation to Red agitation. The September 14 election is counted on to produce a clearer picture of what the nation really wants. The confusion of parties is deplored, and every effort is being made to effect combinations in advance of election day. Underneath all else is one big question as to whether the old flag or the new flag shall be permanent. There is a deep rift here between husbands and wives, close friends, business associates. Great care is exercised to avoid the question socially. The attitude generally toward Americans is friendly, and help of the most practical kind is forthcoming on large and small matters. The years immediately ahead are counted on to restore the relations that existed before the war.

Heroism of Patrolman Baker Makes a Story More Thrilling Than Fiction; His Promotion Suggested.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In this morning's Post I read that most thrilling story of the heroic work done by the young police officer, Earl L. Baker, of the Second Precinct, who risked his life in arresting the jealousy-crazed Howard Carson, thus saving the life of an equally brave and courageous young woman whom he sought to murder. It is said that truth is stranger than fiction and, of all the dime novels and movie thrillers I have read, your vivid description of this unusual experience far surpasses them all in completeness of minutely interesting detail.

It occurred to me that some official and public recognition should be granted this young officer who performed this heroic service in the interest of human life. I am confident that I speak the sentiments of most of the citizens of Washington when I say that such deeds of heroism in the face of great danger are what make Washington proud of the high type of police officers who constitute the majority of our local force. Such acts of bravery as that of Patrolman Baker should receive not only public commendation, but also a substantial promotion in service.

TATE T. HACKNEY.

Careless and Inconsiderate Drivers Might Be Curbed by a Black Mark System, Says Mr. Haweis.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As a corrective measure for disciples of Jehu, might it not be well to report flagrant cases of inconsiderate driving by automobilists, even if no accident has taken place? The owner of the car would receive an intimation that he had been reported for inconsiderate driving, with details, date and place; that no further action was contemplated but that it would be recorded against his car's number for three months. Police would report such cases without stopping the car in the course of their duties. Private people might be required to put the accusation in writing and pay ten cents, as a curb upon people with a misguided sense of humor. When the furious driver did come before a magistrate a few such black marks on his record might be disregarded, as the best of drivers make occasional mistakes, but more than one or two might automatically double whatever punishment was inflicted. The knowledge that any driver, when no policeman is in evidence, could report on careless driving might have a noticeable effect.

National Defense Personnel Spends All Right, but Dollars Won't Buy Much.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The most highly-paid giver of advice tells us in your Tuesday issue: "The buying power of everybody if used is amply sufficient to support everybody."

Permit me to assure the former Commander-in-chief of the Army and Navy that the great majority of the personnel of our defense establishments use their buying power as amply as their depreciated dollars will permit. During his long years in command, the service pay dollar remained many cents below one hundred and his successor has kept it there.

Pan-American Union Concert Brilliant Fete

Delegates to Forestry Conference Are Honor Guests.

By JEAN ELIOT.

ANOTHER beautiful fete at the Pan-American Union has been written into the social annals of Washington, this time a concert of Latin American music arranged in honor of the delegates to the Inter-American conference on agriculture, forestry and animal industry, presented before a brilliant audience and broadcast to the great company of radio fans.

Rows of seats on the esplanada were reserved for conference delegates and for chiefs of diplomatic missions, who were present. Back of them were more rows of chairs, all filled; many guests were seated in the Aztec Garden, around the lily pond, and still others looked on and listened to the inspiring program from balconies overlooking the terrace.

The scene was charming, with tall ranks of poplars silhouetted dimly against the summer sky and flood lights throwing into colorful relief standards of the American republics which flanked the loggia, flooded with eerie blue light, of the Pan-American Annex.

On arrival, one found the facade of the building ablaze with light and along the terrace rail a row of flags of the nations of America. Guests were greeted by Dr. Leo S. Rowe, director general of the Pan-American Union. At the entrance to the esplanade stood the counselor, Mr. Franklin Adams, ready with another friendly word of greeting. And this, with the chatter of animated groups, greeting one another after a summer's absence, gave the aspect of a private party to the half hour before the music began. The program was presented by the Navy Band and a group of guest artists prominent in the Latin-American countries.

The Ambassador of Mexico and Senora de Tellez headed the group of diplomats present, others noted being the Minister of Nicaragua, Senor Sacasa, with his daughter, Senorita Maria Sacasa; the Minister of Honduras and Senora de Argueta, the Minister of Guatemala, Senor Recinos; the Minister of Costa Rica, Senor Castro Quesada; the Charge d'Affaires of Cuba and Senora de Baron, and the Charge d'Affaires of Germany, Dr. Kiep.

Glimpsed, too, in the audience were the solicitor general, Mr. Thomas D Thacher; Rear Admiral and Mrs. Ridley McLean, Capt. and Mrs. Joel T. Boone, Mrs. Frank B. Freyer, Dr. and Mrs. James A. Lyon, Miss Ella Lorraine Dorsey and her niece, Mrs. Howard; Dr. and Mrs. Macpherson Crichton, Mrs. Thomas Dawson, Miss Lilita Dawson, Mrs. P. Lee Phillips, Mrs. Robert Imbrie, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Caspar Miller, Mr. and Mrs. William Walker Smith, Mrs. Calvin Matthews and Col. and Mrs. John Otto Johnson.

After the close of the concert many of the guests wandered into the garden to see the great Regia Victoria, largest of pond lilies, only to find that, although its giant pads were afloat on the lily pond, its blossoms had closed with nightfall. A waning moon contributed its beauty to the closing hour of the evening.

Mr. L. G. van Hoorn Is Luncheon Host.

Mr. L. G. van Hoorn, Charge d'Affaires of the Netherlands, entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Carlton, his guests numbering thirteen. Mr. Ussaki Bulent, Second Secretary of the Turkish Embassy, also had guests for luncheon and Mrs. J. Reed Lane entertained for a small company in the garden of the Carlton.

Miss Parent and Guest Return to New York.

Miss Paulette Parent and her guest, Mlle. d'Astoria Jackowska, will go to New York within the next day or two for a short visit. Mlle. Jackowska, who is with the Monte Carlo opera, came from New York to sing "The Marseillaise" and "Paris, New York," the latter composed especially for the occasion, at the banquet given in honor of the trans-Atlantic fliers, Capt. Dieudonne Coste and M. Maurice Bellonte at the Willard on Monday. Miss Parent composed the music for this stirring march and Mlle. Jackowska wrote the words.

Mrs. Pearsons Rust has returned to Washington and is a guest at the Mayflower.

Miss Eva Baker, of Harborside, Me., is at the Dodge Hotel, accompanied by Miss Mary Lackey, also of Harborside.

Mr. and Mrs. George Heiberger, of Brooklyn, N. Y., flew to Washington yesterday and are at the Dodge Hotel.

Dr. and Mrs. Macpherson Crichton entertained at dinner last evening at their home in H street, afterward taking their guests to the concert at the Pan-American Union. Dr. and Mrs. Crichton returned to Washington Wednesday from Warrenton, Va., where they were guests of Dr. and Mrs. Edmond Horgan at their country place and attended the Warrenton Horse Show. They had come home from their summer holiday ten days ago in order to be here for the wedding of their niece Mrs. Ashford Robert, and Lieut. Edward Conrad Metcalfe, U. S. N.

Senator George H. Moses, of New Hampshire, was among those entertaining at luncheon at the Willard roof garden yesterday.

Mr. Henry Dawes, brother of the Ambassador to Great Britain, also entertained informally at the Willard roof garden for luncheon.

Col. Day Will Arrive in City November 1 for Embassy Post.

News seems to be centering about the British Embassy these days, with the ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, just back in town, several of the secretaries returning or about to return from summer vacations, others leaving for a belated holiday and with a new military attache, Col. Maurice Fitsmaurice Day, coming about November 1 to succeed Col. L. H. R. Pope-Hennessy.

Appointment of Col. Day is of special interest to the Capital, for he is married to a Washington girl, the former Miss Eleanora Morgan. If memory serves, Col. Day was connected with one of the many British missions which came to Washington during and immediately after the war when he claimed Miss Morgan as his bride. She is the daughter of Mrs. James Dudley Morgan and the late Dr. Morgan and was a great belle here in her girlhood. Since her marriage she has been back only for occasional visits to her old home. The British Ambassador, too, has an American wife, Lady Lindsay having been Miss Elizabeth Hoyt, of New York.

Col. Pope-Hennessy has been at home on leave for several months. It is understood that he is retiring from the service, as both he and Dame Una Pope-Hennessy are anxious to settle down in their English home. Dame Una, one of a small group of English women bearing this title, received it in recognition of her work during the war.

Col. Day, who is with the Oxfordshire and Buckinghamshire Light Infantry, will have a man-size job, as he will serve also as military attache of the British Legations in Mexico City, Guatemala City, San Salvador, Tegucigalpa, Managua, San Jose, Panama City, Havana, Port au Prince and Santo Domingo.

Sir Ronald Lindsay has returned to the embassy from Long Island, where he was the guest of Mr. Paul D. Cravath and attended the international polo matches. Earlier he had been visiting Mrs. Whitelaw Reid at her camp on Upper St. Regis Lake in the Adirondacks. Mr. Michael Wright, third secretary of the embassy, accompanied him on his travels and returned with him.

Mr. Michael Huxley, second secretary of the embassy, and Mrs. Huxley, who have been in Canada, have also returned. And the first secretary, Mr. T. A. Shone, and Mrs. Shone, who have been abroad on leave, are due back next week. Two other members of the embassy staff, Mr. C. J. W. Torr and Mr. A. R. Dew, left town last night and will sail for England for a holiday.

Ambassador of Chile Returning From Home.

The Ambassador of Chile, Senor Don Carlos Davila, will come to Washington today from New York, where he has been since his arrival Wednesday after a holiday visit to Chile. Senora de Davila and their children, who were with him, returned to the embassy yesterday afternoon.

The Ambassador and Senora de Davila were met in New York by Senor Don Oscar Blanco Viel, who had been serving as charge d'affaires; Senor don Manuel Valdes and Senor Don Carlos Lee, of the embassy staff.

The Minister of Panama and Senora de Alfaro and their family will return to Washington Tuesday from Ogonquitt, Me., where they have been occupying a cottage for several months. The Minister has made frequent trips to Washington during the season.

The Minister of Roumania, Mr. Charles A. Davila, has returned to Newport from Long Island, where he went to attend the international polo matches. He purposes to remain at the resort until late in the month and is looking about for a suitable villa for the summer legation next year.

The Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Charles Francis Adams, left Washington last evening for Newport to attend the boat races to be held there over the week-end. The Secretary will return to Washington Monday.

Returns to Town

Underwood & Underwood.

MISS MARY MacARTHUR came back to Washington recently, accompanying Mrs. Pendleton Mayo and her daughters, whom she had been visiting at Jamestown, R. I.

Former President and Mrs. Calvin Coolidge will arrive at the Saranac Inn, Saranac Lake, N. Y., today for a short visit.

Prince Edouard de Ligne, son of the Belgian Ambassador to the United States, sailed yesterday for Europe on the liner Westernland.

Mr. Alanson Houghton Sojourns in City.

Mr. Alansan B. Houghton, former Ambassador to Great Britain, has arrived in Washington from his home in Corning, N. Y., and is staying at the Carlton. Mr. Houghton has with him Sir Warren Fisher and Mr. T. Jones, of London, England.

Mrs. Bayard Cutting, mother of Senator Bronson Cutting, is now in New York, having returned from Europe on the S. S. Ile de France.

Dr. A. G. McCartney, who has been in California for the summer, has returned to Washington and has taken an apartment at Wardman Park Hotel.

Stanley Riggs Tells of Tour Among Ruins

Director of Scientific Group Back Home From Italy.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stanley Riggs have returned after a summer spent motoring throughout Italy and have reopened their apartment in Stoneleigh Court. Last June Mr. Riggs, who is the director and secretary of the Archeological Society of Washington, sailed to inspect new archeological excavations throughout the Italian Peninsula.

Mr. Riggs pays high tribute to the Italian roads and especially to the "autostrade" or motor speedways, toll roads, well surfaced and as straight as they can be made.

Neither bicyclists nor pedestrians are allowed on them, and the sky is the limit for speed. As no cross-roads intersect them, and all traffic is both light and fast, they are a tremendous convenience. The tolls are very moderate. One such speedway links Naples with Pompeii, another runs from Milan to the lake country, and a new one is now partly constructed up the slopes of Vesuvius. The motorist will soon be able to drive his machine almost into the smoking crater if he wants a brand-new thrill. Other similar roads are to be found all over the well-motorized parts of the country.

Mr. Riggs studied closely the excavations at Pompeii and Herculaneum and describes the thrill which comes from looking down from a commonplace street of the present, with macaroni drying in the sunshine, into the patio of a house built 1,900 years ago.

During his conferences in Rome and other Italian centers, Mr. Riggs arranged for a number of articles by scholars of international note on archeological subjects. "One article, to be published this winter by Art and Archaeology, of which he is editor," he says, "written in the United States by an American, I took to Rome and showed to several great scholars there. They were greatly interested and not a little amused at the subject. So far as they knew, it had never been seriously treated before by any magazine in any language. But when I asked them for pictures to illustrate it, they confessed themselves stumped. However, I finally got no less a personage than the director general of fine arts to promise that he would have made and mailed to me a set of photographs I could use. What's it all about? Oh, nothing very important: just soap. I think we shall call it 'Sapo Hill,' because that, so far as we know, is where soap was accidentally discovered. It named that particular Roman hill, and our highly refined soap of today is a direct outgrowth of the purely casual mixing of melted fat from sacrifices with the ashes of altar fires that blazed on obscure shrines of a flock of lesser deities whose very names long ago passed into oblivion."

Miss Marion Maxwell Darrah, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Thomas Walter Darrah, has chosen November 20 as the date of her marriage to Mr. Warren Dwight Brewster, son of Mr. Samuel Dwight Brewster, of New York, which will take place at the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Redeemer in Baltimore. Col. Darrah is now chief of staff of the Third Corps Area.

Miss Darrah is a graduate of the Holton Arms School of Washington and is a member of the Washington Junior League. Mr. Brewster was graduated from Princeton University.

Law Delegates Visit In Capital.

Some of the foreign delegates to the International Law Association, which has just completed a ten-day session in New York, are now in Washington for brief visits before returning to their homes. Among those at the Mayflower are Mr. J. C. Witenberg, legal counsel to the Polish Embassy in Paris, and another delegate from Poland, Dr. Roman Kuratow-Kuratowski, of Warsaw; also Mr. Viggo Carstensen, of Copenhagen.

Mr. Witenberg was one of the three speakers at the reception given yesterday to the delegates by the Mayor of Philadelphia.

Mr. Carstensen is secretary of the American Scandinavian Foundation and is a practicing attorney in Copenhagen. He took a course in commercial law at Columbia University in 1926-1927.

These delegates are accompanied by their wives. Mr. and Mrs. Carstensen will make a trip to the Pacific Coast before sailing for Denmark.

Dr. Kuratow-Kuratowski is honorary general secretary of the Polish branch of the International Law Association. He and his wife will go to Buffalo and then to Chicago for a short visit before sailing.

The Charge d'Affaires of Poland, Mr. Stanislaw Lepkowski, gave a luncheon yesterday for members of the Polish group.

Mrs. James C. Stone and her son, James C. Stone, jr., have returned to their apartment at the Mayflower from the Lake Traverse Shore Country Club, on Lake Michigan, where they passed the summer.

Mrs. John R. Mancuso will close her cottage near Annapolis early next week and will return to her home in Chevy Chase.

DOG IS REPLACED IN MISSION WORK

Planes Will Be Employed by Jesuits Among Natives of Alaska.

NEW YORK DONATES ONE

Los Angeles, Sept. 11.—"Dogs have had their day in furthering the cause of religion in Alaska, and from now on airplanes will take the place of 'huskies' in carrying Catholic missionaries above the snowy trails that separate the missions of the Far North."

That statement was made by Brother George J. Feltes, S. J., who, in company with his copilot, Capt. George Pickenpack, and Father Phillip Delon, arrived at Grand Central Air Terminal preparatory to departure for the North.

The Bellanca amphibian plane, named the Marquette, after the famous missionary of that name, was donated to the Jesuits by the Marquette League of New York City. The commission for the Alaskan missionary work was given by Rev. Joseph M. Piet, S. J., superior of the California province.

Father Delon who, with Brother Feltes, boarded the Marquette after the plane had been blessed by Bishop Crimont, is superior of the Alaska missions, having served his church in the North the last fifteen years. Brother Feltes, who is an experienced pilot, is a native of San Francisco, and the last five years has been stationed at St. Ignatius Church in that city.

"Los Angeles is a paradise and I do not relish leaving this city for the rigorous northland but I must play my small part in spreading the light among the 8,000 Indians and Eskimo, members of the Catholic Church," said Brother Feltes.

The plane, which will be used for communication between the chain of Jesuit missions extended from Bering Strait to Anchorage, and inland to Fairbanks, is equipped with radio and other conveniences.

Payment Stopped On Check for Fine

Nebraska Traffic Violator Forced to Meet Cost of Collection.

Special to The Washington Post.

Omaha, Sept. 11.—It doesn't pay to stop payment on a check given to a small town official in payment of a traffic fine, Edward Forke discovered. Before he was through he spent several hours in the city jail and was forced to expend $9.

Forke was arrested by Chief of Police Holmes, of Havelock, accused of ignoring a stop sign. Because it was Sunday the chief acted as judge and assessed a fine and costs totaling $5.75. Forke didn't have the money, but induced the chief to accept a check for the amount.

On arriving in Omaha Forke stopped payment on the check.

When the check bounced back Holmes telephoned Omaha police and requested that Forke be arrested and held for him. Detectives went to Forke's home and took him to the station.

The Havelock chief then asked local police to collect the fine and send the money to him.

"I won't pay," Forke declared.

"We are not a collection agency," said Detective Lieut. Vanous.

The Havelock chief then announced that he was coming to Omaha for Forke.

At this juncture Mrs. Forke wired the money to the Havelock official. In addition she had to wire about $3 to cover costs of telephone calls made by the chief in having Forke rearrested.

"I stopped payment on the check because I was unjustly treated," Forke declared at the police station. "Two Havelock cars whizzed through the sign before me, but I was the only one arrested."

BARGES FIGHT PERIL ALONG MISSISSIPPI

BARS ARE DANGEROUS

Memphis, Sept. 11 (A.P.).—The reality of struggle between man and his earth has supplanted the legendary romance of racing packets and gay revel on the Mississippi.

Sometimes terrible in its moments of might, the river became a starved father of Waters during the summer when drought drained it.

Barges crawled between strangely bare banks, or too often halted on bars and in channels where there was not enough depth to continue.

The drought brought a test of the barges' worth—and reminded those who had cried, "The romance is gone," that perhaps only the packets had gone.

If long watches in the night from many a pilot house, the same old drawling cry of "mark twain" from the leadsmen, and unceasing battle to move thousands of tons of river freight do not hold the seeds of romance, then romance has gone, too.

Because of record low stages the biggest towboats could not pull their usual loads. Often barges touched bottom and had to be forced along, if they were not halted, by most careful piloting.

Government dredges worked at low channels and dangerous bars, but there was many a curse from harassed pilots who spent sleepless hours in backing and twisting, squirming and struggling through stretches where no dredge had succeeded in opening a clear way.

Wedded 14 Times And Divorced 13

El Paso, Tex., Sept. 11.—Take it from Bruce W. Steele, who has been divorced thirteen times and is on the verge of getting his papers for the fourteenth time, when a man really sets out to make a woman love him, there's nothing the woman can do about it except give in.

"Women are all alike," says Steele. "I've had enough experience to know. Find their weakness and you have them."

2 Policemen Flee Philadelphia Raid

Philadelphia, Sept. 11.—Two uniformed Philadelphia policemen, busily imbibing brew in an Upper Darby beer parlor, gave an extemporaneous exhibition of high, fancy and frantic fleeing when raiders hurled into the place.

"Cheese it! Here comes the local cops!" cried one of Scoefield's lads as his nose emerged from the suds and he spied the radiers, headed by Public Safety Director John W Goehring, advancing at double-quick.

"Allez oop!" cried the other "Pride of Philly," and allez oop they did doggone quick.

Ammel Plans Sea Flight Tomorrow

Chicago Broker Postpones Hop Day on Account of Weather.

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., Sept. 11 (A. P.).—Capt. Roy W. Ammel, Chicago broker, said tonight unfavorable advices from the Weather Bureau had caused him to postpone the take-off on his projected transatlantic flight to Paris which had been set for tomorrow. He said he might leave Saturday.

Capt. Ammel took his low-wing Lockheed monoplane for a short test tonight. The machine had been examined thoroughly by field mechanics and was pronounced in first-class condition for the flight.

The flier said he hoped to circle above Paris and fly on to Berlin or Rome according to the amount of gasoline he had left.

CORN LOSS ALMOST EQUALS WHEAT CROP

Drought Strikes 820,000,000 Bushels From Anticipated Yield of Feed.

NEW HARVEST FIGURES

(Associated Press.)

The drought has cost the country a loss of corn almost as large as the entire yield of wheat.

On July 1, the crop reporting board forecast a corn crop of 2,802,000,000 bushels, 188,000,000 bushels more than the crop of 1929 and 103,000,000 bushels more than the five-year average. But, the blazing heat of July and August struck 820,000,000 bushels off the anticipated corn yield—just 17,000,000 bushels less than all the wheat the United States is expected to raise this year.

Because the country always feeds about as much corn as it usually grows, the farm board sees an opportunity for the wheat crop to be swallowed by the deficiency in corn. C. C. Teague, member representing fruit and vegetables, said yesterday he believed the low price of wheat as compared to corn would result in feeding of enough of it to live stock to end the national wheat surplus emergency, the solution of which was one of the chief endeavors of during eight years work on farm relief legislation.

Hay Suffers in Drought.

The corn yield, as now indicated, is below the feed requirements of the corn belt proper and leaves nothing for distribution to the twenty States which always buy corn.

Of the feed crops, hay was second to corn as the chief drought sufferer. The tame hay crop is 19,000,000 tons shorter than a year ago. There is an 828,000-ton reduction in wild hay. Alfalfa hay is 2,000,000 tons short.

Oats was the spectacular crop of the year, the indicated production surpassing the 1929 yield by 157,000,000 bushels and the five-year average by 81,000,000.

Durum wheat was 2,000,000 bushels short of the 1929 harvest and 18,000,000 bushels short of the yearly average. Other spring wheat was 14,000,000 bushels larger than in 1929 but 24,000,000 bushels below the average.

Barley showed a gain of 19,000,000 bushels over the unusually large yield of 1929.

North Dakota, largely substituting flax for wheat, hung up a record of 10,453,000 bushels of seed as compared with 6,876,000 last year.

Virginia Loss in Apples.

Buckwheat production fell off 3,000,000 bushels, the two principal States, New York and New Jersey, sharing in the decrease.

The production of grain sorghums decreased 18,000,000 bushels.

Field beans declined 235,000 bushels.

There is an indicated increase of 75,000 tons of beet sugar and a decrease of 14,000 tons of Louisiana cane sugar.

Better crops in Washington, Oregon, California, New York and Pennsylvania contributed largely to the 1,773,000-bushel increase in the commercial apple crop. Virginia lost more than 1,000,000 bushels.

Running the full range of upsets for a total increase of 2,000,000 bushels, the peach crop saw an increase of 15,000,000 in California and a yield only 1 per cent of normal in Illinois.

The pear crop is 3,000,000 bushels larger than last year and the grape crop 236,000 tons larger. Tobacco, 99,000,000 pounds short of the 1929 harvest, is 18,000,000 pounds larger than average. The peanut yield, about 92,000,000 pounds under a year ago, is about average. The potato crop is 20,000,000 bushels below last year and 53,000,000 bushels below average.

Three Men and Boy Held in Robberies

Lad's Wholesale Exchange of Pennies Leads to Four Arrests.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Sept. 11.—Three men and one boy were in custody here today charged with having committed a series of city and county robberies over the last month. Police reported confessions by the boy, whose name was withheld, and Reid Patton, of Martinsburg, who also involved Lester Miller and Randall Caton, both of whom denied the charges.

The list of robberies included three in Martinsburg and four in the county, including three Pennsylvania Railroad depots, one farmer's exchange and some stores.

A total of $60 in cash and some cigarettes, and one revolver were stolen, police said. The boy's exchange of pennies for nickels on a wholesale scale, and some finger prints led to the arrests.

Rev. Edwin O'Hara Returns to Capital

Bishop-Elect Prepares for His Consecration in Portland.

The Rev. Edwin V. O'Hara, recently appointed Bishop of Great Falls, Mont., has returned to Washington after a three-week tour of Western cities and a trip to St. Anne de Beaupre in preparation for his consecration, which will take place in the Cathedral of St. Mary, in Portland, Oreg.

Bishop-elect O'Hara has been a resident of Washington for the last four years. He was prominently identified with work of the National Catholic Welfare Conference and was at one time director of the Catholic Rural Life Bureau. He resigned his post with the cathedral in Portland to become parochial head of Lane County, Oreg., and in this capacity he established the first rural summer school in Eugene, the county seat.

He is a native of Lanesboro, Minn., and received his academic and ecclesiastical degree at St. Paul's College and Seminary, in St. Paul, Minn.

Man Ends Life by Leap Off St. Peter's Cupola

Vatican City, Sept. 11 (A.P.).—For the first time on record a man committed suicide today by jumping from the cupola of St. Peter's basilica. Marcello Nitrati, 33, a pilgrim from Cortena, leaped from the dome and was killed when he struck the street in St. Mark's Square.

A dome guardian accosted Nitrati as he was sitting on the sill of one of the small windows in the cupola, asking what he was doing there. "I am doing nothing. I am going right away," the man replied. Then as the guard turned away Nitrati leaped through the window.

Buses to Displace Staunton Trolleys

City Council and Traction Company in Accord on Change.

Special to The Washington Post.

Staunton, Va., Sept. 11.—Stauntonians have been promised a gift by Councilman Stuart P. Silling. It is a bus system of transportation here, supplanting the present trolley cars.

Staunton has narrow streets, and whenever the problem of traffic congestion came up—and it has been coming regularly for more than a decade—it was the street cars that came in for much of the blame.

Now city council and the Shenandoah Traction Co., owners of the trolley lines in this city, are in complete agreement on a franchise for the operation of bus lines, and elimination of the cars. All that remains to be done is to advertise for bids and dispose of the franchise.

Auto Bandits Rob Trio Near Havre de Grace

Special to The Washington Post.

Chestertown, Md., Sept. 11.—David B. Ford, jr., of this town, a Washington College student, reported today that he and two men friends were held up on the State highway 7 miles east of Havre de Grace by two highwaymen driving a car with a Pennsylvania license early yesterday morning and the trio robbed of $50.

The two bandits, Ford said, are from 28 to 30 years old, and one is over 6 feet tall, while the other is of small stature. They said they were touring the Philadelphia-Baltimore pike on a holdup expedition.

Woman Held on Charge Of Abandoning Baby

Staunton, Va., Sept. 11.—Charged with "maliciously and feloniously leaving an infant just born in the brush along a hillside, and there to die," Liza Barber, 25, colored, was arrested and placed in jail here.

Some hours later neighbors, hearing cries, investigated, after summoning Deputy Sheriff M. P. Ham. The baby was found, alive, and brought to a local hospital. At last reports it was "doing nicely."

Treed Bank Bandit Is Slain by Posse

Louisiana Robbers, Who Fled With $10,000, Are Found in Swamp.

Kentwood, La., Sept. 11 (A.P.).—One of the three bandits who held up the bank at Kentwood today and took funds estimated at $10,000, was shot out of a tree and killed by a member of a posse which surrounded the robbers in a swamp, several miles from here, several hours after the robbery.

The posse began trailing the bandits soon after they had held up the bank and forced them to abandon their automobile and a quantity of silver coins on the outskirts of the swamp.

The sheriff of Tangipahoa Parish said the man was shot in the head and toppled from the tree after he had climbed to a point of vantage in order to fire at his pursuers.

STUDENTS ON STRIKE FOR SHORTER HOURS

Hazelton Pupils Object to Cut in Lunch Period; Others Also Quit.

DEMAND 25-HOUR WEEK

Hazleton, Pa., Sept. 11 (A.P.).—Protesting against restriction of their luncheon period to 25 minutes since the opening of the new term, students of the Hazleton High School went on strike today. It was estimated that about 950 of the 1,050 students took part in the walkout, which began before the time set for the start of the day's sessions.

Marching from the school through the business section of the city the students, some of them carrying placards "Strike at High School," held a mass meeting at city hall, where they were addressed by Andrew Matten, veteran labor leader and former president of the United Mine Workers of the Seventh District. He advised them as to methods of procedure and it was decided to meet tomorrow morning. An effort will be made to secure the intervention of Mayor James G. Harvey and members of the city council.

Students say cutting the lunch period to 25 minutes is a hardship. The school board said the new rule would be given a trial.

Watertown, Mass., Sept. 11 (A.P.).—More than 150 pupils of the Watertown High School went on strike today for a 25-hour week.

Displaying placards announcing, "We want shorter hours," the dissatisfied students left the school at the noon recess, paraded the streets and, according to police, broke a window in the school committee room. The school day hitherto ended at 1:45. An additional hour had been required with the opening of the fall term.

Police assistance was summoned when the paraders reached the school committee quarters and one of the strikers was taken to the station house. He was later released.

comply with District Attorney Crain's request for a John Doe inquiry in the case, urged a grand jury investigation.

May Exhume Judge's Body.

District Attorney Crain announced that his office was preparing to obtain an order from the supreme court to exhume the body of Magistrate Andrew Macrery, who died a year ago. The action was taken at the request of Andrew B. Keating, Tammany district leader, who said insinuations regarding the manner of Macrery's death should be cleared up. The death was attributed to natural causes. Later rumors circulated that he had been fatally beaten because he failed to pay the final installment on the price of his appointment to the bench.

From New York also came word that the proprietor of an Adirondacks lodge identified a picture of the justice as that of one of two men, calling themselves Smith and Jones, of Albany, who spent part of August 30 and all of August 31 at his lodge.

NEW ANTIAIRCRAFT MACHINE GUNS TESTED

Antiaircraft firing tests conducted by the Army at Aberdeen, Md., yesterday featured a new .50-caliber machine gun, capable of firing 500 one-half inch projectiles per minute. By pressing a foot pedal one man fires two of the guns simultaneously. A stoppage on one gun does not affect the other. Chiefs of the Ordnance, Coast Artillery, Air Corps and Engineer Corps witnessed the tests.

tioning normally, and in Buenos Aires shops and factories were operating as usual.

The communique added the value of the Argentine peso, greatly reduced during the latter days of the Irigoyen administration, had shown a favorable rebound, strong evidence of the feeling of confidence in the new provisional government of Gen. Uriburu by the banks of both this country and abroad.

Arms Caching Charged.

The newspaper La Nacion publishes the facsimile of a document alleged to have been found in the offices of the Irigoyen war minister. It purports to show that, following a verbal order from Irigoyen, the minister stored guns and ammunition in buildings near the then president's home for use in case of emergency. The paper said that the total armament included four machine guns and 50 rifles, with 60 rounds of machine gun ammunition and 5,000 rifle cartridges.

La Nacion added that the caching began August 23 and ended September 1, much of the ammunition being placed in Irigoyen's residential building.

Montevideo Prepares.

Montevideo, Uruguay, Sept. 11 (A.P.).—All arrangements were completed this evening to receive Hipolito Irigoyen, deposed president of Argentina, who is en route here down the Plata River from La Plata, capital of the Province of Buenos Aires.

President Campisteguy delegated his secretary to greet the former president. Baltasar Brum, president of the national council of administration, highest governmental authority in Uruguay, also delegated his aid to receive Irigoyen.

Irigoyen was expected around 11 p. m. (9 p. m. E. S. T.).

Shea Faces Count Of Manslaughter

Operator of Car Causing Death of Keliher Is Charged.

A warrant charging William Shea, of Fairmont street near Thirteenth street northwest, with manslaughter and driving while drunk has been issued in Alexandria, according to Commonwealth's Attorney Albert V. Bryan. Shea was driver of a car which crashed into another machine early Sunday near Alexandria, killing Maurice ("Mickey") Keliher, sandlot baseball player.

The warrant has been sent to Richmond for Gov. Pollard to make out requisition papers. Shea has been under arrest here since Sunday, when a warrant charging the three occupants of the car with murder was received by Washington police. The requisition will take precedence over the local hearing on the fugitive warrant.

Earl Garrison, of Farragus street near Sixth street northwest, who has been in Gallinger Hospital, suffering from hurts he received in the crash, surrendered himself yesterday to authorities of Alexandria. No papers have been issued in the case of William McKeever, the third occupant of the car. All three men, who were brought to Emergency Hospital here after the accident, refused to return to Alexandria, which accounted for the warrants being issued.

Occupants of the other car in the accident will also appear in the Virginia court when the case comes up for trial.

inspection and protection to residents through the use of foot patrolmen as with motor patrols.

Leaders of the House and Senate will be sounded out on the subject when Congress reconvenes in December, Gen. Crosby said, and it the plan meets with the approval of Representative Simmons, of Nebraska, chairman of the House subcommittee on District appropriations, a request probably will be made for immediate appropriation of additional money with which to purchase more automobiles for extension of the motor patrol.

United Brethren Hold Session at Staunton

Staunton, Va., Sept. 11.—In making his annual report to the 131st session of the Virginia Conference, United Brethren Church in Christ, the Rev. J. H. Brunk, of Martinsburg, W. Va., conference superintendent, today declared that advances have been made along lines in the church's work except in increasing membership.

Dr. Brunk, giving accounts of conditions in the conference, at the opening business session this morning, said that thirteen charges had increased salaries of pastors; that church anniversaries had netted more than $29,000, and that a new gymnasium is being built at Shenandoah College, Dayton, Va. More than $9,000 was paid on church indebtedness during the year.

Man Dies After Fall From Auto.

Charlottesville, Va., Sept. 11 (Special).—Irven Wood, of this city, auto mechanic in the employ of F. C. Rector, of Washington, D. C., died last night at University Hospital as a result of injuries suffered last Sunday afternoon when he fell from a moving car near Simeon, just beyond Monticello, home of Thomas Jefferson.

ANTIAIRSHIP GUNS SHOWN TO PUBLIC

One Weapon, to Protect Big Cities, Can Fire 500 Shots Per Minute.

FIRST TIME DISPLAYED

Aberdeen, Md., Sept. 11 (A.P.).—Some of the antiaircraft armament and fire control devices improved and developed by the Army since the close of the World War were demonstrated to visitors today at the Aberdeen Proving Grounds. It was the only day of a three months test period, which started August 15, that the public was permitted to view the weapons.

One of the guns was a 37-millimeter mobile antiaircraft weapon firing an explosive bullet weighing 1¼ pounds which explodes when it makes contact with the wing fabric of a plane.

Differing in every respect from its war-time namesake, except in the diameter of the projectile, a battery of four 3-inch mobile antiaircraft guns operated against sky targets, directed by a combination of intricate instruments.

One of these, a height finder, furnishes target altitudes to the mechanical director, which combines it with angular heights and present direction of the target, automatically applies the many necessary corrections and predicts continuously the position the target will reach upon arrival of the shell.

Men familiar with the .30 caliber machine gun used extensively in 1918, today saw a .50 caliber in action, firing at a standard rate of 500 shots a minute. Some of the guns can be turned rapidly in any direction.

The antiaircraft weapons were developed chiefly with the aim of beating off attacks on large centers of population, Army officials said.

GARBER IS INACTIVE IN ELECTION MUDDLE

Petition for Court Action to Get Name on Ballot Remains Unfiled.

TIME IS GROWING SHORT

Special to The Washington Post.

Staunton, Va., Sept. 11.—If Representative Jacob A. Garber, Seventh Virginia District, contemplates petitioning the Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals to order State election officials to place his name on the November ballot, up to time court adjourned today he had made no such move.

Press reports this morning said Mr. Garber was considering legal procedure, which might involve a request to the court for a mandamus requiring his name be put on ballot. The September term of court is drawing to a close, and if Mr. Garber intends to seek the high tribunal's aid he must act quickly.

Attorney General John R. Saunders has ruled Mr. Garber, Republican incumbent and nominee, failed to file formal notice of candidacy 60 days before the November election. When Mr. Garber's attention was called to the fact that he had failed to file within the prescribed time, his only explanation was he forgot it.

M. J. Putnam, Clifton Forge, Republican nominee in the Tenth District, against Henry St. George Tucker, Democratic incumbent and nominee, finds himself in the same boat. He, too, forgot to file.

Auto Broken on Grade.

Lynchburg, Va., Sept. 11 (Special). An automobile driven by H. H. Stewart, Charlotte, N. C., twisted off the right rear axle yesterday while climbing the 23 per cent grade on Tenth street above Church street here. The car dropped back about 100 feet and was turned into a fence to prevent recrossing Church street. Stewart and a companion were not injured.

MISS MYSTERIOUS

By LARRY LAWRENCE

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.

A sorority girl, affectionately known as Babe, gets a severe shock from her guardian, Clemens Forsyth, who saves in a letter that he has lost all her money and therefore is going to commit suicide. He also says that she has been fooled all her life about her marriage and her name is not Thelma Townley. She swears to learn the truth about herself. Stand after getting this shock a young man from the West Coast joins the name of Reuben Morgan calls on her, says he knows of her trouble and proposes that she marry him as a way out of her difficulties. She is to see him the next day. That night she goes to a dance with Pete Jones, Milwaukee senior. He knows nothing of her troubles but proposes. Babe admits her fondness for him, but turns him down, determined to make her own way and learn her real identity before marrying anyone. Pete warns her against two men he has seen following her. That night Babe is kidnaped. Pete rescues her and captures the criminals. They take them to his father's summer home. One criminal escapes and Babe and Pete have to leave the house and hide in a shack, fearing that a gang will return to recapture them. Babe tells Pete her story. They come to Milwaukee and Babe insists that Pete return to school. She goes to a hotel and telephones to her friend, Violet Rimmel, at the sorority house and learns that a sneak thief has taken her metal safety box containing two old brooches. Violet sends Babe's clothes and money to her under the name of Theodora Thomas, the one she has assumed. After days of seeking work Babe is accosted by a man who is rude but forceful. He gives her a mysterious job, explaining nothing. She dresses in evening clothes and is taken to a gambling house. Her employer tells her to call him Mac. He says that he wants her to charm a certain man. The man has just entered the gambling house.

It is Morgan. Mac tells her to learn all she can about him. He takes her to a Milwaukee apartment and says that he has learned that Forsyth is not dead. Then he makes love to her and Babe threatens him. In a scuffle her revolver is discharged and he falls to the davenport. There is a loud knock on the door.

Mac enters. Finds that Morgan is not dead, takes his fingerprints, searches the room and discovers the antique brooches stolen from Babe's room. He takes her to her hotel. She realizes that she is in love but can't decide whether it is Pete or Mac she loves the more. The next day Mac tells her he is hunting down a murderer, a personal enemy, warns her that it is a dangerous job, but asks her to continue working with him. She agrees.

They come to the conclusion that the man he is hunting is the one who is hunting her, Forsyth. Morgan, who might have had a valuable clew, disappears. Babe decides to lure Forsyth into their hands by having her picture printed in the papers.

She feigns amnesia, a sergeant takes her to the police station and newspaper photographers take her picture.

CHAPTER XIII.

Babe's picture was plastered all over the front pages of the market editions. The stories were short but packed with punch, human interest and mystery.

Sammy, talking to his rewrite man, had led off: "Now here's all the dope we got so far," and had told in his own snappy manner how the strange, beautiful, young girl had accosted the sergeant, had wept bitter tears because of her sad fate; had been questioned at length but stuck to her guns, convincing every one that she was suffering from amnesia. When he had finished the known facts in the case he commented, "This baby is smart looking, no fooling. She's got rags like a million bucks and her noodle isn't soft. I think she's pulling a fast one, but she's no ordinary bum with a phoney story. There's probably a whale of a yarn back of it. I'll get busy on it."

Mac had seen Babe go into the station. He had waited for an hour, and while he waited he was in a turmoil of emotion. He kicked himself at one moment for having let Babe try such a stunt and in the next he called himself a fool for his fears. The calm that he had maintained in hundreds of dangerous situations had left him. He was nervous, wondering what Babe's fate would be. He was tempted to run into the station and say, "It's all a mistake. I can clear it up. Let the girl go." But he abandoned this plan, telling himself it would be a fool stunt after she had gone this far.

At last Mac decided he could not stand around the station much longer without coming under suspicion, so he waved to a taxi driver, got in the cab and told the man at the wheel to circle the block slowly. On the second time around he was rewarded by a sight of Babe getting into a big car that stood in front of the station. Mac called to his driver, "Follow that car; don't lose it."

"That's a dick's hack," the driver spluttered, startled that he had been ordered to follow a police car.

"It's just a caprice of mine," Mac attempted an explanation.

"Yeah?" the driver answered, but he followed the car, keeping a discreet distance behind it.

It was not difficult to follow, for it drove to Wisconsin ave., and went west to Twenty-fourth street, where it turned into the Emergency Hospital driveway.

"Where next?" the driver asked, and Mac ordered, "Back to the Pfister hotel. What building is that?"

Babe Faces a New Ordeal.

"Emergency Hospital," the driver grunted, and decided that after all the man was probably all right, just a stranger seeking a thrill. At the hotel Mac gave the driver a two-dollar tip and went into the lobby. He had figured right. The driver would say nothing to the police about him. A two-dollar tip wins loyalty where a larger one might excite too much curiosity.

After waiting a few minutes in the lobby Mac stepped out and started walking west. He glanced over the papers on a newsstand and saw a green truck whirl up and toss off a bundle of late papers. He bought one. The first thing to meet his eye was the picture of Babe. Beside the picture was a story. One line in it gave him the information he was seeking. It said, "She was taken to the Emergency Hospital for mental observation."

"Another ordeal for her. Why did I let her do this?" While Mac was standing on the corner reading his paper another man was reading the same story with almost as much interest. It was Gus, driver of the kidnap car, the huge bully who had come so close to putting Pete out of the way.

"Well I'll be put on the spot if that ain't the dame," he said. In five minutes he was in his car racing out of Milwaukee. He drove for two hours, came to an inland lake, followed a difficult old trail through the woods and came to a bumping stop at a place no automobile could negotiate. Without backing off this road and into a garage hidden by the trees as he would ordinarily have done, he leaped from the car and almost ran to the narrow gateway. Once past this a long, low log bungalow was seen. Gus gave a peculiar shout.

A man with a sawed-off shotgun had been standing at the window which was so placed that he could see outside and yet have protection should any one start pumping lead at the window. A sort of embrasure shielded him. As soon as he recognized Gus he laid the riot gun down and went to the door.

"What the hell you come running and shouting for?" he demanded. "I almost took a crack at you just for fun. That can of yours sure makes enough noise to wake the dead."

"Who are you expecting that you should be nervous?" Gus asked.

"Oh, nobody in particular but the boss has been peevish lately. He's been suffering from a severe case of colored elephants and he thinks somebody is after him. He gets that way when he's coming out of a long curve. Ever since that valentine party he's been that way."

"Is the Duke in there with him?"

The Boss and the Duke.

"Yes, the Duke has been around for a couple of days again. What the boss sees in that bird is beyond me. Do you make it?"

"What do you care?" Gus came back. "He's in, ain't he?"

"Oh! He's in all right but I don't get his racket. He's got no influence in Chi, he's not interested in alky or any of the plays, as far as I can make out."

"Well, it ain't none of your business; why trouble your nut about it? I want to see the Duke. Can I butt in or do you want to bring him out?"

"I'll tell the boss. Keep your eye peeled on the approach will you, Gus? He gets sore if I leave the post without putting some one in."

"Sure, I'll watch, but don't go into no conferences. Make it fast."

The guard still lingered. "Are you heeled, Gus?"

"Do I look dumb?" Gus came back, and at this the guard slipped back into the bungalow.

It was as ornate as the home of a new millionaire, not at all in keeping with the wild surroundings and the log exterior which was reminiscent of old blockhouses.

The walls were finished. The floors were covered with a thick Oriental rug. Overstuffed leather chairs and lounges looked like furniture from an athletic club. But the Boss and the Duke were not in this room. The guard knew that they had moved into as smaller and better fortified citadel when the noise of Gus' car had disturbed the tranquillity of the hideout.

The guard gave a signal knock on the thick oak door of this smaller room and waited a second. The door opened and the Boss stepped into view.

"What's up?" he demanded. "Why did you leave the post?"

"It's all right Boss. It's only Gus. He's guarding now. He wants to see the Duke."

Sport Clothes and a Gun.

The Boss was a squat, swarthy man with a bulging forehead made more prominent by a scar that cut down into the black left eyebrow. He was wearing a French flannel shirt, open at the throat, vivid plaid knickers and violently colored wool sox. He was at his resort mansion to play and have sport, so he wore sport clothes, even if he felt it necessary to be guarded every moment. A leather holster and the butt of an automatic protruded from the left hip pocket of his plus fours, making as incongruous a combination as it would be possible to imagine.

The Boss scowled but called, "Duke, Gus wants to see you."

The Duke emerged. What a contrast. He was dressed in afternoon clothes, striped trousers, fancy vest and frock coat. Fawn-colored spats and black shoes that shone like mirrors added to his impeccable appearance. As he stepped from the door he brushed an imaginary speck of dust from a lapel.

The Duke was older than the Boss, much older. His gray hair and haughty ambassadorial manner gave him an air of distinction and respectability that would make underlings anywhere as obsequious as in the presence of royalty.

He walked through the big living room of the log manor toward the front door. The Boss jerked his head at the guard, and this worthy followed, took up his position at the shielded window as the Duke stepped outside.

Gus was bubbling. "Let's step down to the car," he said. "That shotgun soldier is too nosey. I got news."

The excitement did not seem to reach the Duke. He merely queried, "You think it better to go to the car?"

"Sure. I don't like that yellow smoke at the window."

"Wait for me then," the Duke said and went inside to get a topcoat and a soft velour hat, that looked entirely out of keping with the rest of his costume. Nothing but a high silk hat would have completed the picture.

The Girl Is Found.

They walked toward the gate, and not until they were past it and hidden from the house did Gus speak or the Duke question him.

"I've found her!" Gus exploded then.

"Have you got her?" the Duke asked without raising his voice.

"No. I haven't got her, but I know where she is, where we can lay hands on her."

"Why haven't you got her?"

"I ain't had the chance yet. I thought you would want to know the minute I had got a line on the lady."

"Yes, of course. But, Gus, you show a weakness in mental ability—yes, physical, too, for that matter. You should never have let her escape in the first place. You are an inferior thug. But no need of recriminations now. Maybe you have done something to redeem yourself. Where is the girl?"

"She's at the Emergency Hospital at Milwaukee."

"I trust there has been no violence."

"Naw, I never touched her. I didn't have no clew till I seen this." So saying he took the paper from his inside coat pocket and handed it to the Duke, who read the story carefully without changing expression.

"Are you sure she was not harmed in any way when you had her?" he asked Gus.

"Absolutely not touched. She wasn't even scared much," he answered.

"Gad, you and the runt are incompetents," the Duke remarked. His scorn was not lost on Gus, but he made no remonstrance.

"I should have turned you in years ago, but you have been valuable at times. Oh, well. Let's forget it now and get busy. This needs some brains back of it. Strength won't help here. I suppose her charming schoolboy friend will be rallying the minute he sees this picture. We can't be whipped by a kid again.

"I wonder where the fool is now?"

"He's back at the school. I kept track of him."

The Duke Goes Into Action.

"Yes, that was easy. He'll probably see this picture in the morning. It is about 6 o'clock now. We can get back to Milwaukee by 8. Where is the runt?"

"He's in town. I can lay my finger on him in a minute after we get back."

The Duke returned to the house and spoke a few words to the Boss, then quickly came back to the car, which Gus had turned around. They headed for the main road. Nothing was said. The Duke seemed lost in thought.

While they were driving back to Milwaukee Mac was standing in a drug store near the hospital. He could see the main driveway into the grounds and he was wondering what he should do next. He wanted to see Babe. He wanted to stay beside her and protect her. The thought that he might fail to save her from Forsyth was gnawing at his peace of mind.

"Why, darn it all, I'm getting sentimental." The thought registered suddenly and seemingly without warning on his mind. He went out and walked up and down the block, then returned and drank a malted milk.

"This will do for dinner now," he said. "I don't want to be absent when I am needed."

He killed another hour, one that seemed to have no end. Mac had smoked a whole package of cigarettes since Babe had walked into the police station. He bought another package and was stepping out of the store when he saw a very unofficial looking car drive up and park on Twenty-fourth street.

UNION PLANS GROUP IN GASTONIA MILLS

Textile Workers' Aid Says Communist Influence in Town Is Dead.

SOUTHERNERS FOR MOVE

Atlantic City, Sept. 11 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Francis P. Gorman, vice president of the United Textile Workers of America, forecast today at the convention of the American Federation of Labor Union here that in the immediate future the union will begin organization of textile workers in and around Gastonia, N. C., which during recent years has been torn by Communist-operators strikes.

"We have stayed out of Gastonia up to now for several reasons," explained Mr. Gorman, "chief of them being that we knew the Communists wanted us to come in so they could benefit by our work. I believe the new executive council will decide the time is now ripe and we will go in there." He added his belief that the Communist influence in the Gastonia district is now dead and the situation ready for trade union organization.

Thomas F. McMahon, president of the union, today received telegrams urging immediate action in the Gastonia district from W. B. Plemmons, Southern organizer for the American Federation of Labor, and G. W. Marshall, organizer for the International Machinists Union.

30-Hour Week Resolution.

At tomorrow's session of the convention prospects are said to favor the adoption of a resolution putting the union on record as favoring a 30-hour work week as a means of ending unemployment. This afternoon the resolution was referred to the committee on resolutions and will be voted on tomorrow.

All the union's present officers were renominated without opposition and will be reelected tomorrow, including Thomas F. McMahon, president; Francis J. Gorman, first vice president; William F. Kelley, second vice president, and James Starr, secretary and treasurer. Mr. Gorman and William Smith, of Philadelphia, were named as delegates to the American Federation of Labor convention scheduled for Boston on October 6. The president and secretary are delegates ex officio.

To Fight Injunctions.

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 11 (A.P.).—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, tonight asserted that the full power of the federation would be placed behind the Morris-Blane-Walsh bill to give labor relief from injunctions.

"We have considered the whole matter of injunction relief legislation," he said after a conference with his executive council. "It is the outstanding legislative problem in which the federation is interested and we intend to deal with it in an emphatic direct and detailed way in our report to the Boston convention of the federation next month."

Fishermen Report Thefts.

Three members of the crew of the power fishing boat John T. Powell, tied up at the Municipal Fish Wharf, yesterday reported thefts to police. Clothing valued at $91 and a wristwatch valued at $30 was among the loot. Those reporting the theft were Earl Outten, Harry Sprouse, and Taylor Camben, all of Bridgetown, Va.

DOMINICANS TO ASK $3,000,000 U.S. LOAN

Relief Sum Will Be Sought; 30,000 Appeal to Red Cross for Shelter.

BRITISH SAILORS AIDING

Santo Domingo, Sept. 11 (A.P.).—After a conference with President Trujillo today, the survey committee appointed to estimate the property loss in the recent hurricane made preliminary plans to seek an emergency loan of about $3 000,000 in the United States.

The president had a definite report that the American Red Cross was feeding 18,000 in one section of the city, and considered it necessary to provide for 30,000 shelterless refugees and find work for many more.

While details of the proposed loan to be sought in the United States were undecided, it was suggested that $1,000,000 would be asked for governmental public works and probably $2,000,000 for limited loans to private persons at small interest, secured by first mortgages.

Speakers proposed that banks represented here, including the National City Bank of New York, the Royal Bank of Canada and the Bank of Nova Scotia should cooperate with the government by acting as agents for the disbursements and collections.

President Trujillo today ordered that the collection of internal revenue, heretofore supervised by Dominican officials, should be turned over to an American customs receivership for supervision. The order was effective in the capital today, and in outlying points September 15.

British naval detachments worked like any other laborers today in putting this ancient capital back on its feet.

At request of President Trujillo sailors from the cruiser Danae landed yesterday to supervise cleaning of debris and refuse from the streets, thus releasing fatigued Dominican soldiers who have had almost no relief since the hurricane, Wednesday of last week.

The Britons came, in their white clothes and regulation helmets, but for only a little while did they stand by as guards and supervisors. Their officers almost immediatley put them to work aiding the general reconstruction labor, and today it was evident they were making quite a dent in the task at hand.

Police Alarm Sounded For Stolen Airplane

Pittsburgh, Sept. 11 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Pittsburgh police were ordered to keep their eyes on the sky for a stolen airplane today.

A message broadcast over the State teletype by State police said: "Stolen, an airplane, Challenger make; painted yellow and green; license No. M. C. 3953 painted on wing. Owner, Peter Z. Lobik, Main street, Plymouth, Pa. Stolen at Breslau, Luzerne County, 6 a. m. this date. Keep your eyes on the sky."

Senator Allen Improves.

Baltimore, Sept. 11 (A.P.).—Senator Henry J. Allen, of Kansas, who underwent a major operation at Johns Hopkins Hospital yesterday, passed a good night and is making favorable progress, it was stated today.

MRS. MILDRED ZUKOR LOEW, daughter of Adolph Zukor, motion picture magnate, and wife of Arthur Loew, is reported in Reno, Nev., to obtain a divorce.

Magnate Faced by Balm Suit Asks Receivership

Baltimore, Sept. 11 (A.P.).—Herbert L. Weiskettel, iron manufacturer, got into jail and print two weeks ago when he took a party of twelve others celebrating his second marriage to visit his first wife, but real trouble arrived today. Mrs. Pearl T. Bisson, a widow, filed suit for $100,000 for breach of promise and Weiskettel appeared in court to ask a receiver for the firm of A. Weiskettel & Sons Co., of which he is an official.

The outcome of the wedding party celebration is still pending. Weiskettel and his second wife and their eleven guests were in jail for hours before they arranged bond.

RICHMOND TO PLANT BICENTENNIAL TREE

Gov. Pollard to Comply With Request Being Sent Throughout Land.

PROBABLY WILL BE OAK

Richmond, Va., Sept. 11 (A.P.).—Gov. John Garland Pollard said today that a Washington Bicentennial tree will be planted in Capital Square in compliance with a request by the American Tree Association.

Throughout the Nation the association is seeking to celebrate the bicentennial anniversary of Washington's birth—in 1932—with the planting of trees.

Requests have been sent to Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions, Cosmopolitan and woman's clubs, the Daughters of the American Revolution, good roads associations, Knights of Columbus, Boy Scouts, Campfire Girls and other organizations to join in the general tree-planting program celebrating the year.

Gov. Pollard had not definitely decided just what kind of a tree will be planted in the square, but he expected it will be an oak.

The request came from Charles Pack, of Washington, president of the National Tree Association.

Ambassador's Mother Dies.

Los Angeles, Sept. 11 (A.P.).—Mrs. Frank A. Gibson, 72-year-old mother of Hugh Gibson, Ambassador to Belgium, died at her home here today. She had been unconscious following a cerebral hemorrhage last week.

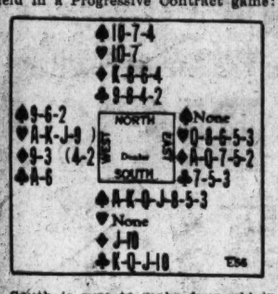
WORK ON BRIDGE

CONTRACT BRIDGE.

There is an occasional hand in which it is advisable to make a pre-empting bid of four, although four-odd surely can be made. This is the case when allowing the adversaries to bid may be fatal and the indications are that they will do so over any kind of a forcing bid. Take, for example, the following hand recently held in a Progressive Contract game:



South is sure to make four-odd in Spades unless the Clubs are led and ruffed, so he would hesitate about making a pre-emptive bid of that size because it would deter his partner from raising with two tricks; and with two tricks held by North there is probably a slam in the hand. But game is more important than a probable slam, and the advantages of pre-emptive were clearly demonstrated in this case. Every South who bid four Spades secured the contract and made game. East and West were vulnerable and neither dared to assume a five-Heart contract without knowing anything about the make-up of his partner's hand.

But in every case in which a forcing bid was used, it was immaterial whether two Spades or two Clubs, West bid three Hearts and East four Hearts; then West was encouraged to go to five Hearts over South's four Spades. If South went on to five Spades the enemy bid six Hearts which they can make although South can not make five Spades.

When the hand was played at Hearts with West the Declarer, North led a Spade, East ruffed the first trick, and North's trumps were taken out by West's Ace and King. West then led a Diamond and took the Queen finesse in dummy. When the finesse won East led the Ace and then a small Diamond. A ruff from West and second Spade which was ruffed by East, and another Diamond ruffed by West cleared the Diamond suit. The last Spade was ruffed by East and then West discarded his losing Club on East's thirteenth Diamond. In that way thirteen tricks were made on a hand which was shut out when South bid four Spades initially.

PLANTING SEED IN THE FALL.

September is the month to sow most perennials and biennials. If you sow the seed at this time they will still have two good growing months, and perhaps even a longer period. Be sure to keep the seed-bed shaded during the warm hours of the day until the plants are well up.

Many readers tell me they experience great difficulty in raising hardy larkspur plants. This may possibly be due to the fact that the seed takes so long to germinate. It sometimes does take a month for larkspur seed to germinate. You must keep the seedbed moist until you see the seedlings are above ground. If you neglect this phase of their culture their growth will be checked, and this may lead to future failure. If you are starting seed in the open you will find it necessary to keep the bed covered while germination is taking place, as in this way you prevent unnecessary evaporation of moisture. A piece of burlap will make an admirable cover for this purpose. It will be sufficiently light not to injure the tender shoots and will at the same time prevent the warm rays of the sun from reaching the soil.

Some readers have complained this last season of weeds in their seed pans. These latter containers are way to overcome this difficulty. Most amateurs raise more seeds than they can possibly use. This is a mistake. I do not think you are apt to have too many varieties, but you do frequently have more of one kind than you actually need.

A good plan is to sow seeds in cigar boxes or in florists' terra-cotta pans. These latter containers are 6 or 8 inches in diameter and only about 4 inches deep. If either these or cigar boxes are used for raising seedlings, your weed troubles will be easily overcome. All that will be necessary is to fill the pans or boxes with soil and place them in the oven for about a half hour and bake them. Thus you will destroy all weed seeds and other pests as well.

(Copyright, 1930.)

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is supplied.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

BRUSHING, BEATING AND SUNNING AGAINST MOTH ATTACKS.

(Bureau of Entomology.)

Too much emphasis can not be placed on the value of frequent beating sunning and cleaning of articles subject to clothes moth attack. The eggs of clothes moths are delicate and can usually be crushed or dislodged by brushing and beating. Pay special attention to crevices, seams and pockets. Sunning is a valuable aid in control work. In articles laid away moths are much more likely to concentrate upon soiled spots if these have not been removed. Brushing and beating usually remove or kill the larvae or worms. If clothing is thoroughly brushed every two weeks it is doubtful if moths can affect it seriously. Carpets and rugs cleaned by strong vacuum cleaners and thoroughly brushed in both sides or electrically cleaned are freed from infestation if the work is properly done. Clothing dry cleaned is also freed from infestation by the process. Once freed from infestation clothes should be protected if they are not to be used during the warm season by being wrapped in paper or placed in tight chests or treated closets.

The Murder of Goofus Bufflehead Bird

(Selected by the Crime of the Week Club)

Chapter I

Goofus Bufflehead Bird was dead—
Or else they'd played a trick on him:
A rather dirty trick, you'll say,
Because, my friends, they'd buried him.

Chapter II

The Great Detective wandering round
With nothing else to do—
Found something strange in his demise,
That is to say, a clue.

Chapter III

The Saxophone the Bufflehead used
Was found quite out of breath—
The Great Detective easily proved
It had played the Bird to death!

Reed Smoot and Bride Arrive From Honolulu

San Francisco, Sept. 11 (A.P.).—United States Senator Reed Smoot, of Utah, arrived here from Honolulu on the Malolo yesterday with his bride, the former Mrs. Alice Sheets, of Salt Lake City.

Senator Smoot, coauthor of the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill, said he noticed beneficial results of the new measure while in the islands. "We have virtually saved the sugar industry in Hawaii and the Philippines," he explained.

Players in Army Band Entertain Kiwanians

Oscar Anderson, flute soloist, and William F. Raymond, trombone soloist, accompanied by Harry Wagner, pianist, all of the Army Band, played at the luncheon of the Kiwanic Club yesterday at the Washington Hotel.

James B. Edmunds, president, announced that clubs of the first division, Capital Kiwanis district, will hold an interclub meeting at the Washington Hotel next Wednesday.

Red Men to Convene in Baltimore.

Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 11 (A.P.).—The convention committee of the Improved Order of Red Men, in annual session here today, accepted the invitation of Baltimore to hold the 100th anniversary celebration and convention in that city in 1934. The organization was founded in Baltimore. The 1931 meeting was awarded to Asheville, N. C.

Hollywood, Calif., Sept. 11 (A.P.).—Jetta Goudal, who gave up movies three years ago to become an interior decorator, disclosed today she will wed her business partner, Harold Grieve. The marriage will be this fall, she said.

Dare Interprets the Mode

New York, Sept. 11.

IT'S such a lovely color! Or is it a shade, or is it a tone or what is it really? Ink, they call it in Paris, and it's a sort of a mystic, soft, dull, mulberry—altogether unlike any other color any one has ever seen, altogether new, and very flattering. It seems to have replaced black in the smart woman's wardrobe, and entirely taken the place of brown. Too, one wears with it either black or brown or especially bronze accessories, and when this lovely color fashions an evening dress, one wears black or gold or silver accessories with it.

And I don't know of any other one color that is quite so completely flattering to all types of personal coloring. Even the demiblonde, that rare type of brown eyes and golden hair that has so much difficulty with its colors, can wear ink to perfection. Won't you go to some dry goods store and ask to see a length of material in this color? And hold it up to you just to see what it does to your skin and eyes and hair!

• • • •

A cape should have plenty of room in the arms, but it should be smooth-fitting and snug over the hips. Years ago we used to have to depend upon the way we wore our capes to achieve a smart silhouette. This season, the clever couturiers cut our capes in such a way that they achieve this silhouette of their own accord. If you want to see further what I mean, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet I made for you this week, which tells you how to cut and make one of these very smart flattering capes for evening wear yourself.

And if you are not overly fond of capes, there is an evening cape for evening wear leaflet.

S-o-o-o, we left the lovely lady pulling the trigger of her tiny blue enameled revolver in yesterday's column. And I really ought to tell you the rest, and she looking so guileless, too!

When she pulled the trigger, out shot a tiny lipstick.

And then she opened the barrel of the gun and took out powder, rouge, and a wee puff, and proceeded to repair, quite needlessly, her beauty.

And her distinguished escort looked so unperturbed. • • •

• • • •

Who could put together black tweed, and leopard skin, and white satin all-over embroidered in white, except Maggy Rouff, and have it look like a mill-yon dollars worth of chic?

That's what happened in the black tweed of a very heavy quality, which fashioned the tailored suit I sketched for you today. And the scarf collar was leopard, a favorite of this designer's, by the way, while the blouse was of the white satin.

• • • •

Now what do you think! You can have your shoes made of tweed or jersey to match either the material of your ensemble, or, in a contrasting design and color, to match a little beret and scarf, or maybe beret and bag.

Each Sunday in The Washington Post you will find the Weekly Dare Fashion Letter. It keeps you abreast of the styles.

Au Revoir!

What Today Means to You

"VIRGO."

If September 12th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:45 a. m. to noon, from 5 p. m. to 6:30 p. m., and 11 p. m. to midnight. The danger periods are from 6:30 a. m. to 8 a. m., and 3 p. m. to 4:45 p. m.

The nap will not be taken off the world for you on this date, and you will feel satisfied with yourself and the rest of the universe. Some hidden truths will be revealed, and some perplexities and complexities will be straightened out. Things of a private nature redound to your good.

Children born on this September 12th will be timid and irresolute, but will have unselfish and sweet natures. They will be sensitive and secretive, sympathetic and generous. Influence of parents paramount. They will be very impressionable, and have inquiring minds.

You have a dualistic nature, very opposing characteristics residing within you, and drawing you this way today, and that tomorrow. You yourself hardly know where you stand, what you desire, or what you feel. The stars may be blamed for making you an illogical being, and for any of your eccentricities. It would not be possible for you to live per rule and schedule. One must look for the unexpected, and not the expected, from you.

You are active and lethargic by turns—some days you waste, and on others you do three days' labor in one. You are not single-minded; multiple interests command your mind and time. You can very quickly adapt yourself to your surroundings, and are hence remarkable for your versatility. You lack patience and lasting perseverance. These weaknesses, however, are somewhat offset by your quickness in thought and action. You do things on the spur and impulse of the moment. You love variety of thought and delight in mental pursuits. You need faithful coworkers, who can act as a balance, and who will hang on when you let go.

You can be very generous and also niggardly. You can present a very bold front and assertive attitude, and yet be highly timid and nervous. You are conservative and progressive. Who knows what you will be? You gain friends easily, and those who stick by you, find that it has paid them to do so. You are sociable at times, but you love being alone.

Successful people born September 12:

1. Richard J. Gatling—Gun inventor.
2. Charles W. Super—Educator; president of Ohio University.
3. Tracy Corey Drake—Hotel proprietor.
4. Lord Oxford—Former English prime minister.
5. Union Noble Bethell—First vice-president American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

AUTO TRAFFIC STUDY TO EXTEND 20 MILES

Counties Nearby Are to Be Asked to Give Funds to District Survey.

TWO STATES MAY HELP

Automobile traffic coming into the Capital from a radius of 20 miles will be surveyed as a means of aiding future highway development and construction, according to a decision reached at a meeting of the Washington regional highway committee.

Thomas H. McDonald, chief of the Bureau of Public Roads of the Department of Agriculture, presented an estimate of the cost of such a survey at the meeting, and the cooperation of the District, Maryland and Virginia authorities will be asked at once so that work on the proposed movement may start immediately.

The Virginia and Maryland State Highway Commissions and the authorities at Fairfax, Arlington and Alexandria Counties in Virginia, the District government and Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties in Maryland will be requested by the committee to cooperate in the survey by contributing funds for employes to aid in the program.

"The purpose of the survey primarily is to ascertain not only the volume of traffic, but the origin and destination of traffic as a guide for national, State and county authorities in the preparation of their future road improvement program," Charles W. Eliot 2d, secretary of the committee, said.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

PHYSICIAN HIS OWN PATIENT.

R. M. C. is a physician who has been his own patient. He has made a very good job of it. The carbohydrate of Jerusalem artichoke differs considerably from those carbohydrates that diabetics stumble over. Some of the reports on this vegetable as a food for diabetics are in accord with this one from Dr. R. M. C.; others have not been so fortunate.

R. M. C. writes:

In the fall of 1920 I developed a case of diabetes mellitus. I have controlled it by diet and not by using insulin. However, I found that each year I was forced to limit the amount of carbohydrates more and more. At times I was nearly starved, very much fatigued and very susceptible to cold. In 1928 my attention was called to the use of Jerusalem or ground artichokes as a substitute for carbohydrates in a diabetic diet.

The next winter I spent in California. While there I was able to purchase fresh artichokes occasionally, and I thought then that they were beneficial. During the spring and summer of 1929 I consistently ate artichoke flakes put up by firms handling diabetic supplies. In the fall I dug artichokes in my own garden, dried them and have been eating them ever since two or three times a day. At present I have been sugar free for a year except for once last September, when I indulged heartily in some pastry. Since last December I have gained 8 pounds in weight.

The following list of foods low in carbohydrates, which I am also able to eat, shows that a diabetic patient can have a fairly well balanced menu and considerable variety in meals.

Vegetables: Tomatoes, cabbage, cauliflower, spinach, onions, white turnips, lettuce, radishes. Fruits: Apples, apricots and peaches, either fresh, cooked, or dried; strawberries, red raspberries, rhubarb, pineapple, grapefruit, oranges, lemons; saccharine may be used in small quantities to sweeten the fruit. Nuts: Almost any kind except chestnuts and peanuts. Meats: Bacon, salt pork, fish, and any lean meat if eaten sparingly. Milk and fats: Cream, butter, cheese (all kinds), buttermilk, kumyss, custards, milk in small quantities.

Jerusalem artichokes are not to be confused with the green artichokes frequently seen in the vegetable markets. They are a native tuber of North America, can be cultivated easily anywhere in the United States and are planted like potatoes. They will keep in the ground all winter, so that part of the crop can be dug in the fall and part in the spring to insure a supply the year around. One can pare or scrape them, slice them very thin, and dehydrate them slowly in a very slow oven or over a register from a hot air furnace. Five pounds of fresh artichokes make one pound dried.

Last year I raised about ten bushels on a patch of ground 10 feet wide and 40 feet long. I am eating an average of 4 ounces of dried artichokes each day, and I feel that as a diabetic food they should be better known.

OBEY YOUR PHYSICIAN.

A. W. writes:

A recent attack of pleurisy has left me wth a spot on my right lung. My physician advises treatments that would necessitate my entering a sanitarium. I am in a very healthful place in the Catskill Mountains (2,000 feet above sea level) and receiving excellent care. Would you advise my taking the treatments or remaining here until September?

REPLY.

Your physician knows better than I do.

SURGICAL ATTENTION NEEDED.

Inquirer writes:

1—What are the causes and symptoms of water on the knee?

2—What is the treatment?

REPLY.

1—Injury leads other causes in frequency. Infection is a frequent cause. Occasionally the infection is tuberculous; usually it is not. Among the symptoms are swelling of joint, obliteration of lines and folds, puffiness in places, tenderness, some discomfort on use.

2—Strapping the knee is frequently of service; so is rest of the joint. Sometimes surgical attention is called for.

COAL MEN SEEK CUT IN EXPORT FREIGHT

I. C. C. Told Reduction in Rail Rates Is Needed to Meet Competition.

FOREIGN PRICES LOWER

(Associated Press.)

Reduction of freight rates on export coal so United States operators could better meet foreign competition was proposed yesterday to the Interstate Commerce Commission as a means of increasing exports and providing employment for thousands of men now idle.

The proposals were made in testimony and arguments at a hearing on complaints of Pennsylvania Coal Producer Associations and traffic bureaus that rates on bituminous coal from Pennsylvania and northern West Virginia eastward for seaboard and export consumption were out of line with rates on other commodities.

Arthur Hale, general counsel for the Coal Export Association, called the commission's attention to a rate of 14 cents per hundred pounds recently granted shippers of export grain.

"If that rate should be applied to coal," he said, "it would provide an average reduction of $1 a ton in freight rates, would increase the exportable total to 10,000,000 tons a year and would provide employment for 10,000 miners and 10,000 railroad employes."

W. T. Coe, of New York, distribution director for a large coal company testified the price of British coal at British ports was 10 to 30 cents a ton higher than before the World War, while American coal at American ports had risen $1.55 to $1.85 a ton. This created a differential of approximately $1 to $2 a ton, he said, which was hard to meet in South American and Mediterranean markets.

Mr. Coe said all the added cost of coal above $1 a ton was accounted for by railroad rates. A 75 cents a ton reduction in rates, he said, would increase exports 5,000,000 tons a year.

He grinned, and switched his longish hair from his forehead with a flinging toss of the head. "Don't do that," Miss Corning frowned, "it looks like a life-guard showing off before servant girls. BROWNS RALLY TO DEFEAT NATIONALS BY 7-4 MARGIN; JIMMY M'LARNIN KNOCKS OUT SINGER IN THIRD ROUND

CHAMPION FLOORED FOR COUNT BEFORE 25,000 RING FANS

Weights Save Crown; Singer Leading on Points at Time.

McLarnin Adds 7th Title-Holder to Victim List.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, Sept. 11 (A.P.).—Young Al Singer, baby king of the lightweights, risked his prestige in a gamble for more tonight and fell a victim to the dynamite that lurks in the two hard fists of Jimmy McLarnin.

The Dublin destroyer, cherubic Celt, who looks the meekest and mildest of warriors, caught up with Singer in the third round of their ten-round battle at catch weights, knocked him once to the floor for a count of nine and then finished him with one clean whistling right to the chin.

The third round lasted only 2 minutes and 21 seconds.

Thus was the name of Singer, newest of champions through his knockout conquest of Sammy Mandell early this summer, added to that list that now holds the names of seven title holders, who either before or after gaining their crowns, matched fists with McLarnin and finished second. Yet McLarnin, uncrowned king of the welterweights, has yet to lick a champion at the class weight.

25,000 Roar in Approval.

For two rounds tonight, while 25,000 of the faithful roared approval of the clean, fast, furious milling, it looked as if Singer, the 20-year-old Jewish boy who thirsts for the fame and prestige that was Benny Leonard's, would break the jinx McLarnin holds over champions and, in fact, almost every one else who fights somewhere near his weight. For two rounds Jimmy was outboxed outsmarted and even outslugged and $175,000 worth of cash customers bellowed in glee at the sight.

Then something happened to the sleek, finely muscled kid who deliberately sought a match with McLarnin to prove to the scoffers that he really could fight and punch. Careless, perhaps, at the easy way with which he blocked Jimmy's heftiest clouts and jabbed him off balance with a long, smart left hand, Singer tried to slug with the Irishman.

The result proved once more that one can't do that and keep one's feet in the same ring with McLarnin. Al, cocky and confident, drilled home a smacking right to McLarnin's chin over in Jimmy's corner and stepped back almost tauntingly. McLarnin blinked from between his two fists, cocked in front of his shoulders, and suddenly lashed out with a left hook that caught the youngster on the side of the head.

Blows Are Start Of Finish.

That punch really finished Al, though he didn't realize it and neither did the roaring customers, most of them standing in their chairs. Jimmy crowded him along the ropes to a neutral corner and softened him a bit more with a half blocked volley to the head. They circled the ring to the opposite neutral corner, Singer hurt and in frantic retreat, McLarnin

Bool's Double Starts Bucs' Winning Rally

Boston, Sept. 11 (A.P.).—The Pittsburgh Pirates turned on the Braves here today and plastered a 5-to-2 defeat on the Tribesmen in the second game of the series between the teams. The Pirates were led by Brame, who pitched a steady game.

Bool's double to right field in the second inning landed just too short for Richbourg to get and scored two men. This started the Buccaneers on their way to win.

Horton Smith Eliminated In P.G.A.

Youthful Pro Beaten by Kirkwood; Sarazen Rallies to Win.

Lacey and Armour in Other Quarter-Final Triumphs.

By BRIAN BELL.

FLUSHING, N. Y., Sept. 11 (A.P.).—The Professional Golfers Association championship today was narrowed to three former British subjects and one native American. In the semifinals tomorrow doughty Gene Sarazen will represent the United States, with the rest of the next-to-last line-up made up of Charley Lacey, born in England; Tommy Armour, native of Scotland, and Joe Kirkwood, who first saw the light of day in Australia.

Kirkwood furnished the day's fireworks when he eliminated the highly favored Horton Smith at the thirty-sixth hole. They had fought a nip-and-tuck battle all day, and Kirkwood had been up only once. He was 1 down after eighteen holes, but evened matters in the first nine of the afternoon and then pulled the match out at the last minute.

Lacey advanced by eliminating Harold Sampson, the slim Californian, 4 up and 3 to play, after the Pine Valley pro had gone to luncheon 1 down.

Sarazen Comes From Behind.

Sarazen, too, had to come from behind to win, 2 and 1, for he was 1 down at the half-way mark. He leveled the match at the twentieth hole and never was down again. Armour went up over smiling Johnny Farrell in the first eighteen holes and held this advantage until the holes ran out on Johnny at the thirty-fifth.

Kirkwood and Horton Smith played the best golf of the round on a day when good golf was hard to play. A fresh wind swept the long, fresh meadow course, with its scores of yawning traps, making it longer and more difficult than it had been at any time during the competition.

After halving the first five holes, Kirkwood broke through to win the sixth, but Smith came right back to take the seventh, and from then on it was war to the hilt. The tall Missourian was 1 up after eighteen holes, but the trick-shot expert took the twenty-fifth, and the rest of the holes halved through the twenty-eighth Smith went 1 up at the twenty-ninth with a birdie, and a par was good enough to make him two ahead at the thirty-first. Kirkwood, 2 down and only 4 to go after the thirty-second, was halved and was beaten by

Chicago, Sept. 11 (A.P.).—Ted Lyons won his twenty-first game of the year this afternoon when he got a twelve-inning decision over the Boston Red Sox by the score of 4 to 3. Red Barnes drove in the winning run off Smith with a single to right after Watwood and Jolley had walked.

Vance Fans 13 as Cubs Bow to Robins, 2-1; Cards Defeat Giants, 5-4; Race Tightens

Hafey Brings Victory With Circuit Clout, 2 on Base.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11 (A.P.).—The St. Louis Cardinals, bounded within one-half game of first place in the hectic National League race by beating the Giants, 5 to 4, in a give and take affair that was not settled until the final out.

The victory gave the Cards a lead of 2 to 1 in the series and left the Giants still three games back of the Cubs, who lost to the Robins.

Chick Hafey's homer with two mates on base in the initial inning gave the Cards a three-run lead, but a slow comeback tied the score in the fifth and kept it deadlocked until the eighth when St. Louis put over the winning run on a walk, a single and an infield play.

Hallahan and Walker In Duel.

Although the score was higher, the third game was as close and as bitterly fought as the first two. "Wild" Bill Hallahan and Bill Walker waged a southpaw duel at the start. Hafey's homer, which came after Adams had singled and Frisch had walked, started the Cards off with a big advantage that the steady Giant hitting and Hallahan's passes could not quite overcome. Two more Giant pitchers

Homers Account for Runs; Cubs Lead by ½ Game.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Sept. 11 (A.P.).—Dazzy Vance, veteran tow-headed ace of the Brooklyn pitching staff, hurled one of the great games of his long career today, striking out thirteen Chicago Cubs to give the Robins a clean sweep of the three-game series with the slipping league leaders. The score of the final game was 2 to 1.

As a result the Robins and Cardinals advanced to within one-half game of the pace-setting Cubs. The Cards downed the Giants. The Giants' defeat left the New Yorkers three games back of first place.

The Robins scored both of their runs in the first inning on Glenn Wright's home run into the left-field bleachers. Hack Wilson's forty-eighth homer of the season sailed over the right field wall in the seventh for Chicago's only score and was the only tally off Brooklyn pitching in the three-game series.

Robins Win Seventh Straight.

The game marked Brooklyn's seventh straight victory and put the Robins only half a game out of first place. Vance's feat in fanning thirteen men was a season's record.

The opponent of the Robins' veteran was Guy Bush, who allowed Brooklyn eight hits in the seven innings he worked. Only one of Brooklyn's hits was necessary in the scoring, however, as Bush passed Herman in the first and then Wright sent his tremendous drive into the deep left center bleachers.

Until game time the question of whether Vance would pitch was undetermined. He has been suffering from sciatica. But once on the mound, he proceeded to follow in the footsteps of Ray Phelps and Adolfo Luque, who had shut out the Cubs in the two preceding games. Vance struck out Taylor, Hartnett and Bell in the inning that Wilson hit his homer.

Babe Herman made a spectacular catch of Wilson's long fly in the ninth to cut short a rally, the Babe backing up against the concrete wall to take the ball. Today's game ended the season's series between the two clubs with the count standing: Chicago, 14; Brooklyn, 8.

Tilden, Doeg, Shields, Wood Survive in National Singles

By TED VOSBURGH.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 11 (A.P.).—The old regime in American tennis has not yet fallen. Frank Hunter, 36-year-old veteran, was beaten today by young Johnny Doeg in the quarter-final round of the national singles championship, but Big Bill Tilden, at 37, gave Johnny Van Ryn a tennis lesson and is still the favorite to capture the title for the eighth time.

The strapping Doeg overcame his stubborn foeman in five hard sets, 11—13, 6—4, 3—6, 6—2, 6—4, and will clash with the champion, Tilden, in the semifinal round tomorrow. It will be a battle of services, since Doeg has one of the three or four fastest deliveries in the world, and Tilden's famous cannon balls piled up a total of twenty aces as he downed Van Ryn by scores of 4—6, 6—2, 6—4, 6—4 before a gallery of 9,000 this afternoon.

Young America laid its challenge squarely across the path of the champion when a pair of sensational youngsters, st'll in their teens, came through to the semifinal round in the other half of the draw.

Shields in Top Form Against Mangin.

Frank Shields, stalwart New York youth of 19, played world-beating tennis in streaks to defeat Gregory Mangin, of Newark, N. J., 3—6, 6—3, 6—2, 6—1 6—1, and Sidney Wood, 18-year-old star from the courts of the same big city, showed a stroke mastery rivaling that of Tilden in eliminating Clifford Sutter, of New Orleans. The national intercollegiate champion will be favorite when he clashes with Doeg, the same player he defeated in five sets in the semifinals of last year's tournament, but the Wood-Shields affair is a toss-up.

Using every shot known to the ancient game, but falling back on his thundering service when pressed, Tilden played at the peak of his still great game to defeat Van Ryn. The big gallery stirred with excitement when Van Ryn won the opener, but Tilden eliminated the errors which had been sapping his power and lifted himself back into the saddle by sheer will power.

In addition to tallying 20 aces to none, the old master totaled 27 placements to Van Ryn's 18 as he rang the bell again and again with sizzling drives, sharply angled volleys or heavily "cut" queerly bounding chop strokes.

Doeg's Rallies Beat Hunter.

It was Doeg's volleys against Hunter's drives in the battle between America's first and second ranking players, but in the final stages of the fight the younger man adopted a policy of prolonging the rallies. Taking a leaf from the book of the French stars, and always getting the ball back, he got Hunter on the run, forcing him into errors, and wound up with a hard-won victory over the stubborn fighter who was finalist last

Indians Win Finale With Yankees, 9 to 5

Cleveland, Sept. 11 (A.P.).—The Indians avenged the defeats of the past two days at the hands of the New York Yankees today by pounding out a 9-to-5 victory in the third and final game of the series against the Yanks. The teams finished their season's play with twelve victories for New York and ten for Cleveland.

Clint Brown went the route for the Indians and held the Yankee batters well in hand. He gave eleven hits, but kept them scattered and was in trouble only on a few occasions. Cleveland jumped on Charley Ruffing for four runs in the first inning to settle the dispute right at the start. Two passes and singles by Averill, Hodapp and Myatt along with Ruth's error gave them their big start. Altogether they nicked Ruffing and McEvoy for fourteen hits, Hodapp leading the attack with three blows.

Nats in Lead to Sixth When 4-Run Rally Decides Issue.

Stewart Tightens as Game Nears End; Child Finishes.

Special to The Washington Post.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 11.—Walter Stewart eked out his fifth victory of the season over the Nats when he sent Walter Johnson's second placers out of the city with a 7-to-4 setback in the final game of the season between the two clubs. It was the twelfth victory of the Browns in the 22 games with the Nats this year, and Johnson is justified in thinking the Browns hurt his pennant chances, for if they had played against most clubs it's a cinch the Washington Club would have owned a big edge in the season's play.

It was likewise Stewart's eighteenth victory of the season and was duly appreciated by the little left hander, who is striving valiantly to turn in twenty triumphs for the year.

Nats Use Four Hurlers.

The Nats used four pitchers—Brown, Burke, Child and Liska—but the Browns showed no fear for any of them. Brown started and gave up six safeties in two innings after which Burke came on and held the opposition hitless for three innings.

Three innings was his limit, however, and the Browns belted him for four singles and coaxed a walk, while taking advantage of West's bad threw to collect four runs in the sixth. Liska came on at this point with two out and retired the side, did the same in the seventh and was relieved for a pinch hitter in the eighth.

The Browns hopped out in front in the very first inning when Goslin doubled with two gone, hesitated at second a moment and then came over when Kress hit one that was too hot for McLeod. Schulte followed with a single, but Brown wiggled out of the situation a moment later when he took personal charge of Melillo's hopper and tossed the runner out at first.

Brown Hits Timely Double.

Brown doubled his team into the lead in the second inning, when Stewart pitched where Lloyd was swinging. Hayes had started the batting with a single to center, and Spencer doubled to right, after which Brown came through with his two-bagger.

Then Stewart took to batting runs over the plate and singled to left to score O'Rourke in the second half of the second inning. O'Rourke's ordinary single was turned into a triple prior to Stewart's clout when his line hit bounced over West's head and enabled Frank to get around to third.

Gullic doubled the Browns into the lead a moment later with a single that scored Stewart. Blue had walked in the meantime; and when Goslin followed with a pass, Manager Johnson evidently thought it was enough for Brown, and Burke went in to pitch for the Nationals in the third inning.

"Red" Hargrave, former Detroit catcher whom Johnson claimed on waivers several days ago, reported to the Nats today and caught the batting-practice pitchers. He appeared in excellent condition and looked ready to get into the fray at any time Johnson may choose to use him.

ADAMS RIDES 6 STRAIGHT WINNERS AT MARLBORO

Parke's Mark For Jockeys Equaled

Baltimore Boy Rode Last Two Winners on Wednesday.

Col. Seth, With Sensational Boy Up, Takes Feature.

Special to The Washington Post.

MARLBORO RACE TRACK, Sept. 11.—Maryland has a new riding idol. It is none other than Albert Adams, a Baltimore lad, who won six victories in as many mounts as he had today, to run his total up to thirteen for the meeting.

Adams, who is under contract to William Garth, of Virginia, but who is riding over State half-mile tracks for Uncle Jim Arthur, of the Long Green Valley, registered four winners on opening day, three yesterday, and scored in all but the fourth today.

After remaining idle in the fourth, Adams kept his slate clean by kicking home Mrs. S. Paradise's Col. Seth in the 6½ furlongs for the fifth, looked upon as outstanding event of the third day's program of the Southern Maryland Agricultural Fair Association fall session.

In all of his victories today Adams showed clever form. He rushed to the top in the opener to win with Wandering Jim, repeated in the second with Southland Chief, and then came from behind on both West Drift and Col. Seth to score. He followed by riding High Dell and Overlook to victories.

In the fifth, Col. Seth was restrained behind the fast early pace made by Grace H and Skirmisher until five-eighths had been covered, where Adams sent him around the leaders to win going away. Gold Bells and Skirmisher trailed Col. Seth to the wire.

While Adams is making a show of the other riders, it must be admitted that the majority of his mounts to date has been hand-picked. Trainer Buddy Mayberry, who is making Adams' riding engagements, won't put his charge on any mounts unless he figures to have a fighting chance. The Baltimore kid, with plenty of confidence, gained through his opening day victories and the knowledge that he is on live horses, is doing the rest by getting his mounts into the winner's circle.

8 Winners in Row Ties Record for Adams.

Adams, who rode six consecutive winners in as many races today, also rode the last two winners yesterday, giving him a record of eight consecutive victories.

Adams, by winning the final race today, equaled the record of Ivan Parke, hung up on a Kentucky track several years ago, that of winning eight straight races. Parke rode the last five one day and three the following day to set his record.

Jim Bean, of Washington, again opened the program with a victory, when his Wandering Jim, under Adams' guidance, led seven other 2-year-olds over the 5½ furlong route. Adams had only to break Wandering Jim on top and sit still the rest of the way home in order to register his eighth victory of the meeting. Trailing Wandering Jim to the wire came Dutiful and Jealous Fool in the order named.

Jockey Adams drove M. C. Cunningham's Southland Chief home ahead of Grey Belle and Page in the five and a half furlongs of the second. He forced Southland Chief to the front going to the first turn and won handily from there on.

Rough Riding Marks Third Race.

The Baltimore lad registered his third consecutive victory by booting home Tommy Francis' Westdrift in the five and a half furlongs of the third.

There was much rough riding on the back stretch, with Merichar, the favorite, being the chief sufferer. In the meantime, Adams, who had Westdrift back of the pace, went around his field to win handily from Sun Clover, with Remedy third.

The stewards suspended Jockey Paul Haines for the remainder of the meeting for rough riding soon after the start of the third race.

Mrs. H. Lockward's Sweet Lacruse, favorite in the wagering, justified that confidence by winning the fourth, a five-and-a-half-furlong sprint. Kiniry kept Sweet Lacruse back of Sylvia Mede's pace for five-eighths where he moved to the front and stood a long stretch drive to win from Bucephalus. The latter came from far back in the final half. Sylvia Mede tired badly, but easily saved the show money from Vigor.

Adams registered his fifth consecutive victory and his twelfth of the meeting when he drove R. Paradise's High Dell home ahead of Vowed Vengence and Hat Brush in the mile and one-sixteenth of the sixth.

Overlook Takes Final By a Nose.

Adams gave Overlook a perfect ride in the seventh race to win by a nose over Princess Ma. Held off the pace for three quarters, Overlook was swung wide of the field and then closed with a terrific burst of speed. Princess Ma moved up on top at the far turn but couldn't withstand the winner's rush. Speedy Prince grabbed third money, having used up much strength forcing the early pace.

PRINCESS EDITH was never far from the leaders and, under an energetic ride, came fast through the stretch to pass ESTIN a sixteenth out and win going away. ESTIN drew into a good lead after leaving the back stretch, but tired in the last furlong and barely lasted to save second place. EASTER was outrun to the stretch, then closed fast. THAT'S IT was always well up. OUTER HARBOR tired badly after looming up dangerously at mid-stretch. JOHN CAVANAGH showed a flash of early speed. HOLD ON made up around.

PERJURY raced into a good lead after going a quarter and, increasing it approaching the stretch turn, easily led to the end. PARAGRAPH raced close up throughout and held SILVER SCEPTER at the finish. The latter was in close quarters early and came into the stretch clear. PERCENTAGE made up ground in the stretch. SHIFT tired in the last furlong. KULAMAN went fairly well. RELLINE suffered interference after turning out of the back stretch.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—UPRIGHT, $14.40, $8.02, $6.44; WATER PORT, $7.38, $5.40; FLYING CHEROKEE, $9.60.

UPRIGHT raced well up in the first quarter, then took command and was never seriously threatened thereafter. WATER PORT made up much ground and closed well, was going fast at the wire. FLYING CHEROKEE, the chief contender outside, never closed a big gap and was going well at the end. SISTER MARY was in close quarters when tiring in the stretch. TOO MUCH TALK was all over the track. FUDGE tired in the last furlong. GUN FIRE quit. HOMER L. was never dangerous.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,400; allowances. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:49. Off at 3:53. Winner, Mrs. B. Denemark's b. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—CHEERS, $4.76, $3.18, $2.86; GOLDEN PRINCE, $7.44, $5.48; FLAG BEARER, $7.60.

CHEERS was placed prominently after the start and, wearing down FLAG BEARER in the stretch run, headed the field a sixteenth out and lasted to hold GOLDEN PRINCE. Latter was badly outrun to the stretch, then came with a rush and was gaining rapidly at the end. FLAG BEARER raced to the front soon after the start and held on fairly well. LAWYER was on the outside all the way and showed a good effort. ILLEGITIMATE was forced back after the start, then dashed into contention and turned in a creditable performance. SNOOZE tired as if short.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:21. Off at 4:21½. Winner, J. Stable's ch. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—LONGUS, $69.48, $18.34, $7.34; LADRONE, $3.50, $2.74; MISS MARNIE, $2.64.

LONGUS, under a heady ride, was outrun early, but saved much ground next the rail and, coming fast in the stretch, got through an opening on the inside to take command in the final sixteenth and last to hold LADRONE. Latter came to the outside of the field in the stretch and, finishing fast, was gaining on the winner, but could not get up. MISS MARNIE set the pace, was bumped when GARNISH attempted to get through between MISS MARNIE and COME ON at mid-stretch and could not resist the first two. COME ON moved up fast on the outside at mid-stretch and suffered interference when GARNISH attempted to get through. GARNISH was knocked out of his stride attempting to get through a narrow opening in the stretch and interfered with MISS MARNIE and COME ON. EIL WEIR was promenent to the stretch, then tired.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For maiden 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:51. Off at 4:53½. Two-dollar mutuels paid—RACKETEER, $19.38, $9.20, $4.96; PAL TO PAL, $18.54, $8.24; SCHLAF WOHL, $4.52.

RACKETEER made up ground gradually and, coming fast on the outside in the stretch, got to the front in the last sixteenth and won going away. PAL TO PAL moved into contention after going half the distance and finished resolutely. SCHLAF WOHL was in close quarters rounding the first turn, moved up to HELEN KING on the outside after going half the trip and secured a good lead at the stretch turn, but tired and could not resist the first two. FERN F. made up much ground and was going well at the end. HELEN KING stopped badly in the stretch. HAL RILEY and RUDDY SIR tired after showing early speed.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ELLEN N., $11.32, $4.60, $3.36; WIZARDRY, $6.20, $3.88; HY SCHNEIDER, $3.54.

ELLEN N. saved all possible ground and, clinging to the rail in the stretch run, got to the front in the last sixteenth and held WIZARDRY to a driving finish. WIZARDRY was taken to the outside approaching the stretch turn and, moving up fast, bumped HY SCHNEIDER after entering the stretch, then closed gamely, but was not good enough for the winner. HY SCHNEIDER raced well from the start and continued gamely after meeting with interference from WIZARDRY. FINNIC was in close quarters when tiring in the stretch. REIGH OLGA tired. LILLIAN MOOAR was under stout restraint early, but showed little when let down.

BURROWS' 74 CARD WINS BANNOCKBURN MEDAL

Second Day's Field Is Led By Shorey

1929 Winner Scores 78, Slipping on 2d Round.

Pitt, DiEste Next; Match Play to Open Today.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

ALTHOUGH a field of more than 100 players participated yesterday in the second day of the qualification round of the annual Fall Invitation Tournament of the Bannockburn Golf Club, no one was able to lower the score of 74 made by R. H. Burrows, unattached, on the first day of the event.

John C. Shorey, of the Bannockburn Club, who was the winner of the tournament last year, could not do better than 37—41—78, and Harry G. Pitt, Manor, and William P. Di Este, Argyle, who had also been expected to lower Burrows' score, had cards which totaled 80.

Pitt had 6s on the second and third holes and a large-sized 8 on the twelfth hole, which ruined his chances, while Shorey, who was out in 37, slipped on the incoming nine, taking 3 putts on each of the tenth, eleventh and twelfth greens, besides which on the fourteenth hole he took four strokes from off the edge of the green.

Quigley Wins Play-Off for Place.

There was a tie at 83 for one place in the first sixteen between C. G Storm, Manor; John L. Quigley, unattached, and Dr. T. J. W. Brown, Bannockburn. In the absence of Storm there was a play-off between Quigley and Brown, which the former won with a par 4, after playing his second shot out of a trap, while Dr. Brown took 3 strokes from off the green for a losing 5.

Several players with handicaps of 8 and under failed to qualify in the first sixteen and were, therefore, automatically eliminated, among the number being M. E. Oliveri, Argyle; R. L. Burgdorf, Bannockburn; George F. Miller, Manor; E. C. Burgdorf, Bannockburn; William S. Elliott, Kenwood, and Norman J. Hall, Bannockburn. The latter lost out with 84 only by 1 stroke, although he started with a 6 on the first hole and had two 7s on his card.

Others who failed to qualify by reason of scores which would have landed them in flights other than those to which they were assigned by their handicaps were C. C. Heath, Bannockburn; John Baldwin, Argyle; Middleton Meaman, Bannockburn; Frank G. Butler, Argyle; J. F. McCarron, Congressional; C. B. Springith, Bannockburn; J. J. Reardon, Argyle; R. G. Kimbell, Bannockburn, and L. D. Connor, Argyle.

Junior Players Disappoint.

The showing made by the junior element was disappointing. Robert Bowen, Argyle, who recently won the District junior championship, picked up, and Roger Peacock, Argyle, former junior champion, had the same experience. Thomas D. Webb, jr., recent winner of the Washington Club junior championship, did not turn in a card, and James G. Drain, Washington; William H. Alexander, Bannockburn, and Charles D. Evans, jr., Washington, did not complete their rounds.

The two low net scores of 69 made last Wednesday by J. J. Baggett, Beaver Dam, and J. B. Heron, Bannockburn, were not lowered yesterday, but C. G. Storm, Manor, with a card of 83—13—70, was added to the quartet who made 70 on the opening day. Match play begins this morning w five sixteens, the pairings and times of play being as follo s:

President Gold Cup Regatta Starts on Severn Today

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Sept. 11.—Owners of some of the fastest motor boats in the country, today gave their craft a final tuning up in preparation for the President's Gold Cup Regatta for the trophies offered by the President and Secretary of the Navy. The regattas known as the National Power Boat Association event, will be held on the waters of the Severn River tomorrow and Saturday under the sponsorship of the Maryland Yacht Racing Association, which plans to make it an annual event for Annapolis.

The races have attracted craft capable of making a speed ranging between 65 and 75 miles per hour, and devotees of motor boating are anticipating real thrills in the brushes. In connection with the regatta a pageant will be held on the river tomorrow night with a number of decorated and illuminated yachts and floats in line and there is keen competition for the prize awards.

Social events include a dance to be held in St. John's College Gymnasium tomorrow night after the pageant and a banquet at the Severn River Beach Club Saturday night at which the awards will be made.

ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

ALEXANDRIA, Sept. 11.—Edward Harlow, popular sportsman, has been appointed director of the St. Mary's Celtics' Basketball Team, and Jack Allen, manager, for the season of 1930-31. They will assume their duties immediately and lay out plans for the year's campaign.

Allen guided the Celtics three seasons ago to the State championship. He is making plans for a week's trip and will visit three States with the team. "Frenchy" Cohen and Wilbur Wright, two Maryland stars, will perform with the locals this year.

The Celtics won 54 games out of 67 contests played last year. They met all of the leading teams in Washington and surrounding States.

Memberships in the new Alexandria Athletic Club can be secured at the Gazette office, 317 King street; Auto Accessories Co., King and Washington streets, or Goodnow Realty Co., South Washington street.

This club will give a boxing program on September 24 at Armory Hall. The affair is sponsored by the Rotary Club. Frankie Mann is athletic director. Billy Schwartz, Soldier Burke and other leading boxers will take part.

The St. Mary's Celtics Baseball Team will entertain the Army Medicos, conquerors of the Northerns, Mount Rainier, Capitol Heights and other fast D. C. nines Sunday afternoon in Baggett's Stadium.

Director Corbett stated today that the World War Veterans would be guests of the club and special reservations had been made for them. Gerard Edwards, Washington Union Printers star, will perform with the Green and Gold in this game.

Mike Goldman, coach of the Alpha Delta Omega Eleven, had his boys out for a long drill on Haydon's Field last night. Goldman was impressed with the punting of Rector Green, former all-high half back with the Alexandria High Team.

The fraters expected to enter in the Capital City League in Washington. They will open their season this month. Leslie Deavers is manager of the team.

Three baseball games will be played in the Week-Day League this week, the Fruit Growers and Southern LClerks clash today; also the Old Dominion meet the Potterfields, while on Saturday the Baracas clash with the victors of the Fruit Growers-Clerks' game.

Dug Hewitt, leading Alexandria welterweight, has started training for a series of bouts. Hewitt fought his last scrap at Warrenton several weeks ago.

Football activities at Episcopal High School will begin next week. Bick Cardwell is head coach. He formerly was a star at the University of Virginia. A large squad of candidates is expected to report for the varsity eleven.

The Virginia Athletic Club Football Team will hold their first drill of the 1930 grid season Sunday morning at 11 o'clock on the shipyard field. Coach Buck Beach requests the following players to be present: Alem Brisco, Butler, Boran, Bell, C. Boran, Lyons, Snelling, Yates, Wells, Whitestone, Whalen, Phillips, Ginter, Edmunds, Brown, Bullocks, Hewitt and any other candidate.

Pat Gorman, veteran leader last year, is again at the helm of the club. He is arranging a fast schedule for the team. They will open their season within two weeks.

John "Doggie" Hamilton, star center with the Cardinal Athletic Club Football Team of seventeen years ago, has been appointed as coach of the Del Ray Athletic Club. Hamilton expects to have a banner grid year. All games of the Redbirds will be played on Edward Duncan Field.

The Columbia firemen will probably trek to Fredericksburg, Va., for a game of baseball Sunday. Manager Lukie Latham hopes to close this game by this evening.

The Alexandria Fire Department Preps will organize a football team on Friday evening. They will meet in the Columbia Firehouse at 7:30 o'clock. "Jake" Shapiro will coach the team. The firemen hope to enter the Capital City League in Washington. "Pinkey" Padgett is adviser of the club.

Judge William S. Snow, member of the Virginia Game Commission, and Henry B. Steiner, prominent Alexandria sportsman, have returned from an inspection trip to Heathville, Va.

—Lincoln Fields Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS

THE Mateson Purse, for 3-year-olds and upward, is the featured race at Lincoln Fields, Chicago, fifth on the card, at the 6-furlong distance. BEST MAN is regarded the best in the field, but he has been slow in showing the speed he had in New York when he defeated a much stronger field than this. He will have ZACWEISTA, of the Three D's Ranch, to beat. PRINCETON is in good shape and may give them a battle. KARL EITEL, PIOUS and others have seen better days. The fresh horses in the races are the ones selected for first and second, and they should lead the way throughout. BEST MAN is in lightly and can have no excuse if he fails today.

FIRST RACE—The first race is for 2-year-olds, claiming. ALLEGRETTO has the call in this dash, with MODERN MAIDEN, probable favorite, to beat. BARNEY SEXTON should be in the money. In the spring ALLEGRETTO was considered a good prospect among the juveniles.

SECOND RACE — AVIATOR has a chance to beat JACK CRAIN in the second race. It is a mile race, with several capable of furnishing a surprise. AVIATOR has kept very good form all season and seems the more reliable. JACK CRAIN'S best racing was in the winter, but he occasionally turns out a good effort. ORMONBIRD has speed, but seems to prefer a heavy track, and the going now is fast.

THIRD RACE—CLOVER CLUB has the edge on LEFLORE in the third race and is selected to win. LEFLORE has disappointed in weaker fields, but may be better than last races show. SIR JOHN K is an old plater which may prove better than his price would indicate.

FOURTH RACE—The fourth race is for 2-year-old fillies. COUSIN DOLL has seldom run a bad race and is expected to win the 6-furlong dash. IN BETWEEN should not be overlooked. Her early form is better than in recent races. FAIR MISSIE will have backing and should get in the money.

SIXTH RACE—HARAMZADA will have OUTER HARBOR to beat in the sixth race. SIR DEAN has the call over the others. HARAMZADA has run a few bad races all season and is very consistent. OUTER HARBOR seems best on a slow track.

SEVENTH RACE — MORSNUFF looks best in the seventh. FLO O'NEILL looks like the contender. The show money may go to FASTER BOY. MORSNUFF is far from being the fastest of the Morvich offspring, but they all have speed and turn in a winning race occasionally. There is not much to beat in this race, and MORSNUFF can go a mile and a sixteenth.

8 Letter Men Report For Bath High Eleven

Special to The Washington Post.

Berkeley Springs, W. Va., Sept. 11.—Eight letter men are available to Coach Michael for training for the 1930 football team at Bath District High here this year. They reported for the first call this week. They are Burkhart, F. and B.; Wise, Miller, Kerns, Ruppenthal, Carpenter and Fulton. Price and Newbraugh, also of last year's team, are back also. Thirty recruits reported for the first work this week. Six games have been scheduled for this fall as follows:

November 1—Winchester, Va., at Winchester; 8, Charles Town at Charles Town; 15, Shepherdstown, here; 22, Martinsburg at Martinsburg; 27, Alumni, here.

The St. Stephen's Club will work out at 8 o'clock tonight at Monument Lot No. 7. Coach Crouch requests the following to report: Augustine, Dalglish, Devlin, Curtin, Flannigan, Girton, Morse, Nealon, Niland, Parrolt, Riddington, Shore, Dallace, Warring, Walsh, Tumbr, McMahon, Boyd, O'Brien and Xander.

CHURCH PIN TEAMS MEET.

Eighteen teams were represented at the meeting of the East Washington Church Bowling League, and two others, Keller Memorial and Brookland, which were absent, are expected to appear at the next meeting, scheduled Tuesday, September 16.

LIGHT TEAM LIKELY AT VIRGINIA

Flippin May Return to Game; Huddle May Be Abandoned.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Sept. 11. Cloudy and cooler weather has been welcomed each afternoon this week by the half hundred candidates for Virginia's football team, who started the season's practice grind with the mercury close to the century mark.

The coaching staff has been working with four teams, but there has been much shifting of players from one squad to another. Dummy scrimmage has been abundant to date, but rough-and-tumble drills will be the order of the day from now on until the opening of the season Saturday week.

Squad Given Clean Bill Of Health.

The entire football squad has been given a clean bill of health. After a thorough physical examination by Drs. Staige Blackford and Andrew D. Hart, all of the candidates were pronounced in tiptop shape. Jim Dudley, the first to receive injuries in scrimmage, will be back in uniform before the week-end.

The Cavalier eleven will be the lightest in years, with only five men who tip the scales at 190 pounds or over. Capt. Motley, at tackle, is the heaviest, his weight being 212. The other big boys are George Cameron, guard, 202; Herbert Bryant, full back, 201; Bob Kimball, tackle, 195, and Otto Williams, 190.

Among the candidates for flank position to pair with Johnny Peyton, only end of four "V" men to return this year, are St. Clair, Orrick and Davenport, former second stringers, and Oppenheimer, Condon and Bremer, former freshmen. There is a rumor that Harry Flippin, track and field star, and end on the 1928 eleven, will return to the game, if he can spare the time from his medical studies. He is a very speedy player and his return would greatly boost Virginia's chances. Another fleet trackman is Oppenheimer, who may yet come through and find a berth at end.

Poss Making Strong Bid For Line Post.

"Buck" Poss, a Charlottesville boy, is making a strong bid for a place in the forward wall. He played as a tackle while a student at Fishburne Military School, where he made quite a name for himself in prep school circles. He is lighter than either Capt. Motley or Bob Kimball, but has plenty of rugged strength and considerable football skill. He is in first-class condition, having played baseball all summer with a local silk mill nine.

Gus Tebell, former head coach at North Carolina State, has been giving much attention to drill in aerial tactics in preparation for the opening game with Roanoke College. A variety of forward passing plays have been used in skeleton formations, and great stress has been given them in the afternoon drills. Bill Thomas is showing up especially well in hurling the ball, as are Frank Sippley, who is the most likely quarter back contender, and Henry Sackett, freshman quarter back last season. Sackett hails from the Episcopal High School, which has sent Virginia some of its very best athletes.

The coaches are yet undecided regarding the huddle. There is a disposition to resume the calling of signals from formation. Both methods are being given a thorough trial in the practices this week. A decision will probably be reached by the close of this week.

Motley's Old Knee Injury Worries Coaches.

Some anxiety is being displayed concerning the 2-year-old knee injury of Capt. Motley, 220-pound tackle. Although he appears to be entirely recovered, it is not known what might happen if he got a sharp blow on the injured member. He has gone through the regular practice each day, with no fear evident on his part of sustaining injury.

It looks now as if Fenton Gentry, member of the boxing team, will be the regular center. He understudied George Taylor last year and is showing much promise this season. He tips the scales at 180 and is fast and rangy. The only other center of experience on the squad is John Wylly, whose weight is only 150.

100-Room Clubhouse For Royal Swan Club

Special to The Washington Post.

Betterton, Md., Sept. 11.—As a part of the extensive building program planned for this Chesapeake bayside resort this fall, the Royal Swan Club, composed of Baltimore, Washington, Wilmington and Philadelphia sportsmen, announced this week the approaching erection of a 100-room modern clubhouse on the present club site here. The building, it is planned, will have a large lobby and spacious dining rooms, as well as other commodious quarters overlooking the Sassafras River, Lloyds Creek and the bay itself, with a game room and an auditorium for meetings.

The building, in the opinion of Secretary Howard Owens, of the club, will prove an attractive adjunct to the large yachting harbor and eighteen-hole golf course recently completed and used for the first time this summer.

According to President Howard Van Sciver, of Philadelphia, head of the club, who is a frequent visitor here, and Charles H. Brice, president of the board of trade, many Baltimore and other city sportsmen are booked to come here during the autumn to shoot mallard and canvasback ducks, always abundant in this region at that time of the year, as well as lowland game such as rabbits, squirrels, pheasants and quail. The yachts of the Royal Swan Club will continue, it is asserted, to make the harbor here their rendezvous during the fall.

GEORGETOWN CHURCH PINMEN

The Georgetown Church Bowling League will hold its first meeting of the season at 8 o'clock tonight in Peck Memorial Church. All churches interested are asked to have representatives present at the meeting. The season will open next Wednesday.

OTELL MAKES RECORD 67 TO LEAD

Indian Spring Golfer Leads Qualifiers in Baltimore.

Special to The Washington Post.

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 11.—Dr. Larry S. Otell, of the Indian Spring Golf Club, Washington, played record-breaking golf to lead the qualifiers today in the eighteen-hole medal round of the Suburban Country Club's invitation tournament. He posted a 67, which was three strokes under the par figure.

According to Nathan Kaufman, chairman of the golf committee, this is the lowest score ever made in competition over the suburban links.

The Capital golfer was out in 34 and required one stroke less for the final nine holes. He had birdies at the fourth, ninth, twelfth, fourteenth and fifteenth holes. He was one over 3's for the last four holes.

Otell drove to the trap in the middle of the eighteenth fairway and had to play some sensational golf to get his par 4 at thehome green. The Washington player had a hanging lie in the trap. He used his mashie-nibilick and the ball landed on the edge of the green. He missed the long putt for a birdie, but got down on his next drive to match the orthodox 4.

His card follows:

Par out ..	4	3	4	4	4	4	3	5	—35
Otell, out.	4	3	4	3	5	3	4	4	—34
Par in ...	4	4	4	4	5	4	3	3	4—35—70
Otell, in..	5	4	3	4	4	3	3	3	4—33—67

B. Warren Corkran, Baltimore Country Club, who shot a 69, was the only other golfer to have subpar rounds.

Of the 200 golfers to qualify, 14 came from the District of Columbia. The Washington representatives made a good showing, four of them getting in the first flight.

Besides Dr. Otell, the scores of the Washingtonians follow:

Harold N. Graves, jr. (Indian Spring), 36—39—75; Leroy Sasscer (Indian Spring), 37—39—76; J. W. Harvey, jr. (Indian Spring), 37—40—77; J. Monroe Hunter, jr. (Indian Spring), 38—40—78; Volney G. Burnett (Beaver Dam), 40—40—80; W. Byrn Curtiss (Indian Spring), 40—41—81; Elliott Spicer (Indian Spring), 41—40—81; Homer S. Pope (Indian Spring), 42—41—83; Gregory S. Prince (Columbia), 44—44—88; C. L. Dorris (Washington), 44—44—88; William Lesse (Chevy Chase Club), 44—47—91; C. B. Murphy (Congressional), no card; Parker Nolan (Congressional), no card.

The Mount Rainier boys' football team, entrant in the Sport Mart League, will hold a practice session Sunday on their field. All new players and teams wanting scrimmage, call Manager Newell at Hyattsville 76-R.

3 Scholastic Gridmen Enrolled at Devitt Prep

Although the material on hand seems not as promising as that of recent years, Devitt Prep's football hopes have taken on an added rise with the announcement that three high school players had enrolled for the coming year at the Upton Street School. Two Western regulars, Ray Millard and Noble Cook, have registered, while Bill Childress, reserve with Central last year, also will be at Devitt this year.

Millard and Cook were both regulars at Western, the former possessing shifty tactics which allowed him to get away for several substantial gains, while the latter was a husky tackle of all-high caliber.

While only 27 candidates have reported to Coach Jim McNamara thus far, many more are expected when school opens next Wednesday.

DeBeve, Kader, Signed For Quaker City Bouts

Arthur "Frenchy" DeBeve, former French lightweight champion, and Eli Kader, of Washington, have been signed for bouts to be held in the Arena, Philadelphia, on September 22. DeBeve will meet Mikey Diamond and Kader will engage Billy Algers.

Kader is slated to clash with Leo Duncan next Tuesday night in Leiperville, Pa. In a previous meeting, last March, Kader scored a four-round knockout over Duncan.

crouched and shuffling, a cold, vicious killer stalking the prey.

He caught young Singer in the corner with another left hook to the beard and then lashed both hands—one, two, one two—to the head. The champion crumpled to the floor, rolled over on his face and put both hands to his face.

He was so still that McLarnin, thinking the battle over, raced across the ring and turned a pair of cartwheels toward his corner, completely beyond the control of Referee Johnny McEvoy and his frantic seconds. At seven Singer crawled to his knees, at nine he came up and staggered toward the celebrating Celt.

Al brought a right hand along with him as he came, but the punch, a fog, missed McLarnin's chin, but a fog, missed McLarnin's chine, but brought him back to his senses. Jimmy turned, measured the wavering title holder with his left and drilled him clean to the chin with a crushing right. Singer went down and stayed down, again stretched out on his face, groggily beating the sides of his head in a feeble and perhaps instinctive effort to restore himself to consciousness, but he was still on his face at ten.

SHAMROCK V, ENTERPRISE ARE READY

Cup Rivals Groomed for Start of Races Tomorrow.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 11 (A.P.). Shamrock V, Sir Thomas Lipton's latest challenger for the famed America's Cup, returned to her element today after her final grooming for the greatest of all yachting classics. The trim green sloop was eased down a local marine railway from the boatyard in which she had been prepared for the contest, which opens Saturday.

Glistening in new paint, her underbody polished to a fine sheen to lessen resistance to the water, the sloop took to the water like a duck. Charles E. Nicholson, her designer, was on hand to see Britain's hope go down the ways. Yesterday he went to Bristol with W. Starling Burgess, designer of the Defender, Enterprise, to look over the American boat. If he had formed any opinion regarding the two he did not express it.

Enterprise Tuned For Races.

Enterprise, which was sailed successfully against three other candidates for the defense of the famous trophy by Harold S. Vanderbilt, also took the water on the morning tide at Bristol. She had just undergone her last tuning-up in the shipyard from which she was launched this spring. Enterprise immediately left for Newport, where a corps of sailmakers awaited her. It was expected she would be out for a spin before evening.

Belfast, Northern Ireland, Sept. 11 (A.P.).—A message of good luck to Sir Thomas Lipton in his attempt to bring back the America's cup with his new yacht Shamrock V was sent today by President Cosgrave of the Irish Free State through the Associated Press.

"All Irishmen without distinction or party are united in wishing Sir Thomas success in his great enterprise. He hails from Clones, which is in the Free State close to the border. His countrymen north of it, I have no doubt, are following his adventure with as great keenness and anxiety as we do, especially as his challenge is from a northern yacht club.

"No sportsman can fail to admire the spirit which Sir Thomas manifested in his repeated attempts to bring the cup to Ireland, and we trust as a result of the present series to be given the opportunity of welcoming thousands of Americans to our shores when the next contest takes place."

MERCURYS DRILL TONIGHT.

FARRELL AND SMITH BOW IN P.G.A.

Sarazen Rallies to Win; Kirkwood Beats Horton.

Smith Scores Birdie On 33d Hole.

He sent a No. 4 iron 3 feet from the pin at the thirty-third, and the resulting birdie 3 left him only 1 down. Joe then made a great shot at the 587-yard thirty-fourth. His drive left him in the rough, but he called on his bag of tricks to produce a good spoon shot, although he still was 160 yards from the green and behind a trap. Smith was on the back of the green with his third, and Kirkwood had to make arrangements for a half or see his opponent go 2 up with only 2 to play.

It was not in the cards for Smith to become dormie today. Kirkwood sent a mashie shot high in the air and the ball dropped on the green and stopped dead. Kirkwood just missed his putt for a birdie 4 and the hole was halved in fives. He still was one down, but two holes were left to play.

Then Smith lost control and, as it turned out, the match. He drove out of bounds, drove again and wasted a shot in rough and finally reached the green in five strokes. Kirkwood holed out in five and the match was square again.

After good drives at the 362-yard thirty-sixth Smith pushed his second into a trap and Kirkwood placed his well on past the pin. Horton, with his queer niblick, came out and on the green but 15 feet from the pin. Kirkwood putted to the edge of the cup and Smith had to hole his long one to keep the match alive. He missed by inches and Horton was out and Joe in.

Two of the last eight players started with a rush in the morning only to slump later. Sampson was four up on a very wild lacey before the Jersey player won his first hole at the eighth. The Californian, however, grew weary and faltered, having only a one-hole advantage after the first eighteen holes.

Farrell Takes Early Lead.

Farrell won five of the first six holes from Armour, but Tommy came back and at the luncheon recess was two up. Johnny kept struggling, with his putting far below his normal standard, while Tommy was getting down some very useful 5 and 6 footers and finally by winning three straight holes the match was squared at the thirty-second. Tommy still had something left, however, and won the thirty-third and thirty-fourth when Johnny slipped a stroke over par at each hole.

Sarazen and Espinosa two golf warriors who have fought many battles in the past, were never very far apart. Espinosa took a one-hole lead in the first nine holes and held it through the morning eighteen. Sarazen leveled matters at the second hole of the afternoon and at the twenty-seventh the morning situation was reversed. Sarazen was now one up. He went three up for a few fleeting moments at the thirty-first, but a brilliant birdie two for Espinosa at the thirty-second reduced it again to two. They then halved holes until one one was left.

Tomorrow Lacey will play Armour, while Sarazen meets Kirkwood.

The Maryland State open championship will be held at Rolling Road, Baltimore, on September 17, it was announced last night.

TILDEN GAINS SEMIFINAL ROUND

year against Tilden and is ranked second only to Big Bill among the country's stars.

In the other five-set struggle Shields mixed the mediocre with the miraculous. Starting slowly, he dropped the first set and was trailing at 1—5 in the second when he cut loose with his great bursts of invincible tennis, managing to take two for the set.

But in the next two sets he unleashed streaks of five straight games to carry both, and in the fifth he tore off six in a row as Mangin, limping from a strained ankle suffered in a bad spill in the fifth game of the final set, strove in vain to return the big fellow's mighty drives and smashes.

Sutter put up a great fight against Wood, pulling up from 2—5 to 5-all in the fourth set after being at match point five times in the ninth game, but it was all in vain.

An incident of the day was a display of temperament by Tilden, who refused to take the court as scheduled until the Hunter-Doeg match was finished. It took a threat of disqualification to force him to go on.

The Shields-Wood semifinal was set for 2 p. m. tomorrow, with Tilden and Doeg playing at 3:30. An added attraction will be a mixed doubles match with Betty Nuthall and L. A. Godfree, of England, playing Sarah Palfrey and Sutter.

QUARTER-FINAL ROUND.

William T. Tilden 2d, Philadelphia, defeated John Van Ryn, East Orange, N. J., 4—6, 6—2, 6—4, 6—4.

John Doeg, Santa Monica, Calif., defeated Francis T. Hunter, New Rochelle, N. Y., 11—13, 6—4, 3—6, 6—2, 6—4.

Frank Shields, New York, defeated Gregory Mangin, Newark, N. J., 3—6, 6—8, 6—2, 6—1, 6—1.

and one Card appeared before the game ended.

One run in the fourth and two more in the fifth, scored when Critz, Allen and Lindstrom singled in succession and Hallahan inserted a wild pitch, gave the Giants at 3-3 tie. Each team scored once in the seventh to keep the deadlock, then Hafey tallied again in the eighth on his pass, Wilson's single and High's hit to Critz, whose throw to the plate was barely too late.

NATIONAL LEAGUE RACE IS THRILLER

the fight until the very end of the race, and if they turn back the Cardinals today while the Cubs and Robins are winning they will be only one and one-half games removed from third place.

The Cards, however, can take undisputed possesion of first place if they defeat the Giants while the Cubs and Robins lose. In that eventuality the Cardinals will hold first place by one-half game; the Giants will be fourth, three and one-half games back, and the Cubs and Robins will be second and third, respectively, with handicaps of one-half and one full game.

Brooklyn, by winning, will go into first place if the Cubs and Cards lose, but Cincinnati has proved tougher for the Robins in the past than the Phillies have for the Cubs. It was in Cincinnati on their last Western invasion that the Robins dropped the league lead after many weeks on top.

HEAVY TREND RULES CHANGES IN STOCKS

Several Leaders Off 1 to 2 Points; Few Steels and Utilities Rise.

GRAIN PRICES ARE WEAK

New York, Sept. 11 (A.P.)—Stocks in New York was grains in Chicago were heavy today, although there appeared to be little connection between the two movements.

The share market was obviously weary from its recent sallies through the July highs and settled back to pocket its profits. To keep the speculative fires burning, professional operators bid up some of the utilities and independent steels in the last hour, but the stocks to which the market looks for leadership closed a little lower. American Telephone, United States Steel, General Motors, General Electric, Atchison and Westinghouse Electric lost one to two points net.

Weakness of wheat, based on the September 1 estimate of a crop 31,000,000 bushels larger than last year's sent some futures to new lows for the season on losses of about 2 cents, although there was a partial recovery from the bottom. Closing quotations were 1¼ to 1⅝ lower. The Department of Agriculture's figures on corn were more bearish than had been expected, notwithstanding the fact that the drought losses will result in the smallest crop in years. Corn closed off 1⅜ to 1⅝ cents, somewhat higher than the day's lows. Cotton lost about a dollar a bale.

Oil Prices Rally.

Firming of gasoline prices in Chicago and of steel scrap in Pittsburgh were taken as favorable straws in the wind. Reports that the Oklahoma Supreme Court had vacated the injunction obtained against that State's corporation commission prohibiting it from enforcing crude oil proration in the case of the C. C. Julian Oil & Royalty Co. helped sentiment in the oil group and Standard of New Jersey and Mexican Seaboard rallied in the late trading for one point gains.

Omission of Calumet & Hecla's dividend added but another to the long list of unfavorable actions on disbursements by copper companies so far this year, and further similar steps would not be surprising unless conditions in the industry improve. Southern Railway's directors declared the regular quarterly payment on the common, taking the dividend from last year's earnings, as announced some time ago. The stock rose more than a point on the actual declaration. But it lost its gain.

The increase of $33,000,000 in brokers' loans was the largest for any week since July 18, emphasizing the bullish activity in the stock market during the period covered by the report. Out-of-town banks increased their loans by $150,000,000, as funds withdrawn for the month-end settlement returned to New York.

Reserve Discount Drops.

Federal Reserve discounts of bills, representing the borrowings of member banks from the system, dropped $48,000,000 in the week ended yesterday, and there was a decline of $37,000,000 in the outstanding total of reserve credit. Holdings of Government securities were stationary, while open market purchases of bills, apparently in assistance of the money market, increased $23,000,000.

Call money held at 2½ per cent at the stock exchange loan desk, but funds were available in large amounts in the unofficial market at 2 per cent.

The sluggishness of stocks was enlivened by a few attempts to push old favorites higher or to find new ones. Radio was bought in large blocks for a while in the forenoon and moved to 43¼, the highest price in some time, but soon fell back. In the late rally, Newton Steel soared 6 points, National Steel 3¾ and Vanadium 1¾. Foster Wheeler, Gillette, Goodyear Tire, Electric Power & Light and Consolidated Gas improved 1 to 2 points. Allied Chemical, Auburn Auto, Case and International Harvester were heavy. Case closed 6 points lower.

European exchange rates eased, but the Latin Americans rallied moderately after a slight setback.

INSURANCE BRANCH HAS RECORD, CLAIM

New York Life Co. Reports Eight-Month Business of $5,514,861.

TITLE OFFICE WILL OPEN

The most profitable eight months' business ever recorded by a Washington life insurance agency is believed to have been achieved by the local branch of the New York Life Insurance Co. Reports received yesterday from Earl D. Krewson, director of the local agency, show that the total of life insurance paid for in the Washington agency for the first eight months of this year was $5,514,861. This is a gain of 25 per cent over the first eight months of last year, according to Mr. Krewson.

The Washington branch of the New York Title & Mortgage Co. will be formally opened today in the Shoreham Building. A reception will be held in the offices during business hours. W. J. Booher will be in charge of the local branch, and B. B. Bailey is title officer.

Officials in charge of the sixth annual industrial exposition in Washington, to be held in the Washington Auditorium November 3 to 8, draw attention to the fact that products valued at more than $100,000,000 are manufactured annually in the District of Columbia. These goods are manufactured in approximately 630 industrial plants, paying $20,000,000 to 15,000 employes. These figures are exclusive of Federal industries.

Richard Hill Institute Speaker.

Richard W. Hill, national secretary of the American Institute of Banking, was the principal speaker last night at the annual dinner of the educational committee of the Washington chapter of the institute at the Raleigh Hotel. He spoke on "Power in Individualism."

Reserve Bank credit for the week ended September 10 decreased to the extent of $33,000,000, according to a statement issued yesterday by the Federal Reserve Board. The total credit for the week was $1,008,000,000.

The daily average volume of Federal Reserve credit outstanding during the week was $1,029,000,000, an increase of $1,000,000 over the preceding week. This was a decrease of $406,000,000 over the same week last year.

Holdings of U. S. Bonds Drop.

Holdings of discounted bills declined $48,000,000. The principal changes reported were decreases of $37,000,000 at the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, $3,000,000 at Boston and $2,000,000 at Cleveland and Chicago, respectively. The system's holdings of bills bought in open market increased $20,000,000. Holdings of United States bonds declined $6,000,000.

Loans on securities to brokers and dealers by New York banks were slightly more for the week ended September 10 than in the preceding week, according to reports to the Federal Reserve Board, yesterday.

Loans for the past week were $3,143,000, while in the week before they were $3,110,000. The loans were less than half than those in the corresponding week last year. Loans "for own account" were $1,614,000; for account of out-of-town banks, $770,000,000, and for account of others, $759,000,000. Loans "for own account" decreased slightly, those for the account of out-of-town banks were slightly more. A slight decrease was shown in loans for account of others.

Curb Review

New York, Sept. 11 (A.P.).—The advance in curb market shares faltered today, but for the most part, recent today, but for the most part recent trends drifted uncertainly as traders marked time pending the testing of recent levels. The day's turnover fell a little below 400,000 shares.

Utilities, in particular, were well supported. Profit taking was in fair volume at times, in sympathy with trends on the big board, but market sponsors of these issues were disinclined to let them slip. Among the more active issues American Superpower closed unchanged, electric bond and share was off ⅛, and Niagara Hudson, up ⅛. United Light A and United Gas each eased ¼. American Gas and Electric and Insull Utility Investment lost a point each. American and Foreign Power warrants gained ½.

In the industrial and specialty group, Novadel Agene was again strong, rising 3 points to a new high. Aluminum Co. jumped 8 points in a small turnover. Crowley Milner, however, dropped 4, and Flintkote A, 2 points to new lows. American Cyanamid B lost a fraction in active trading. In the merchandising issues, Lane Bryant gained 2 points, and Safeway warrants rose 3 to 18, a new high.

Investment trusts were mixed. Atlas Utilities and Prudential Investors rose fractionally in a fair turnover. Goldman Sachs and National Investors slipped back fractionally. Oils likewise moved irregularly and narrowly. Cities Service was steady. Humble lost nearly a point, while Gulf gained as much. Darby Petroleum lost a point, reaching a new low, on unfavorable dividend action. Texon was bid up a point.

INDUSTRIAL, UTILITY BOND INDICES CLIMB

Two Groups Touch Highs for Year; Carriers Prove Quiet and Firm.

READING COAL 6S EASE

New York, Sept. 11 (A.P.).—Utility and industrial bonds were the favorites in today's market, and the average price of ten representative issues in each group went to a new high. Rails held quiet and firm, featured by the St. Paul adjustment 5s and by the strength of several other secondary obligations.

Apparently because of the competition afforded by large new offerings, trading in listed bonds declined rather sharply from yesterday's volume, but the market's ability to make progress despite the counter-attraction of several new utility loans and one railroad flotation was taken as an encouraging sign.

The Treasury's decision to retire its 3½ per cent notes next March 31, with the obvious intention of replacing them with securities bearing a lower interest rate was received cheerfully. Investment bankers pointed out that the continuation of easy money which the Government's plan anticipates should mean the maintenance of a good bond market for several months

St. Paul 5s Advance.

The St. Paul 5s closed ¾ of a point higher on a large turnover. Directors of the road reduced the interest payment, due October 1, to 1½ per cent from the 2½ due, but a larger reduction would not have been surprising and the bonds soon attracted a following. The interest is cumulative and it was believed that the company would take advantage of improved earnings to make up arrearages at the first opportunity.

Other firm rails included Western 4s, Chesapeake & Ohio General 4½s, Great Northern 7s, Erie 5s, New York Central 5s, Pere Marquette 4½s, Frisco Prior Lien 4s and the Southern and Pennsylvania groups. A few of the gilt-edge carriers eased. Canadian Pacific 5s made a new high.

Interest in the industrials embraced Bethlehem Steel purchase money 5s, Cuyamel Fruit 6s, Goodyear Tire 5s, International Paper 5s, General Baking 5½s, McKesson & Robbins 5½s and Shell Union Oil 5s. Gains of a point were scattered through the group.

American Phone Strong.

American Telephone debentures showed strength, while Postal Telegraph 5s, Pacific Gas & Electric 5s and United Electric Light & Power 5s were considerably higher.

In the convertible division, American I. G. Chemical 5½s equaled their year's high. Baltimore & Ohio 4½s, Parmelee 6s and Texas Corporation 5s were firm. Reading Coal & Iron 6s, recently strong, eased slightly.

United States Governments made progress but turnovers remained small.

Foreign obligations continued irregular. Argentines scored fair advances, but Buenos Aires 6s of 1961 broke more than 2 points.

Formal offering is being made tomorrow of a $40,000,000 issue of Corporation Securities Co. of Chicago serial gold notes, bearing 4½ and 5 per cent coupons. The yield is 4.50 to 5.75 per cent.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.

Yesterday was Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce day at the seventeenth annual Fairfax County Fair. The centers of attraction were the horse races and the baby show, which latter was held under the auspices of the Fairfax County Health Unit, with Mrs. Herbert L. Seamons, county health nurse, in charge.

The baby show was divided into three classes, and attractive prizes were given to the winners of each class. The awards were made on the basis of health and weight, the judges being baby specialists. There were almost 100 babies entered in the show.

Class A, children under 1 year old. The winner of the girls' class was Peggy Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Money, of Colvin Run. The winner of the boys' class was David, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Baumbach, of Groveton. The second prize for girls in this class was won by Mary Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Powell, of Great Falls, and the second prize in the boys' division was won by Emmett, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Crosson, of Beltsville, Md.

Class B, children over 1 and under 2 years old. First prize in the girls' class was won by Lucile, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Thompson. First in the boys' class was won by Leon James, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon W. Hawback, of Alexandria. Second prize for girls was won by Anne, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E. S. Waring, of Fairfax. Second prize for boys was won by Charles, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Griffin, of Colvin Run.

Class B, for children over two and three years old. First prize for girls was won by Sue, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E. S. Waring, of Fairfax. First prize for boys was won by Claude, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Ballinger, of Alexandria. The second prize for girls was won by Winifred Virginia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Starizman, of Fairfax. The second prize for boys was won by Jack, son of Mr. and Mrs. John McDaniel, of Vienna. The Sweepstakes prize, given for the best all-round child of the show, was won by Sue, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E. S. Waring, of Fairfax.

A beauty contest was held late in the afternoon when the judges mingled with the crowds and selected the two most attractive girls. The first prize was won by Miss Helen Showalter, of Broadway, Va., and the second prize by Allene Carl, of 520 K street northeast, Washington.

Four horse races were staged. One-half mile dash. First, Cross the Board, owned by Marion Ayres; second, Wildfire, owned by C. V. Mathews; third, Lula Wakiki, owned by W. T. Ralston. One mile flat. Ill Health Prompts Father to Commit Suicide Near Frederick.

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., Sept. 11.—Mallard M. Glessner, about 28 years of age, committed suicide by shooting himself through the heart with a rifle at the home of his father-in-law, Vincent Fox, a farmer, near Mackaig, last night.

His lifeless body was found by a member of the family who went to his room when he did not respond to the call for breakfast.

Glessner, who was in poor health, went to his father-in-law's home yesterday after writing a note, saying "I will rest well tonight. Take care of Buddy." He pressed the muzzle against his heart and pulled the trigger with a window stick. Buddy, mentioned in the note, is his 6-year-old son. He is also survived by his wife and mother, who reside in this city.

HURTS TO WORKERS DECLINE IN VIRGINIA

Industrial Commission Says Part of Decrease Is Due to Unemployment.

MISHAPS TOTAL 27,019

Richmond, Va., Sept. 11 (A.P.).—Decreases were noted in the number of accidents reported to the Industrial Commission of Virginia, both in the month of August and in the first seven months of the year, as compared with these statistics for 1929, Frank P. Evans, commission statistician, said today.

While there were 3,170 industrial accidents causing injury to workers in August this year, compared with 3,508 in August, 1929, Mr. Evans said the decrease of 338 did not necessarily mean that there was a marked improvement in the accident experience of industries, but "rather that there was a decrease in the total number of hours of work over the same month last year."

From January 1 to August 31, 1930, there were 27,019 industrial accidents resulting in injury to workmen, commission reports show. During the first eight months of 1929 the number of such cases was 27,646. These injuries included everything from a scratched finger to fatalities.

In August this year the commission approved 816 agreements, by which injured employes received compensation on account of injuries received from the industrial accidents. This was an increase of 70 for the month over August, 1929.

Infantry to Study Civil War Terrain

Thirty-fourth to Make Fall March Through Shenandoah Valley.

Winchester, Va., Sept. 11 (A.P.).—The Thirty-fourth Infantry, United States Army, soon to leave Fort Eustis, Va., on its annual fall march, will spend several days in the Shenandoah Valley, camping at Rouss Spring Park here September 26.

While in the valley the regiment, commanded by Col. Alfred T. Smith, will study the terrain of Federal and Confederate Armies, particularly in the Valley campaign of Stonewall Jackson.

The regiment's itinerary, according to a letter received by the Winchester Chamber of Commerce from Col. Smith, will include passage through Washington, Gettysburg, Antietam and Winchester. Civil War battlefields will be studied throughout the hike.

A program of entertainment has been planned for the soldiers while they are here.

Schools Get Requests To Let Children Work

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Sept. 11.—County school officials are at a loss to understand the great number of requests they are receiving this year to permit children of compulsory educational age to remain out of school for a few weeks to work.

The drought has caused a failure of the corn and hay crops and the apple crop is much below the average. It seems that these should be but little work that a school boy or girl can secure. Yet A. L. Bennett, superintendent of county schools, is receiving a number of requests each day to allow children to remain out of school for a few days to work.

Town Without Lights As Water Supply Fails

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Sept. 11.—The town of Bayard, on the Potomac River, south of here, the seat of the Emmons Coal Mining Co., is without lights and will continue so until the water supply is replenished.

The electricity for light and power is furnished the municipality and for domestic use by the power plant of the Emmons Co. This has been shut down because the water supply has been exhausted. Coal oil lamps and tallow candles are much in evidence in homes that do not have gas.

DROUGHT LOAN SLIPS ARE GIVEN FARMERS

Frederick County Launches Concrete Program for Relief.

CATHER HEADS WORK

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Sept. 11.—A goodly supply of forms, notes, crop lien forms and vouchers was received today by the Frederick County drought relief committee, and distribution to farmers was begun by T. Russell Cather, chairman, and W. R. Legge, acting county agent.

The forms came from the United States Department of Agriculture and are for small loans for the purchase of fertilizer and seed. Loans, it was stated, will be made only for the purchase of fertilizer and seed suitable for fall and winter pasture for 1930. This includes wheat and rye.

The loans are restricted to farmers who have suffered crop failures from the drought the past summer and for that reason do not have seed or fertilizer, and who are without commercial basis of credit for its purchase.

Maximum Loan $200.

The maximum loan per acre for the ground to be seeded is $5 and the maximum total loan is $200. The applicant, it was announced, must agree to use the seed and fertilizer as approved by the Department of Agriculture. No loan will be made to a farmer who has other means of livelihood, nor to a minor.

Application for the loan has to be made on a form provided by the Department of Agriculture. A promissory note for the amount bearing interest at 5 per cent and payable July 1, 1931; a crop lien on the crop to be seeded, and a voucher supplied by the department, all must be executed and forwarded to Washington.

Drought Loss $2,500,000.

Right is reserved by the Government to reject any and all applications, in whole or in part. When the application is approved, a check is forwarded by the Department of Agriculture to the borrower.

It has been estimated that the drought damage in Frederick County is around $2,500,000, with apples in commercial orchards bearing the brunt. The corn crop was virtually a failure. Pastures have long since dried up, necessitating the buying and feeding of dry food stuffs, and hundreds of head of cattle have been sold at a sacrifice because farmers have been unable to buy feed at inflated prices.

Tobacco Acreage Reduction Looms

Present Prices to Affect Flue-Cured Product, Hutson Predicts.

Richmond, Va., Sept. 11 (A.P.).—J. B. Hutson, tobacco specialist of the United States Department of Agriculture, in a statement today predicted that if present prices prevail for the remainder of the marketing season, flue-cured tobacco acreage in Virginia next year will be reduced by 7 per cent.

The statement said the auction floor price for U. S. type 14 grown in Georgia and Florida for the 1930 season averaged slightly less than 10 cents a pound; growers received about 9.5 cents a pound. There has been some improvement in prices since the opening of the marketing season, and "if present prices prevail, grade considered, for the remainder of this season the auction floor price for U. S. type 11, 12 and 13 grown in the Carolinas and Virginia is likely to average about 14 cents a pound.

If growers respond to these prices and other factors as in recent years, the acreage of type 14 in 1931 is likely to be reduced about 20 per cent and the acreages of types 11, 12 and 13 about 7 per cent below the 1930 area.

ONE BID IS RECEIVED FOR CITY GAS PLANT

Seaboard Investment Trust Offers $750,000 for Alexandria Property.

WOULD LOWER RATES

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

But one bid was submitted when the Alexandria City Council met yesterday afternoon to consider offers for the municipally owned gas plant and mains, although three firms had previously expressed an interest in buying the plant. The bid was from the Seaboard Investment Trust, holding company for the Washington Gas Light Co. and the Rosslyn Gas Light Co. The firm offered $750,000 for the plant and franchise to operate it. Council took the bid under advisement and announced that it would come to a definite decision within ten days. The bid was accompanied by a certified check for $22,500, drawn by the Rosslyn Gas Light Co.

Schedule of maximum gas rates to be charged was contained in the bid and are at a considerably lower rate than those now in force. The agreement called for a charge of $1.15 per 1,000 cubic feet for the first 50,000 cubic feet used; $1 per 1,000 cubic feet for the next 50,000 cubic feet, and a price of 85 cents for all over 100,000 cubic feet per month. The city would be billed at the lowest rate under the plan. Minimum bill would be $1 per month, while 10 per cent would be added to bills not paid within ten days.

Present rates begin at $1.75 per 1,000 cubic feet for the first 10,000 cubic feet, with a discount of 30 cents per 1,000 cubic feet if paid within ten days, giving the normal household user a reduction of 30 cents per 1,000 cubic feet per month.

In conjunction with the proposal of the Seaboard Investment Trust to purchase and operate the local plant it is understood that this city would also get the proposed by-products plant of the Washington Gas Light Co.

The council is faced with the expenditure of a large sum of money if the bid is not accepted, as extensive repairs are said to be necessary on the plant, and mains will have to be extended to the territory acquired from Arlington County last January 1. Attorney C. C. Carlin and Agent G. A. G. Wood represented the Seaboard Investment Trust in presenting the bid to council.

Work of tearing down the old post-office and two large brick dwellings to clear the site for the new post-office and Federal building, to be constructed at Prince and Washington streets, has begun and the contractor has 60 days to complete the work. Construction will start as soon as the ground is cleared.

Clayton Dudley, 10-year-old colored youth, who broke jail here about a week ago, was recaptured Wednesday by Washington police and returned here. He will be sent to the State board of public welfare in Richmond.

Trial operation of the one-man street cars, which R. L. May, owner of the electric line between this city and Washington, proposes to install, will be made today when one car is placed in operation. The chamber of commerce at a recent meeting passed a resolution asking city council to oppose the one-man cars, but no action has been taken in the matter.

The monthly report of the city health unit, released yesterday, shows but nine cases of communicable diseases, including two cases of typhoid fever, both of which were brought here for treatment. Births totaled 54, with deaths reported numbering 29.

Announcement was made by Coroner T. Marshall Jones, following an inquest here yesterday into the cause of death of Preston Marshall, colored, shot in the head during a fight at a dance at Bailey's Cross Roads Tuesday night, that the deceased came to his death from a bullet fired by Raymond Davis, colored. Eight colored men testified at the inquest.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon for Samuel D. Horton, 65, employed as a guard at Mount Vernon who died Wednesday night at the home of his son, 510 Wolfe street. The services will be held from the Cunningham funeral home on Prince street, and will be in charge of Capt. Hopkins, of the Salvation Army. Burial will be in Woodlawn Cemetery. He is survived by a wife, two sons and two daughters.

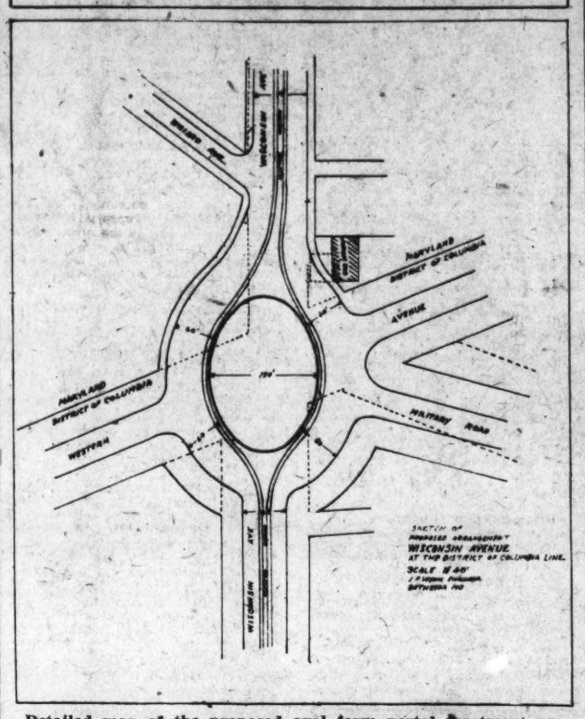
DISTRICT LINE DEVELOPMENT



Detailed map of the proposed oval form portal treatment approved yesterday by the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission for Wisconsin avenue at the District Line.

DISTRICT LINE OVAL PLAN IS APPROVED

Portal Develment Idea Is Pushed by Citizens of Montgomery.

BURGLARS LOOT STORE

An oval form of portal development at the District line on Wisconsin avenue was approved yesterday at a meeting of the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission. The commission approved the oval plan as to form and character of treatment.

The plan provides for an oval parking in the center of the intersection of Wisconsin avenue, Western avenue and Military road at the District line. The portal scheme has an over-all width of 350 feet with an oval panel in the center 150 feet wide encircled by a 60-foot drive.

Direct traffic through the park center will be halted and both vehicular and street car traffic will be routed around the oval panel.

The oval plan will be recommended to the District coordinating committee and if approved will be included in the highway plan. Half the development will be in Maryland, and it is hoped by the citizens who have worked for approval that the Maryland development can be included in the paving program projected for Wisconsin avenue by Montgomery County officials.

The plan has been approved by the Montgomery County Civic Federation, the Bethesda Chamber of Commerce and local citizens' organizations.

Adoption of the plan by the Park and Planning Commission is largely due to the efforts of John J. Miller, president of the Bethesda Chamber of Commerce, B. W. Parker, chairman of the subcommittee of the chamber on parks and playgrounds, and Dr. Washington Waters, chairman of the public improvement committee.

With the completion of the portal project, the entrance to the Nation's Capital on Wisconsin avenue will assume a quiet dignity that will create a pleasing impression on motorists from the north and west who usually enter Washington by this route, according to Irving C. Root, chief engineer of the park and planning commission, who has done much of the detail work in preparation of the plans for submission to the commission following several conferences with citizens and interested organization heads.

The Sanitary Grocery Co. at Sligo, Md., was broken into early yesterday and commodities valued at $10.40 stolen. The store was entered by the thieves' breaking a rear window. Sergt. Guy L. Jones, of the Silver Spring substation, Montgomery County police, is investigating the robbery.

Directors of the Bethesda Chamber of Commerce met in the county building at Bethesda and reviewed with President J. J. Miller work that is under way and unfinished business which was initiated under Mr. Miller's administration. Mr. Miller is scheduled to sail for Europe September 24, and the meeting was held to assure that the affairs of the chamber were in order before his departure.

The president of the commerce body is to go to Berlin, Germany, where he will be in charge of the office of Ernst & Ernst, internationally known public accountants. At the present time Mr. Miller is manager of their Washington office. His duties in Berlin will necessitate his remaining there for four years.

At the next regular meeting of the chamber, October 6, the resignation of Mr. Miller will be submitted and a new president will be chosen to succeed him.

A petition asking improvement of the road from Old Germantown toward Gaithersburg and signed by 28 taxpayers who use the road was presented to the Montgomery County Commissioners at the meeting of that body yesterday. The taxpayers further requested that the road be surfaced with stone, claiming that it is almost impassable in winter time.

The petition of the Maryland Gas Transmission Corporation asking for permission to construct gas mains with telephone or telegrah line from the Pennsylvania line cinto Montgomery County was granted by the commissioners on condition that all road surfaces be replaced and that the work be supervised by the commissioners. The project is to be completed within 120 days.

Judge Charles W. Woodward reported that the county police court collected $1,105.50 as fines and costs in criminal cases and $25 as costs in civil cases. The amount of $574 was collected from motor vehicle cases and is to be deducted from the total and forwarded to the motor vehicle commissioner in Baltimore.

$100,000 IS NEEDED IN DROUGHT RELIEF

300 SEEK ASSISTANCE

Special to The Washington Post.

Leesburg, Va., Sept. 11.—Outside credit to the amount of $100,000 will be needed to finance the farmers of this county through the winter and spring, it was brought out at a special meeting of the Loudoun drought relief council held in the courthouse today. The meeting was attended by members from every section of the county. Questionnaires have revealed the fact that there are 300 growers in need of financial assistance. These Loudoun County farmers are normally good credit risks, but they will not be able at this time to secure credit from local sources for crop production and feeding live stock, it was stated.

The Loudoun County Red Cross Chapter, facing a situation already grave and becoming more serious as the drought continues, will require $25,000 to provide for needy families. Harrison Williams, chairman, told the council his organization stood ready to cooperate in every way.

Announcement was made at the meeting that $2,000 is available from the Federal Government to be advanced to farmers in Loudoun County for fall seeding. The council will ask that the entire allotment be distributed here.

Every phase of the drought situation was discussed at the meeting and the consensus was that there would be acute suffering this winter unless steps were taken to extend financial assistance. To expedite matters the county will be organized in twelve permanent organizations. The committee named to perfect these organiaztions consists of W. A. Metzger, R. J. McCray and T. U. Dudley.

Machine Washing Of Apples Favored

170 Orchard Men Meet at Martinsburg to Discuss Proposed Change.

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Sept. 11.—The meeting of 170 orchard men here brought about a fairly definite crystallization of sentiment among the apple men in favor of washing apples, or wiping or brushing them, by commercial machinery, as the most practical way to meet the increasingly stringent demands of the consuming public as to the kind and appearance of fruits and vegetables they purchase and as the surest way of meeting all embargoes and restrictions laid down by England and other countries where local apples find a market in large amounts.

The growers were warned by J. J. Gardner, head of Federal inspection service here, that spray residue which showed on the cheek of the apple would bar such apples from grading "clean" and would score against the fruit on the inspection card.

As a result largely of the meeting and of a subsequent conference it was decided to enforce strictly in this State, as is being done in Virginia, laws pertaining to apple grading and packing, particularly as to the residue, which is present in heavier amounts than usual because of the lack of rainfall through the summer to wash the fruit off periodically.

BRUSH FIRE WARNING IS ISSUED IN COUNTY

Gain in Number of Arlington Blazes Causes Official Action to Be Taken.

DR. CHICHESTER SPEAKS

BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

With a number of brush fires in various sections of the county yesterday causing the volunteer fire departments to answer a number of calls, a warning went out last night from the various fire chiefs to residents to use the greatest car in the burning of brush or trash of any kind.

With the continued drought, which has resulted in drying the lawns and fields to a point where it is becoming most dangerous, it is pointed out by the firemen that the utmost care must be exercised.

In addition to attention being called to home owners, it is also called to motorists driving along the highways that they should exercise care when throwing lighted cigarettes from their automobiles, as many fires have been caused late at night and indications are that lighted cigarettes might have been the cause.

At the meeting of the Arlington County Monarch Club, held yesterday at the Ashton Heights Woman's Clubhouse, Dr. P. M. Chichester, county health officer, in speaking of the excellent work which has been accomplished by his department, stressed what has been done in an effort to control tuberculosis in Arlington County.

Dr. Chichester stated that the campaign carried on for the prevention of the disease for many years was somewhat handicapped on account of lack of funds. Last year this was greatly removed through the excellent sale of the Christmas seal stamps, the money from which being divided, giving the county three-fourths and the one-fourth going to the State and national organization which is fighting the disease. He stated that the success of the sale last year was greatly aided by the school children through the cooperation of the county school board.

During this year, he stated, the most successful campaign carried on was brought about by the cooperation of the State Health Department which sent a field worker to the county, and with the able assistance given by leading physicians from the District of Columbia. As a result of this campaign, Dr. Chichester stated, the county health department has been able to practically locate every active case within the county.

Taking up another branch of the work done by the health department, Dr. Chichester declared that the work done by the county school dentist, Dr. W. R. Boyland, stands out as one of the most valuable projects of county health, ranking next to the work being carried on against tuberculosis.

Dr. Chichester expressed the thanks of his department to the local club in its interest shown in the work being done in the county public schools by presenting to the school showing the highest percentage of perfect mouths the banner which it does each year.

President Honts announced that on the evening of September 23 the local club will entertain clubs from Washington, Baltimore and Richmond.

At a meeting of Arlington Royal Arch Chapter, No. 35, Royal Arch Masons, held in the Masonic Temple at Cherrydale last night, the following officers were elected:

A. B. Honts, high priest; John E. Oliver, king; S. C. Moore, scribe; Harry B. Mason, secretary; Samuel F. Cooper, treasurer; William E. Robey, captain of the host; Ira H. Arnold, principal sojourner; Frank U. Sanderson, royal arch captain; John M. Stewart, grand master third veil; Fred H. Doe, grand master second veil; T. Carson Page, grand master first veil; the Rev. Elmer Lucas, chaplain; H. W. Dickson, tiler, and John R. McCormick, steward.

Following the election the above named officers were installed by A. C. Cosden, past district deputy high priest, with C. A. Mason, also a past district deputy high priest, acting as marshal.

Harry B. Mason, retiring high priest, was presented with a past high priest jewel by Past High Priest Hugh Reid on behalf of the chapter.

The Glebewood Citizens Association meeting last night at the home of Mrs. Gladys Monroe voted to carry on a clean-up drive on Saturday, September 20, along Henderson drive, which, it was pointed out, has become a menace from dumping of trash. Proposals to oil Pershing drive from Glebe road west was taken under consideration.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Herbert Martin were chosen as delegates to the Arlington County Civic Federation with O. G. Funk and J. E. Bowers as the alternates. Robert H. Forman was re-elected delegate to the Arlington District Council of Citizens Associations.

The following committee chairmen were named: Public utilities, O. Robert Howell; roads, Robert H. Forman, and public schools, Mrs. O. Robert Howell.

The Arlington County Zoning Appeal Board last night granted the application for a permit for the establishment of a gasoline filling station at the intersection of the Glebe road and Columbia pike to Mrs. Pauline Keller.

The permit granted following the adoption of the motion offered by William P. Ames, it appearing that there is a 25-foot setback, providing it does not in any way conflict with the State law.

It appearing that there is no one in the county with the authority to govern types of buildings to be erected, the board, upon the motion of William P. Ames, adopted the following resolution, which will be submitted to the county board of supervisors: "That the county board of supervisors invest in the county engineer and zoning administrative officer authority to act as an engineer and inspector of the types of buildings to be erected in order that such improvements would be a step toward progress and improvement to the county."

A section of the adopted county zoning ordinance provides that garages be built 10 feet from the rear building line. The board, after much discussion, adopted the following resolution, offered by William P. Ames as an amendment to the zoning ordinance: "Wherever a recorded plat of a subdivision does not provide for an alley and where the garages on the abutting and adjoining property are now built with regard to the property line, any and all private garages may be built adjacent to the property line provided that the drip does not fall on adjoining property."
